PRESIDENT NEAR INFLATION AND GOLD CROSSING

Experts Advise Him to "Peg" Money.

BY JOHN BOETTIGER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 19.—[Special.]—At the cross roads between inflation and "sound money," with flames of propaganda and political influence on both sides driving him toward a decision, President Roosevelt, in a short time, will choose his path.

Whether he will start the printing presses and print a billion or two or three of paper money, or heed the pleas of gold backed currency, is the biggest news in Washington today. Upon his decision, the President has been told, rests largely the fate of his recovery program.

THE TRIBUNE is informed today that a committee of monetary experts, secretly formed by the President for the specific purpose of advising him in his choice, has presented a plan favoring immediate stabilization of American, British, French, and German currencies by a process of "pegging" them to each other. This committee has frowned upon radical inflation.

Try Pressure on President.

Opposed to the committee's judgment is a group of southern senators—Harrison of Mississippi, Thomas of Oklahoma, "Cotton Ed" Smith of South Carolina, Fletcher of Florida—aided by silver promoting Pittman of Nevada. This quintet, with the aid from some other leaders in both houses of congress, but chiefly from the cotton states, has been building a hot fire of political pressure and propaganda under the White House. They visit the President, and, using the visit as an excuse, make speeches to newspapermen in the White House press room, declaring that the fate of the country rests in a quick starting of the printing presses at the federal mint.

Senator Thomas has sent a round-robin telegram to every member of congress, asking him to reply if he favors immediate inflation of the currency, "so that your views may be laid before the President." It is a political build-up, and some of the President's advisers, regarding the actions of these Democratic senators, label them as disloyal to the President for using political pressure upon him, instead of scientific, mathematical and economic persuasion.

Want Inflation by October.

The southern senators want inflation by October. They say they want it at that time because it is best for the country. They do not stress the fact that the cotton marketing season is in October. They have brought a delegation of cotton men to Washington to demonstrate their inflation plea, as the B. E. F. demonstrated its bid for a bonus. Indeed, Senator Thomas today was reported organizing a great "march for inflation" upon the capital.

But these are not the only advocates of inflation, if they are the loudest. Some business leaders, one a noted banker, have declared that with the NRA and the agricultural program in its present crucial slump the President must resort to a controlled inflation in order to stimulate buying on a large scale.

The fear of these men, however, is that, once embarked on the inflation program, the politicians will insist upon keeping the printing presses rolling.

Advisers Divided.

The President's advisory committee on monetary matters is representative of several sides of the recovery program. Its members, it was learned today, include Secretary of the Treasury Woodin, Assistant Secretary Acheson, Gov. Black of the federal reserve board, Gov. Harrison of the federal reserve board of New York, George N. Peek, administrator of the farm recovery program; Lewis Douglas, director of the budget, and James Warburg of the New York banking family.

The committee has held secret meetings in New York in recent weeks, it was learned, and after full study of the problems made their first report to the President.

This report, as disclosed to THE TRIBUNE, proposed that the central banks in each of four nations—the federal reserve board, the Bank of England, the Bank of France, and the Reichsbank—enter into an agreement with each other to peg their currencies at fixed points.

Would Relax Credit.

This action, the committee declared, would restore order to international commerce and by easing the fears of investors in the United States would lead to relaxation of credit conditions.

During a temporary period, according to the plan, the currencies would

URSCHEL TELLS KIDNAP DETAILS FOR U. S. COURT

Oklahoma City, Sept. 19.—(AP)—Charles F. Urschel, oil millionaire, related from the witness stand in federal court here this afternoon the story of his nine days in the hands of kidnapers who collected $200,000 ransom. He pointed out Albert Bates, one of the 12 abductors on trial, as one of his abductors.

Bates and George Kelly, a fugitive from justice, were the men who carried machine guns into the Urschel home, it is charged.

At the outset of his testimony Urschel stepped from the witness chair and walked to within a pace of Bates, pointed at him and said:

"That's one of the men."

Bailey Gang Leader.

On trial with Bates are Harvey Bailey, southwestern desperado and gang leader; R. G. [Boss] Shannon, on whose farm near Paradise, Tex., the kidnapers held Urschel a prisoner; his wife, Ora Shannon, and son, Armon, 17 years old. There also are seven men from Minneapolis and St. Paul, Sam Kozberg, Isadore Blumenfield, Peter Valder, Clifford Skelly, Sam Kronich, Edward Berman, and Charles Wolk. They are charged with receiving part of the ranson. Kelly, is charged with assisting Bates in the actual abduction. His wife, Kathryn, indicted under the so-called "Lindbergh" federal kidnaping statutes, also is missing. The defendants face maximum sentences of life imprisonment if convicted.

Urschel Tells His Story.

With Herbert K. Hyde, United States district attorney, occasionally interposing a question, Urschel then began a full account of his every movement from the time he was hustled out of his home here on the night of July 22 until his safe return nine days later.

Urschel had been preceded by his wife and Mr. and Mrs. Walter R. Jarrett, guests at his home the night he was abducted. They also identified Bates, and Mrs. Jarrett identified a photograph of Kelly as Bates' gunman companion in the actual kidnaping.

Whereas the previous testimony stopped at or near the point where the two gunmen left the Urschel home, Urschel gave a detailed account of the long uncomfortable ride to the farm near Paradise, Tex., where he was held captive, his careful attempts to identify the place, and the dawn raid that resulted in the capture Aug. 12 of Harvey Bailey, alleged "master mind" in plotting the abduction, and three members of the R. G. Shannon family, who lived on the farm. Bates was arrested two days later in Denver.

Bates held his head high and eyed Urschel intently as the witness testified they had met before.

His Life Threatened.

Urschel then told of being driven to a point near Harrah, Okla., where his eyes were closed with adhesive tape.

"They told me I was not to hear or see anything on the trip and that if I did I'd never go home; they'd kill me.

"They had some chains in the car and mentioned giving me a hypodermic. The tape was very effective. I lost all sense of direction.

"Then we drove into a farmyard. They said they would have to change cars. I could hear them fooling with the license plates."

This presumably was the farm near Stratford, Okla., of T. W. Coleman, 72, where Coleman, his wife and others testified Bates and Kelly had spent several days before the kidnaping. They said Bates and Kelly came to the farm with "a kidnaped man," changed automobiles and departed.

He's Blindfolded Again.

"Meanwhile, they had changed my blindfold," Urschel continued. "They took off the big piece of adhesive tape, and made it a much neater job with smaller pieces. They put a panama hat on me. I wasn't noticeable."

"What did they do when you arrived at your destination?"

"We drove into a garage—they said it was about 2:30 p. m.—and they said we had arrived. I asked how far we had come, and they said about 300 or 350 miles. They kept me in the garage until after dark. Then they took me into the house."

"They gave me a sandwich and a cup of hot coffee," Urschel added.

"I couldn't sleep very well in the garage, on the car cushion.

"My ears were stuffed with cotton

JAIL 3 RUM RING SUSPECTS AFTER THREATS AT FAIR

Three men who are believed by the police to be members of a bootleg gang supplying liquor to concessions at the World's Fair were arrested last night in the Oriental Village on the Exposition grounds.

The men are Leonard Leon, 4665 Kenmore avenue, and Ben Morris, 3124 Franklin boulevard, owners of a restaurant in the Oriental Village, and Sol Graber, 724 Independence boulevard, said to be employed in the restaurant. They were locked up at the detective bureau.

An executive of the Hollywood concession, whose complaint led to the arrests, said Morris and Graber visited him Monday and demanded that he buy liquor from their ring. When he refused one of the men drew a revolver and threatened to "bump him off and blow up the joint," he said. When arrested Morris and Graber admitted visiting Hollywood, but denied making threats. They said Leon accompanied them, but he denied it. Leon reached toward a revolver in his pocket when police arrested him, but they seized him before he could draw it.

PRISONER FLEES BRIDEWELL AND TAKES A TRUCK

James Daly, 23 years old, of 818 Reba place, Evanston, a prisoner in the Bridewell, escaped shortly after 3 p. m. yesterday and early this morning was still at large.

This information was communicated to the Lawndale police shortly after midnight this morning with a request for aid in the search for the fugitive. John Novak, a deputy w...den at the Bridewell, told the police the report of the escape had been delayed because authorities had felt confident Daly would return. The report to the police gave the additional information that a Bridewell truck with which Daly had been sent out to collect refuse about the grounds disappeared with him.

Daly had served four months of a six months' sentence for petty larceny, according to P. J. McCarthy, a night guard, and was a trusty.

Many Made Ill by Arsenic Spray on Vegetables

Los Angeles, Cal., Sept. 19.—[Special.]—Illness of 17 patients at Los Angeles Convalescent home tonight was traced to arsenic spray used on green vegetables furnished the home, according to County Health Officer John L. Pomeroy. Nine other cases of vegetable spray poisoning were recorded in other parts of the city and county. A report by Food Inspector Kirkpatrick states that 100 persons have been similarly poisoned in the past six weeks.

O'Brien Wins, but Tammany Feels Conflict

Bankers are firm against further loans in conference at Gov. Lehman's New York home, as city is threatened with bankruptcy at any one of three pay days impending between the present and Nov. 7. Details on page 2.

New York, Sept. 19.—[Special.]—A significant upheaval of voters marked today's city and county primary election, sending shocks up the spines of the local bosses of both political parties.

Boss John F. Curry of Tammany Hall, aided by Boss John H. McCooey of Brooklyn and the lesser bosses of the lesser boroughs, was able to put over his mayoralty candidate, John F. O'Brien, but Tammany lost the controllership nomination. O'Brien will be opposed for mayor on Nov. 7 by F. H. La Guardia, for years a member of congress, now Republican fusion candidate for mayor.

The Tammany candidate for controller, John N. Harman of Brooklyn, was decisively beaten by Frank J. Prial, running as an independent Democrat.

Prial Gets Early Lead.

Returns from 3,500 of 3,734 precincts gave Prial 221,143 and Harman 144,812.

Prial's victory marked the first time in years that an independent had been able to break the Tammany slate. Prial's showing amounts to a slap in the face not only for Tammany but for Boss McCooey of Brooklyn.

In the early returns, Prial was running ahead in all five boroughs, excepting Manhattan. There the Tammany organization vote was too heavy to overcome. That he was leading in Brooklyn, however, indicated that McCooey is having his troubles in keeping the voters in line, with protest and revolt in the air. Prial for years had been deputy controller, but resigned recently when Tammany refused to designate him to succeed Charles W. Berry, who also resigned and declined to stand for renomination.

Both Prial and Berry have been open critics of Tammany.

G. O. P. Leader in Peril.

While Curry and McCooey were getting their lashing Boss Samuel Koenig of the country Republican organization apparently was going down to defeat. The voting hinged on the election of members of the Republican county committee, of which Koenig has been chairman for 22 years. Returns tabulated up to midnight established the election of more than one-half of the candidates pledged to support Chase Mellen Jr. and to oust Koenig.

Indications were that full returns, or shifts in attitude of elected committeemen, would insure the downfall of Koenig, regarded as a friend of Tammany.

There are 2,964 Republican county committeemen in Manhattan. Returns at midnight showed that Koenig had elected only 999 and the Mellen forces 1,415.

Dr. Butler Is Defeated.

The force of the anti-Koenig movement was such that in the 13th assembly district Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia university, running for county committeeman and pledged to Mr. Koenig, was beaten four to one.

The uprising against Mr. Koenig has been brewing and getting stronger for several years. The Hoover wing of the party has been particularly active against Koenig.

In the Democratic primary some solace was obtained by Boss Curry in the vote given Mayor O'Brien, who is filling out the unexpired term of former Mayor James J. Walker.

O'Brien was leading his nearest opponent, Congressman Loring M. Black Jr. of Brooklyn, by about 3 to 1.

Returns from all but 294 of 3,794 precincts gave O'Brien, 257,760; Black, 89,060.

Cheer Hoover as He Arrives for Fair Visit

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

Former President Herbert Hoover and Mrs. Hoover received a warm welcome in Chicago late yesterday when they arrived from California to visit A Century of Progress for a few days.

When the Overland Limited pulled in at 4:40 p. m., seven hours late because of a train wreck near Gibbon, Neb., the concourse at the North Western station was crowded. As in old presidential days, the Hoovers walked through cheering crowds to the accompaniment of flashlights from a battery of photographers. They were taken at once to the home of Arch W. Shaw, a friend of pre-presidential days, in Winnetka, and expect to spend most of today at the Exposition grounds.

Objects to Salute at Fair.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Hoover were in holiday mood and smiled and joked as they met old friends on the platform. Mr. Hoover had nothing to say on political affairs. He has given himself a year of silence on this. When asked if he would accept the presidential salute of 21 guns when he enters the Fair grounds today, he at once shook his head.

"No," he said emphatically. "I am just a common garden variety of American citizen come to see the Chicago Fair. I expect to spend four or five days here."

However, Mr. Hoover is not to have his wish to be received as a private citizen.

The army and the Exposition officials have their own views as to how a former President should be received. When he walks into the grounds at 11 o'clock this morning all the world will know about it.

He will arrive at the 14th street entrance without motorcycle escort [which he also refused yesterday on his trip to Winnetka].

Salute of 21 Guns to Boom.

He will be met by the cavalry from Camp John Whistler, drawn up in their shining array, and the salute of 21 guns will boom over the city. All the other troops will be drawn up inside the court to receive him.

These arrangements were announced last night after V. Grant Smith, protocol officer of the Exposition, had had a conference with Mr. Hoover, who had agreed to reverse his decision as to the salute.

The only difference between the reception accorded to a President and one given to the former President is that the national anthem is played for the President while a march is played for the former President.

After the formal reception Mr. Hoover will be escorted by President Rufus C. Dawes to the presidential office in the Administration building for a reception.

Boat Circuit of Lagoon.

He will be taken on a boat ride on the lagoon and on an auto tour through the grounds. Whether he will then be permitted to escape to his rôle of private citizen and see the Fair in quiet is not known.

The first to greet him was Lawrence Richey, his former secretary at the White House and for many years his confidential man. Mr. Richey, who now represents Stanford university in Washington, in the work of collecting material for the Hoover war library, came on from Washington at the invitation of "the chief," so that they could see the Fair together. The Hoover war library, he said, now consists of more than five million documents and is becoming an invaluable source of material for students and historians.

Jokes New on Having a Job.

Harry S. New, United States commissioner at the Exposition, was on hand to extend the courtesies of the federal commission.

"I am surprised to see you still holding a job," said Mr. Hoover, with smiling allusion to the Democratic

NEW MEXICO AND IDAHO JOIN TO MAKE TOTAL 31

Only Five Others Needed Now.

Two more states—New Mexico and Idaho—voted yesterday for repeal of the 18th amendment. They made the thirtieth and thirty-first states which turned against prohibition. No state has defeated the 21st amendment, which kills the 18th amendment out of the constitution. Thirty-six states are needed to end prohibition. Eight more states will vote by Nov. 7.

Boise, Idaho, Sept. 19.—(AP)—A safe margin against prohibition appeared in Idaho tonight as approximately two-thirds of the state's precincts reported returns from the election on the proposal to ratify repeal of the eighteenth amendment.

The vote from 41 of the 44 counties of the state, many of them virtually complete, stood: For repeal, 47,072; against, 34,638.

Harry S. Kessler, Boise, a member of the state council of the Idaho allied drys, conceded at 9:10 p. m. that Idaho had voted against the eighteenth amendment.

Points to Great Odds.

"Idaho has made a wonderful showing," Kessler said after conceding defeat, "considering all the odds against the drys and with a dry organization less than 90 days old and fighting virtually without funds against an organization that had been covering the state for more than two years and abundantly financed.

"The farming sections of the state show overwhelming majorities, and just as soon as the people have returned to their normal poise Idaho will be back in the dry column with its old true majority."

Flays Farley's Message.

Referring to a message sent several days ago by Postmaster General Farley urging Gov. Ross to encourage the repeal cause Kessler said:

"Had Mr. Farley spoken a few weeks earlier the majority would have been dry today."

He said "much resentment" grew out of efforts of the administration leader to "coerce the state."

The widest margin of any county reporting was that of Franklin county, giving 1,946 against repeal to 454 for repeal. It is a southeastern Idaho county settled in the early days by members of the Latter Day Saints church from Utah.

Renewed encouragement was taken by prohibitionists when 11 precincts from Twin Falls county, which contains the city of Twin Falls, one of the largest in the state, gave a slight margin against repeal. The vote was 1,463 against repeal to 1,454 for repeal.

Canyon county, largely rural, gave 1,500 votes against repeal to 934 for repeal from approximately one-fourth of its precincts.

Vote on State Law Later.

Ada county, in which is situated the capital city of Boise, gave 5,437 votes for repeal to 3,870 against on incomplete returns from 30 of its 38 precincts.

The election today was confined to the question of repeal of federal prohibition. At the next general election in November, 1934, voters will pass on repeal of the state prohibition amendment.

Today's verdict will be officially cast at a convention here Oct. 17, to be made up of 21 delegates. Two sets of delegates, nominated by petition, were voted for throughout the state.

Wets Win Two Battles.

Albuquerque, N. M., Sept. 19.—(AP)—Dry leaders tonight conceded that New Mexico has nailed her repeal banner to the national mast.

"We have lost the battle but not the war," said Dr. George W. Hammond, superintendent of the New Mexico Anti-Saloon league as returns from 193 of 785 precincts showed a repealist lead of more than three to one.

The vote was 25,021 for repeal of the 18th amendment and 7,438 against.

With returns from 212 precincts the vote to repeal the state dry amendment was 21,420 for and 10,022 against.

"The results of this election, not only in this state but in other states, are due largely to the high handed methods of our national administration to coerce the people to vote for repeal," Dr. Hammond said.

Repealists, one whom was Gov. Arthur Seligman, were jubilant and predicted the majority may be greater than four to one.

Local option and repeal of the bone dry liquor section of the state constitution, which prevented sale of medicinal liquor, or flavoring extracts, or anything containing alcohol, were carrying votes of from 3 to 2, to as high as 7 to 1.

Wet Victory In Courts.

Phoenix, Ariz., Sept. 19.—(AP)—The Arizona supreme court today dismissed an appeal from a Maricopa county superior court decision refusing to issue to Charles R. Osburn, Arizona temperance worker, an injunction to stay Arizona's election on repeal of the 18th amendment.

The election was held Aug. 8 and the state voted more than two to one for repeal. The proposed twenty-first amendment was formally ratified at a state convention Sept. 5.

The Supreme court made no comment in dismissing Osburn's appeal, simply sustaining the attorney general's motion for dismissal, in which he contended all questions involved were "moot" because the acts Osburn sought to restrain had been committed.

Reversal of the lower court's decision, unofficial legal opinion had held, would have invalidated the election and the convention's action.

BREWERS ASK SUPPORT

New York, Sept. 19.—[Special.]—New York brewers today opened a drive in close coöperation with the state alcoholic beverage control board to purge the beer industry of racketeering. Brewers struck their first blow to keep the industry clean of the taint of the racketeer through the advertising columns of the newspapers.

In prominent advertisements captioned "to law abiding citizens from law abiding brewers," the brewers board of trade said:

"Newspaper reports indicate that the distribution of beer is, in some instances, in the hands of the lawless element which controlled it during the days of prohibition."

The advertisements urged all persons with knowledge of beer racketeering to communicate with the police, the state beer authorities, or the brewers' organization.

ILLINOIS BOARD TO MEET.

The state liquor control commission will resume its public hearings at 7:30 o'clock this evening in room 537 of the county building. Witnesses scheduled to appear include Adolph Weiner of the United Societies, Dr. Robert Wahl and Dr. Max Henius of the American Brewing institute, Maurice L. Ross Jr., president of the Old Rose Distilling company; W. E. Hull of Peoria, former distiller and dry voting congressman; Ernest Byfield and Walter L. Gregory of the Chicago Hotel association, and representatives of the Cook County Retail Fermented Beverage Dealers' association.

U. S. REFUSES TO RETURN CAPONE FOR RACKET TRIAL

The federal department of justice at Washington yesterday refused to return Al Capone, former gangland czar, for trial in the Criminal court here on a racketeering indictment. Word of the refusal reached the state's attorney's office soon after a hearing on a petition for a writ of habeas corpus to bring Capone back was continued to Oct. 20 by Chief Justice Philip L. Sullivan at the request of the prosecutor.

Although the federal action was based on a technicality, officials of the department of justice said privately that State's Attorney Courtney "would do well to leave well enough alone." The government authorities say that it would be "risky business" to bring Capone from the Atlanta prison, where he is serving a 11 year sentence for income tax dodging.

Others indicted along with Capone are Murray Humphries, gang leader and Capone's successor as public enemy No. 1; Attorney Aaron Sapiro, and Dr. Benjamin F. Squires, former "czar" of the cleaning and dyeing industry in the Chicago area.

The request for Capone was based on the original racketeering indictment. A new indictment was returned to correct technical errors. Because no formal request for Capone's return was made in connection with the second indictment, government officials denied the extradition request.

Horse Has a Right to One Bite, Judge Holds

Municipal Judge Howard Hayes held yesterday that a horse, like a dog, is entitled to one bite during his lifetime. He continued until Oct. 18 the charges made against John Jackson, Negro peddler, who was accused of keeping a vicious animal. Charles Sarsone, 523 North Curtis street, charged that Jackson's horse bit him. The judge said he would dismiss the case if Jackson paid Sarsone's hospital bill.

Asks NRA Headquarters to Get Her a Good Husband

Portland, Ore., Sept. 19.—(AP)—A letter received at NRA headquarters here from a Huntington, W. Va., woman read: "Please send me the names of two reliable men who would make good husbands, and I wish to correspond with them with matrimonial intentions." A dime was inclosed.

"How well he looks," was the general comment.

"He has the old smile," said those who had known him before the White House era.

Mr. Hoover looked rested and at ease with the world. His hair is grayer than when he entered the White House, but his face is still round and the lines of weariness and worry have passed away.

Asks About Farm Conditions.

During the trip across the country Mr. Hoover questioned those who sought to interview him. He wanted to know about farm conditions and whether the farmers were taking advantage of the federal farm loans.

"I am not discussing any national issues," was his response to all inquiries about the NRA or other topics.

His train was delayed in Nebraska by a blockade due to the collision of two freight trains.

In his home in Palo Alto he is interested in the work of the war library and in the water problem as it has developed in California. He has spent much time along the rivers of the central valley and in the irrigation districts and is studying the condition of the farmers. He is also interested in the political situation in California, where Senator Hiram Johnson, who accepted the support of the Hoover Republican organization in 1928 and then turned to the aid of Mr. Roosevelt in the last election, is facing the question of his reelection next year. Senator Johnson has been offered the Democratic nomination. If he does not accept it and the Democrats run a good man his defeat is said to be probable in view of the attitude of the Hoover Republican group.

Mr. Hoover's decision to come to the Exposition was rather sudden, as he had previously planned an automobile trip into Oregon and Washington.

Persecuted, His Friends Say.

His friends are anxious to learn the source of attacks upon him which, to their minds, bear the marks of persecution. One of the latest was an effort to embarrass him in the Detroit bank hearings on the reading into the record there of a statement attributed to Mr. Hoover in which the investors in mining stocks are referred to as the prey of the promoters. The article, it is said by Mr. Hoover's friends, was written by Mr. Hoover as a lampoon for the benefit of a mining journal, intended as a joke and so understood by all mining men. In this hearing it made him appear as a cold blooded promoter.

Mr. Richey, who knows everybody in Washington and who has a faculty of getting information will be able to tell his chief what the situation in Washington really is.

66 Per Cent of Population for Repeal

In the thirty-one states which up to and including yesterday have voted on the wet-dry issue (all voting for repeal) there was 66 per cent or practically two-thirds of the population of the United States. Five more states for repeal will knock out the eighteenth amendment.

The popular vote on repeal in twenty-eight of the thirty-one states was 10,983,812 for repeal and 3,550,600 against it. In the two states that voted yesterday the total popular vote is not yet obtainable; in Nevada the vote is not announced, though all the delegates elected were for repeal. The figures to date:

REEVES RESIGNS AS CORPS CHIEF OF CRUSADERS

Col. Ira L. Reeves yesterday submitted his resignation as manager of the western corps area of the Crusaders, anti-prohibition organization, to J. Russell Forgan and Seymour Wheeler, commanders of the area. The resignation is to take effect immediately.

"I name Sept. 19 as the date of my resignation," wrote Col. Reeves, "for the reason that by that time all of the states under the jurisdiction of the second corps area [25 western states] which have set dates for holding repeal elections in 1933 will have voted, with the exception of Utah. Utah will hold its election on Nov. 7. We have that state well organized and I am confident that it also will vote for repeal.

"There has been considerable talk about the Crusaders taking a new line of activities, such as assisting in the fight against racketeering, etc. While that is a most laudable thought, I doubt very much whether an organization such as the Crusaders, which has been aggressive and militant in attacking a single objective, can suddenly turn its efforts to attacking another. Such switching of activities would, in my opinion, strike the public as an effort to continue in the interests of perpetuating, or at least temporarily continuing, salaried positions."

NEW YORK GOING BANKRUPT; BANKS REFUSE TO HELP

Governor Tries in Vain to Aid City.

New York, Sept. 19.—[Special.]—The gravity of New York city's financial plight was the subject of a prolonged conference between Gov. Herbert H. Lehman and a group of leading Wall street bankers at the governor's home on Park avenue this afternoon.

The city is asking the financiers to lend it some 72 million dollars in addition to its already heavy outstanding obligations, to stave off bankruptcy which threatens to overtake it on any one of three city pay days between now and Nov. 7, election day. So far the bankers have been adamant.

Late last month the state staved off the impending crash by advancing some 5 million dollars from the state treasury at Albany — money which would have been due the city later on as an educational fund allowance —and this enabled the administration to "get by" the Sept. 1 payday.

New Crises Arrive.

Now a series of fresh crises are coming on, some 25 million dollars worth of short term certificates are falling due along with the pay days, and the situation has reached a stage that all concerned admit to be desperate.

In summoning the bankers to talk over the situation with him, the governor stressed the point that he was "without legal power to interfere in the making of the city budget" and warned that he could not pledge the legislature to enact any special legislation of a remedial nature.

He said, however, that he hoped to contribuate his "wide knowledge" of city finance and administration as well as his wide banking experience to the conference, and intimated that he was hopeful of worth while results.

The city was represented at the conference by Mayor O'Brien, Samuel Untermyer, and George McAnneny, who had been appointed controller until Jan. 1 by the mayor just before the meeting convened. The banking group cluded heads of the big banks and of the Morgan company and counsel for the Clearing House association.

Proposes More New Taxes.

Prior to the conference Samuel Untermyer, voluntary financial dictator, sent a letter to the board of estimate proposing three brand new taxes, designed to raise some $6,000,000 in addition to the levies voted last week.

The new taxes proposed are:

A substantial charge by building departments to cover the costs of services performed for owners and contractors in connection with construction and alteration of buildings.

A tax on electric signs and marquees extending beyond building lines.

A moderate tax on billboards.

In addition to these three new taxes Mr. Untermyer proposed to the board to increase the penalty for tax arrears from 7 to 10 per cent, except for property owners who settle up within thirty days, for whom the penalty might be remitted, in whole or part.

Some $187,000,000 is now due in unpaid taxes, and how to go about the collection of this huge amount, or any considerable sum of it, is one of the city's big problems in the current situation.

BANK LOANS LEGAL ON WAREHOUSE PAPER CALLING FOR WINES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 19.—[Special.]—Banks today were given permission to finance the wholesale manufacture of liquor, preparatory to repeal.

Attorney General Homer S. Cummings handed down a decision declaring that a bank which made a loan secured by warehouse receipts for liquor was not violating the national prohibition act. Officials in charge of liquor control predicted that the decision would open bank credit for wineries and distillers and start the rebuilding of the American liquor business.

The question of bank loans was submitted to Cummings by Dr. James M. Doran, commissioner of industrial alcohol, on behalf of grape raisers who are endeavoring to persuade wineries to take over their crop. In this connection they sought a ruling which would open up bank credit for their prospective buyers, the winemakers of the country.

Cummings decided that if the warehouse receipt showed clearly that "the bank or othe lender shall have no power or authority to possess or use the wine in any manner, or to dispose of it, or to transfer the warehouse receipts, upon foreclosure or otherwise, except to bonafide permit holders," the transaction would not violate the national dry law.

FORCES OF VARE ARE THE VICTORS IN PHILADELPHIA

Philadelphia, Sept. 19.—(AP)—In one of the most bitterly contested primary election in years, the powerful organization of National Committeeman William S. Vare, on the face of unofficial returns, today apparently captured every Republican nomination for the so called "row officers"—choicest of the city's political plums.

In putting over his own slate, however, Vare was forced to abandon his asserted political ally, John O'Donnell, veteran chairman of the Democratic city committee, whose candidates on the basis of incomplete figures were running about three to one back of those indorsed by a newly organized independent group whose election slogan was, "Have you had enough of Vare?"

In the past, every time O'Donnell's political life has been threatened, the Republican organization reputedly came to the rescue by registering enough Republicans as Democrats to swamp the few thousand regularly registered Democrats.

The hand of Gov. Pinchot was visible in some battles. Two of his Philadelphia aids, S. Davis Wilson and Will Hadley, were successful in winning Democratic nominations for controller and city treasurer, respectively, though defeated on the Republican ballot.

BOGAN PRAISES EFFICIENCY OF SCHOOL OPENING

Commends Teachers and Pupils Alike.

Predictions by the "Save Our Schools" committee that the opening of the schools under the new economy and reorganization program would result in endless confusion were answered yesterday by a formal statement from Superintendent Bogan, who reported that the new system had been installed with exceptional quiet and efficiency.

"The most extensive transfer of pupils in the history of the Chicago schools was made on Monday without serious friction or disturbances," said Superintendent Bogan. "Many people expected that the conversion of 29 junior high schools into senior high schools, elementary schools and branches, involving the transfer of 50,000 pupils, would result in terrible confusion.

A Quiet Opening Day.

"Everywhere, however, pupils and teachers adapted themselves to the new conditions promptly and intelligently. The result was a quiet opening day. One district superintendent reported not a single complaint from any of the 80 schools in his district.

"For years the schools have been teaching the fundamentals of good citizenship. The discipline of the pupils under these trying conditions is evidence that this teaching is bearing fruit.

"In a few places agitators attempted to take advantage of the chance to make trouble for the local school authorities, but nowhere did they receive encouragement.

"For example, a group of young communists who invaded McKinley High school were promptly routed by the regular students.

"At Harper High school four soapbox orators were corralled by local school officials, given a lecture calling attention to the severe provisions of the truancy law affecting not only pupils who make trouble but their parents, and returned to their classrooms. Elsewhere threats of action by students were met by calling attention to the law providing a heavy fine for interrupting or disturbing schools while in session."

Act to Prosecute Disturbers.

Reports were made to the educational department yesterday that young communists were attempting to foment a strike among high school students. Preparations were immediately begun to handle the situation through prosecution under both the criminal code and the school law.

In this connection the criminal code states: "Whoever wilfully interrupts or disturbs any school or other assembly of people, met for a lawful purpose, shall be fined not exceeding $100."

In regard to the duties of parents of school children the school law provides that any person having custody or control of a child between the ages of 7 and 16 years who shall fail to comply with the statute on truancy shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor. A person convicted of the misdemeanor is subject to a fine of not less than $5 nor more than $20 and the cost of the trial.

Plan to Adjust Boundaries.

Superintendent Bogan announced following a conference with the 34 high school principals that senior students in high school who will graduate in February will be permitted to attend the school to which they went last year even though the reorganization has placed their homes in another high school district.

The new boundaries, he added, are being studied, and will be adjusted to correct situations in which some schools have too heavy a pupil load.

The transfers of pupils caused some inconvenience in certain sections of the city, but principals told officials of the educational department that the better housing program of the board of education should be operating smoothly before the week is out.

In some of the grade schools it was found that seats would have to be rearranged to accommodate the influx of seventh and eighth grade pupils from the junior high schools.

Night Classes Started.

The night schools, offering courses mainly for day workers and the foreign born, have already started classes. Registration will continue in this branch of instruction for two weeks.

The enrollment in all branches of the public schools totaled 470,117 at the end of the second day of registration. It was divided as follows: Elementary pupils, 339,304; high schools, 114,783; night schools, 13,660; Chicago Normal college, 1,810, and the Washburne Continuation school, 560.

ROOSEVELT AND AID RACE TO SEE WHICH WILL GET WELL FIRST

Washington, D. C., Sept. 19.—(AP)—A White House race is on—a race between President Roosevelt and Marvin H. McIntyre, one of his secretaries, to see who will get well and return to his desk first.

Last week Mr. Roosevelt insisted that "Mac" go to the naval hospital and take a brief rest to correct an intestinal disorder resulting from nervous exhaustion.

On Monday the President found himself taking orders from a naval physician to stay at home and nurse a slight cold.

So he promptly sent a challenge to "Mac" that he would beat him back to the executive office desk. "Mac" said he was willing to enter the race if the President wouldn't issue any executive orders to his doctors.

Mr. Roosevelt declared it an open race. He is counting on getting back to his desk tomorrow. "Mac" says he will be back before Friday at the latest.

KITTLE'S WIDOW SEEKS A DIVORCE FROM 3D HUSBAND

Mrs. Jane Dabney Mitchell, who inherited more than $1,000,000 from her second husband, the late Charles M. Kittle, president of Sears, Roebuck & Co., filed suit for divorce yesterday in the Superior court against Leon W. Mitchell. She charged him with adultery.

Mrs. Mitchell now lives on an estate outside Rock Island, but she says in her bill that she is a permanent resident of Chicago. She formerly lived at 209 Lake Shore drive. Mitchell, her bill charges, committed adultery in Rock Island on May 15, Aug. 26 and Sept. 16 with one Mary Smith.

Mrs. Mitchell asks no alimony, but demands that Mitchell be barred from any dower interest in her property. Judge Rudolph F. Desort granted her an injunction restraining Mitchell from removing any of the furnishings from her home near Rock Island, after she had testified that the furniture was her property.

Mrs. Mitchell was formerly hostess in the Blackstone hotel and the New Imperial hotel in Tokio. She divorced her first husband, who was Fontaine Fox, the cartoonist. Her second husband, Mr. Kittle, died in 1928, leaving an estate then valued at more than $2,000,000 to be divided equally between his widow and their son, Charles Markham Kittle, who is now 10 years old.

The Mitchells were married in Joliet in 1930.

Try Fever Machine Today on Sleep Sickness Patient

A new effort to revive Patricia Maguire, 28 years old, 523 Clarence avenue, Oak Park, who has been in a coma for nineteen months as a result of sleeping sickness, will be tried out today. She will be placed in an electrical fever producing machine at 8 o'clock this morning, where she will remain for eight hours. Her physician, Dr. Eugene Traut, will administer as many of the eight hour treatments as are necessary in an effort to restore her to consciousness. The machine, a large boxlike affair, completely enveloping all except the patient's head, was installed in the Maguire home Monday.

CLEWS SOUGHT TO MYSTERIOUS PARK SLAYING

Insurance Man's Death Is Called Murder.

The police last evening were investigating the mysterious circumstances surrounding the death of Harry Retsky, 50 years old, 1857 South Komensky avenue, a salesman for the Metropolitan Life Insurance company. Retsky's body, with a bullet in the head, was found in Douglas park yesterday morning. The investigation was ordered by a coroner's jury which decided that Retsky had been murdered.

Retsky had been shot in the right temple at such close range that his face and hair were burned by the gunpowder, but the pistol was not found. Across his forehead was a line such as might have been made by a bloody hatband, but there was no hat near the body. Relatives asserted at the inquest that if Retsky had shot himself he would have fired the bullet into his left temple, since he was left handed.

Body Found in Shrubbery.

The body, when found by two West Park policemen, lay in a clump of shrubbery near Ogden and California avenues. It was stretched at full length on several sheets of a newspaper which evidently had been laid out with care. There was no sign of a struggle near the spot, and the indications were, police said, that Retsky had been slain elsewhere and carried to the park.

Mrs. Shirley Retsky, the widow, and Max Schwartz, her brother, who resides at the Retsky home, said that Retsky had telephoned to them at 8 o'clock Monday evening. He said he would be home within 40 minutes, they testified. During the conversation Mrs. Retsky persuaded her husband to come home to dinner rather than wait until she could join him in the loop, she said.

Record Good, Superior Says.

She said that their domestic relationship had been of the happiest and asserted that her husband's finances were in good shape. This was verified by Charles Friedman, assistant manager of the insurance company, who was Retsky's immediate superior.

West Park Policemen Cecil Vigdor and Vincent Morgan, who found the body, suggested that Retsky had shot himself, and that a vagrant might have picked up the gun before the policemen arrived. They said that none of Retsky's papers had been disturbed and that $8 and a watch were in his pockets.

The coroner's jury, however, rejected this explanation and directed a full investigation.

SPENDS $33,994 ON CHAPLIN BOYS; ACTOR CALLS IT EXCESSIVE

Los Angeles, Cal., Sept. 19.—(AP)—Support and care of the two young sons of Charlie Chaplin, film comedian, cost $33,994 in the past 22 months, his divorced wife, Lita Grey Chaplin, reported today in her fifth annual accounting of her custody of the children.

Attorneys for Chaplin immediately filed exceptions, charging that the expenditures were excessive. A hearing on the dispute will be held in Superior court later.

Mrs. Chapin reported that $16,841.54 was required for support of Charles Jr., 8, and $17,153.08 for Sidney Earl, 7.

One of the items was $686.25 for guard protection of the boys at home and traveling.

MAYOR ORDERS A PAY DAY FOR CITY EMPLOYES

Mayor Kelly yesterday ordered the payment of city employés, including those of the vehicle fund, water bureau and tuberculosis sanitarium, for the first half of June. The pay rolls amount to about $1,900,000.

With this pay day, a new system of identification for city employés will be inaugurated. Every employé will be given an identification card by the head of his department, which he must present at the controller's office in order to get his check.

As the pay roll was being prepared, City Controller Upham was investigating the disappearance from his office of eleven blank pay roll checks. The serial numbers of the missing checks are known, and banks were warned against cashing them.

Later, it was discovered that one of the stolen checks, made out for $150 with forged signatures, had been cashed by a loop department store.

New York, Sept. 19.—[Special.]—A man leaped from the lower observatory on the 86th floor of the Empire State building and lived. He landed one story below on the only extension balcony on the building. Had he missed the balcony he would have fallen more than 800 feet to a setback on the 21st floor.

Olga Menn Is Robbed by Youthful Purse Snatcher

Miss Olga Menn, 2350 Lincoln Park West, reported to police yesterday that a boy about 16 years old snatched her purse as she was walking in front of 2336 Commonwealth avenue. The purse contained $2, a check for $2,527 and 100 shares of Mandel Brothers stock, valued at $650.

HOPE FOR COURT ACTION TO WIN TRANSIT MERGER

Wilkerson Calls Head of Surface Lines.

Mayor Kelly's initiative in starting action last Sunday to compel the city's local transportation interests to "quit stalling" on the transit reorganization plan brought a promise of results yesterday. It was indicated that Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson, who has jurisdiction over both the surface and elevated lines in receiverships, would seek the appointment of a new citizens' committee to bring about the speedy acceptance of a financial reorganization.

Such a committee, headed by James Simpson, who since has taken over the direction of the former Insull utilities, was successful in promoting the basic reorganization plan embodied in the transit ordinance that was approved at public referendum three years ago.

New Accord Necessary.

Now it appears that a new accord of all the committees of transit bondholders will be necessary before the ordinance is accepted by the companies. The ordinance provides for the consolidation of the surface and elevated lines into one company which would spend $200,000,000 on extensions and improvements of service over a ten year period.

Several weeks ago Judge Wilkerson, informed of the failure of the fifteen transit bondholders' committees to settle their differences, appointed a committee consisting of Melvin A. Traylor, A. W. Harris, and D. F. Kelly to try to bring the various groups into agreement.

This committee failed to make a report to the court Monday, as had been scheduled. It then became known that the committee had been unable to reach an agreement.

Judge Calls Richardson.

As a result of this failure Judge Wilkerson yesterday phoned Guy A. Richardson, head of the Chicago Surface lines, to confer with him before the end of the week. Neither Judge Wilkerson nor Mr. Richardson would discuss the subject of the conference, but officials familiar with the situation said the conference would result in some sort of quick action.

The receivers for the elevated lines, Britton I. Budd and Col. A. A. Sprague, have already indicated their willingness to go ahead with the reorganization plan, especially in reference to the immediate establishment of universal transfer privileges.

The time limit for acceptance of the reorganization plan expires on the first of next January. It is feared that the whole project, which involves the construction of 300 miles of street car and trolley bus extensions and 65 miles of elevated line extensions as well as other improvements, will lapse unless immediate steps are taken.

Meeting Plans Go Forward.

Mayor Kelly and Ald. James B. Bowler, chairman of the local transportation committee of the city council, went ahead yesterday preparing for the council committee meeting scheduled for Sept. 27. Heads of the transit companies have been invited to the meeting to tell what they have done and what they intend to do in the way of carrying out the unified traction plan.

They will be requested to take steps to bring about the immediate establishment of the transfer system between the surface lines and the elevated.

During the day Mayor Kelly disclosed the results of a technical survey showing that, should the interchangable transfer system be put in effect, the increased revenue accruing to the companies would be $1,000 a day at least. This revenue, the survey indicated, would be derived from thousands of riders who would pay an additional 3 cents to transfer from street cars to elevated trains to save time.

"The transit question must be settled," declared Mayor Kelly. "Since it isn't the people's fault that it hasn't been settled, we are going to use every arm of the city government in every direction to push it through to a conclusion."

Richardson Defends Lines.

Mr. Richardson defended the transit companies from any blame for the delay in the working out of a financial reorganization plan. He declared that a number of circumstances, including the receivership of the elevated lines and changed economic conditions, were responsible. He said the whole plan is in the hands of the bondholders' committees.

He asserted further that the surface lines have shown good faith by building 62 miles of track and trolley bus extension involving an expenditure of $3,500,000 over a two year period, following the public's approval of the transit ordinance.

"We even carried all our employés during the depression, and at times we had 4,000 more than were necessary," Mr. Richardson said. "We paid in general taxes for 1931 the sum of $3,500,000 in spite of decreasing revenue, and we pay to the city $1,000 a day for cleaning the streets. In addition we pave the street car trackage area and maintain it.

"We feel that we have dealt more than fairly with the public and with the city."

Berwyn Backs Mayor Kelly.

The Berwyn city council last night voted its approval of the campaign of Mayor Kelly and Ald. Bowler for universal transfers. The council also recommended that local car companies in the western suburbs be included in a "one fare to the downtown section" program. A committee was appointed to get the coöperation of Oak Park and Cicero in promoting a unified transportation system with Chicago.

FORMER CHICAGOAN IS HELD IN LOS ANGELES ON VAGRANCY CHARGE

Los Angeles, Cal., Sept. 19.—[Special.—Harry Voller, ex-convict and former owner of Chicago cabarets, today was seized by police on one of the new "conspiracy to become a vagrant" warrants with which Los Angeles county authorities are seeking to free the city's streets of men known to possess criminal records. The police said that Voller was a "Chicago hoodlum."

HARRY VOLLER.

When arrested Voller was in company of William Duffy, manager of Primo Carnera, heavyweight boxing champion. He was taken to jail and his bond set at $50,000 pending a hearing in the Criminal court. Friends of the prisoner informed police that Jack Dempsey had agreed to furnish the bond.

Voller at one time was owner of the Sunset café, a black and tan night club in Chicago. Later he opened the Planet Mars, a loop cabaret which was closed by prohibition agents in December, 1931. He was also a manager for Texas Guinan, night club hostess. While she was appearing at the Green Mill café in March, 1930, Voller shot and wounded one of the café owners during a quarrel over rent. The man recovered and no charges were pressed against him. Voller served a term in a Michigan penitentiary for robbery in 1918.

DAY'S LIBERTY MAY COST HIM YEARS IN CELL

Fugitive from Ohio Prison Captured Here.

Emmett Bock may have to pay with many years of his life for a single day of freedom. It depends on whether justice in Ohio is merciful or harsh.

Bock is now 34 years old. As a child he lived at Libertyville and attended school there. When he grew up he became a structural steel worker and in 1927 went to Lima, O., to work at his trade.

There he and a companion broke into a cleaning establishment one night and stole a few suits of clothes. On Jan. 13, 1928, under the name of Thomas Malone, he was sentenced to the state prison at Columbus to serve from five to fifteen years for burglary.

According to his own statements, Bock saved the lives of a dozen other inmates trapped in their cells when the penitentiary caught fire. As a reward he was sent to the state honor farm at London and a movement was started to have him paroled or pardoned.

Escapes from Honor Farm.

But on Dec. 14, 1930, just 24 hours before he would have been released on parole—he didn't know it then—Bock climbed over a fence and ran away. Nothing more was heard of "Thomas Malone" until yesterday when the police found him in his humble home at 11615 Stewart avenue.

They had been directed there by an erstwhile friend of the ex-convict, who readily admitted his identity and said he would waive extradition.

"I'll go back," he continued, "and face the music. I suppose under the law they can make me serve as much as 12 years, or the rest of my full sentence. Ever since I got out I have gone straight and I believe they'll let me go in a short time."

The Ohio prison authorities notified the police that they would send at once for Emmett Bock, alias Malone, and lock him up again.

Wife Stands by Him.

At his little flat yesterday afternoon Mrs. Bock sat holding her 6 months old daughter and wondered where their next meal was coming from. Whatever happened, she said, she was going to stick with her husband.

"There was never a better man," she said. "We've had a hard time since I married him two years ago, but he did his best. He had work until a few weeks ago and we have never applied to the relief funds for help. But we are poor, so poor we haven't even a bed. We slept on the floor.

"I know the man who turned him up to the police. His name is McDermott and he's on the relief. Emmett told him about his escape and I guess McDermott knew there was a $50 reward for his arrest."

BANKERS REPLY TO CRITICISM ON STINTED CREDIT

Answer Administration Orators' Charges.

BY JOHN BOETTIGER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 19.—[Special.]—Twelve leading bankers of the nation today administered a polite but forceful rebuke to the high government officials who have charged the banks with refusing to expand credit.

Addressing their remarks to the governor and members of the federal reserve board, the bankers aimed their remarks at Jesse Jones, chairman of the Reconstruction Finance corporation; J. F. T. O'Connor, controller of the currency, and Walter Cummings, assistant secretary of the treasury, who have been speechmaking of late on the subject of the President's credit expansion program.

Mr. Roosevelt has not publicly criticized the bankers, but his efforts to force credit upon industry are credited with the oratorical efforts of his subordinates.

Banker Group Also Official.

The reply on behalf of American bankers was made today by the federal advisory council, created by statute, to guide the members of the federal reserve board. The council is made up of one leading and representative banker from each of the twelve federal reserve districts. Walter W. Smith, president of the First National bank of St. Louis, is president of the council, and Melvin Traylor, president of the First National bank of Chicago, is vice president.

While the bankers, in a formal statement issued to the press, touched only upon the defense of the banks from the charge of constricting credit it was learned that in their two day conferences with the reserve board members they had been most outspoken in criticism of some of the administration's financial tactics.

The Bankers' Statement.

The statement of the council, made by Mr. Smith, follows:

"Banks are being unfairly and widely criticized on the presumption that they are refusing to make loans. Banks can only make expenses and profits by lending money, and most banks have a substantial amount of unused funds.

"It should be remembered that the money to be loaned is the property of depositors. However, banks must be in a position to meet the demands of their depositors from time to time.

"Therefore, they should not make loans that either cannot be collected within a reasonable time or are not eligible for rediscount at federal reserve banks."

Inconsistency Alleged.

In their private meetings the members of the advisory council pointed out to the federal reserve members that while Jones, Cummings, and others of the Roosevelt stalwarts were out telling the public that the banks would not loan to industries in support of the NRA, the examiners sent into the banks by the same government were issuing warnings against the type of loans being made.

The very loans advocated by the administration as proper for the banks to make are listed by the federal examiners on the slow side of the banks' books, the bankers declared.

The bankers asserted that they are making loans whenever possible, for their own good, as well as for the good of industry and NRA, and one banker told the reserve members that his bank had made loans on 85 per cent of all applications received.

Waiting to See.

It was declared that industrialists with sound standing are not applying for credit to the measure desired by the administration, because they are not certain where the country is going under NRA.

One banker pointed out to the members of the reserve board that, in the rapid growth of the government's credit activities, it is turning into banker to a dangerous degree.

The federal government, he said, is acting as banker to farmers, home owners, mortgage and loan companies, banks, railroads, insurance companies, exporters, states, counties and cities, and other agencies.

U. S. Becoming a Banker.

In support of his statement, a table was prepared which showed that the government's various banking activities involved twelve billion dollars, as follows:

The Reconstruction Finance corporation, with 3 billion 430 million for its own use, exclusive of money it must turn over to other agencies, finance banks, insurance companies, railroads, mortgage companies [including those formed by private industrial corporations], exporters and processors of agricultural commodities.

The relief administration, with 500 million dollars for loans to states.

The farm credit administration, with 2 billion 500 millions to be loaned through federal and joint stock land banks, federal intermediate credit banks, production credit banks, and the farm loan commissioner to farmers, farm cooperatives and farm financing institutions.

The public works administration, with 3 billion 300 million dollars to be loaned and given to states, cities, counties, special districts, and private companies.

The home owners' loan corporation, with 2 billion 200 million, lending to home owners.

The home loan banks, with 125 million dollars, lending to insurance companies, building and loan associations, and savings banks.

These six agencies have lending authority aggregating 12 billion 55 millions.

R. F. C. Tactics Criticized.

Another of the bankers on the advisory council, it was learned, declared that the most useful action which the administration might take would be the relaxing of the surveillance tactics adopted by the R. F. C. after it has made loans.

This banker asserted that he knew of a large number of borrowers, and he specifically mentioned one large railroad with a need for $30,000,000 and ample security for it, who refused to seek loans from the R. F. C. because of the snooping character of the corporation's watchfulness over the borrower's affairs.

In order to obtain a large loan from the R. F. C. the borrower must disclose his books and his confidential information, far beyond what any private banker would require, it was declared. Some borrowers have declared that the government seeks to run the businesses of its debtors.

Another serious obstacle to credit, in the expressed opinions of the bankers on the advisory council, is the new federal securities act, which requires publicity of the minutest detailed information concerning any company seeking to float a new stock or bond issue. Most business men are unwilling to expose themselves to their competitors in this fashion, it was asserted, and would rather withhold planned expansions than expose their affairs to the light of all comers.

Meet First Time Since Civil War

Delegates Arrive

St. Paul, Sept. 19.—(AP)—The days and deeds so dear to the hearts of gray haired veterans when they wore the blue, were recounted once again today as delegates arrived for the 67th annual national encampment sessions of the Grand Army of the Republic.

They stopped their story telling long enough to visit St. Paul schools and regale pupils with tales of civil war battlefields scarred with shot and shell that made history in this nation.

Some, too, journeyed out to St. Thomas college and Cretin High school to review cadets.

Between songs and airs played by fife and drum corps old cronies swapped stories in noisy hotel lobbies at the reunion that for some will be the last.

MILK PRODUCERS DUE TO 'CAMP' IN MADISON TODAY

Madison, Wis., Sept. 19.—[Special.]—Walter M. Singler, president of the Wisconsin Milk pool and instigator of two farm strikes, rode into Madison tonight to take charge of developments tomorrow when several thousands of farmers are expected to arrive and "camp" on the capitol steps until milk prices are fixed by the government.

Singler previously had estimated about 50,000 farmers would take part in his show which is to be staged on the lawn of the statehouse for an indeterminate period. Tonight he admitted he might have been a bit reckless in his first estimate.

"If we have a frost tonight, there may not be as many here as we figured on," he said. "Of course a lot of the farmers are busy filling silos, too. If we have a frost they will have to get their corn in. I don't know how many will be here."

Farmers under Singler's control are supposed to leave their homes at midnight tonight and ride or march to Madison.

PRESIDENT NEAR INFLATION AND GOLD CROSS ROAD

Experts Advise Him to 'Peg' Money, Aid Buying.

be held stable through equalization funds set up by each central bank. There would not be a definite gold parity for currencies, and the federal treasuries would not participate in the stabilization program.

At the time the report was presented the dollar had fallen to between 75 and 80 per cent of its former gold value, and, since, it has dropped to a record low around 65 cents.

The rates at which the dollar should be pegged with other currencies were not decided upon by the committee, but it was reported that most of the members felt a range between 75 and 80 would be feasible.

Loophole for Change.

It is understood that the committee does not feel that the "pegs" should be permanent but that some loophole should be left in the agreements to permit a change if domestic conditions in any country show the prevailing rates to be insupportable or not in harmony with domestic price levels in the country.

Some question has been raised as to the wisdom of proceeding with such agreements through the central banks, without diplomatic action, and as to the feasibility of presenting the whole matter afresh to a reconvention of the London economic conference. There are reports that the President would, in event of his favorable action upon the committee's plan propose the resumption of the conference, or at least a part of it, for the purpose of ratifying an agreement for temporary stabilization. Some of the President's advisers are for a meeting in early October.

Advocated in Part at London.

The plan is not entirely new, having been advocated in part at one stage of the London conference. But it was vetoed by President Roosevelt at that time, on the ground that the American domestic recovery program had not yet developed fully enough to warrant stabilization.

The committee has also recommended to the President, it was learned, that eventually, and as soon as possible, the United States should go back on a permanent gold standard. Some members believe the old gold content of the dollar should be permanently restored; others would have the President exert his power to fix the gold content at a reduced ratio, perhaps 75 or 80 per cent.

Several things are forcing the President to a decision, it was pointed out. The most important, it is said, is the necessity for sustaining life in his recovery program. Production has slumped severely in the last seven weeks, with the big industries leading the drop, and some action to induce a wave of buying big enough to stimulate these major fields is considered in some quarters to be necessary.

Congress May Insist.

There is also the possibility, deemed a probability by many observers in Washington, that if the President does not take his own choice before January, he will be forced to the choice of congress when that body meets. The cotton senators are declaring openly that congress will be overwhelmingly for immediate printing press inflation.

Inflation and stabilization cannot go together, it was pointed out, and if the President enters into a stabilization agreement, it might serve to prevent inflationary action by congress.

Some inflationists among administration advisers declare that the stirring necessity today is increased buying of consumers' goods, stimulating industries which are now straining under the increased costs imposed by the NRA program. If the President should order a billion dollars of fiat money, and let it be known that he will go further if necessary, these advisers assert, many people will rush to buy commodities, real estate, stocks, before the value of their currency is depleted, or while it is so threatened.

On the other hand, it is pointed out that the great mass of salaried workers, and the wage earners of industry, will suffer from any inflationary methods, since it is generally recognized that wages drift far behind boosts in prices, and thus the purchasing power of the wage earners will be lagging again.

The President has found little effect, it is said, in inflationary results of the federal reserve board's open market purchases of government securities. He insisted, it has been learned, while the reserve banks were buying at the rate of about $10,000,000 a week, that the effect was almost nil, and he demanded purchases of $50,000,000 weekly.

The federal reserve board of New York protested against that large a sum, but finally compromised at $35,000,000 weekly. The first week at this figure produced a flurry in the stock market, but in succeeding weeks the effect has weakened.

R. W. MOORE TAKES MOLEY'S JOB WITH SECRETARY OF STATE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 19.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt today appointed Robert Walton Moore, former congressman of Fairfax, Va., to be assistant secretary of state.

Mr. Moore will succeed Raymond Moley, former No. 1 man of the Roosevelt brains trust, whose recently reported differences with Secretary of State Hull were followed by his resignation from the government service, to edit a magazine owned by Vincent Astor.

A lawyer, Mr. Moore is 74 years old and a native of Fairfax, where he now resides. Elected to the 66th congress, to fill a vacancy, he was reelected to each succeeding congress until the 72d. Since then, he has retired to his home in Fairfax.

Mr. Moore also was assistant general counsel of the United States railroad administration during the war, and is a regent of the Smithsonian institute.

CORSON ELLIS' LEG BROKEN IN HUNT ACCIDENT

Corson G. Ellis, 285 West Laurel avenue, Lake Forest, son-in-law of Robert J. Thorne, former president of Montgomery Ward & Co., incurred a fracture in his left leg yesterday when he was thrown from his horse during the Onwentsia hunt at Milburn. It was the first serious mishap since the fashionable hunt club opened its fall season last Sunday.

Mr. Ellis fell three times during the day's chase, but on the first two occasions he was merely shaken and was able to remount and continue. However, the third time his horse stumbled after making the first hurdle of a double jump. As the animal crashed into the second barrier, his rider was hurled heavily to the ground.

Other riders took Mr. Ellis to the office of Dr. Theodore Proxmire in Lake Forest, where it was learned by X-ray photography that the tibia, or shin bone, in his left leg had been fractured. It was placed in a caste and he was taken home.

RETAILERS HEAR ECONOMIST GIVE ANALYSIS OF NRA

Stresses Business Men's Duty to Co-operate.

The retail trade of the United States may look forward to certain benefits mixed with some disadvantages under the NRA, Prof. Paul H. Nystrom of Columbia university, authority on economics and marketing, told 700 midwestern retailers assembled yesterday at the invitation of Butler Brothers to conduct a clinic upon the retail industry.

The retail code, which has been in process of preparation since June, has not yet been signed by the President, Dr. Nystrom pointed out, and some of its provisions are still under discussion. In general, he declared, the code will contain provisions permitting the unionization of employés, the prohibition of child labor, fixed maximum hours of work and minimum wages, and certain rules of fair trade practice intended to eliminate cutthroat and unfair competition.

Too Early for Conclusions.

"It is still too early," he said, "to estimate with even a fair degree of accuracy what the net results of the NRA program will be. There are highly competent, well informed men who believe that the program will not only take us out of the depression, but will in the future prove tremendously beneficial.

"There are others who question both the value and the wisdom of the whole plan. Between the two extremes there are many of us who hope that it will work and are willing and anxious to do our best to make it succeed.

"One of the duties of the retailer is to render every possible coöperation to the recovery program. One may question the wisdom of some features of the NRA program and still see that for the present, at least, it is every business man's duty to do what he can and what he is expected to do under the circumstances.

Cut in Hours to Change Buying.

"The rank and file of workers are going to have shorter working hours and people who work shorter hours and have more leisure will consume less goods of the kinds needed for long, hard usage. People who work shorter hours eat less heavy food and wear out their clothing more slowly.

"On the other hand, the increased leisure of the masses is almost certain to greatly increase sales of all goods used during leisure time, including dress-up clothing, lighter foods, drinks, and other refreshments, sporting goods and apparel, plays and games, automobiles and accessories, books and periodicals, greater expenditures upon movies, etc."

Don't Cheat, D. F. Kelly Warns.

D. F. Kelly, president of The Fair, and a member of the national committee which framed the retail code, warned the merchants against cheating under the recovery program.

"There is no doubt that hundreds are signing the code but not observing it," he said. "They will gain only a temporary advantage, save a little money, but the disclosure of the cheating will react against them.

"The code isn't perfect, but it has been drafted to bring order out of chaos. We can expect results, but not immediately."

A statement issued from NRA headquarters at 201 North Wells street yesterday pointed out how employers and employés may help to accomplish the recovery program objectives.

Ask Provisions Be Posted.

"Employers can avoid misunderstanding with their employés by posting wage and hour provisions of the general code," the statement pointed out. "Any approved exceptions or modifications should also be posted and employés should be assured of fair hearings without prejudice to their positions.

"Employés, on their part, should have an attitude of patient coöperation, at least for a sufficiently long time to permit changes to be made. They should realize, moreover, that in some instances owing to the temporary nature of wage and hour provisions of the President's blanket agreement, it may be necessary again to be subject to other revisions upon final adoption of their specific trade code."

Act on Restaurant Code Today.

A permanent code for the restaurant industry will be presented to members of the National Restaurant association in convention at the Furniture Mart today. The industry at present is operating under a temporary code which provides a 54 hour maximum working week for men and 48 hours for women. The new code will probably permit longer working hours, especially in small towns, it was said, where restaurants would be forced out of business if the 54 hour week were enforced.

Officials of the Cleaners and Dyers union, members of which voted Monday night to strike because employers were not living up to NRA standards, said last night they had not yet decided when to call the strike. A decision may be reached today, they indicated.

ILLINOIS MINE OPERATORS HAIL NEW COAL CODE

They View It as Harbinger of Better Times.

Illinois coal mine operators yesterday hailed the signing of the national coal code by President Roosevelt as a portent of better times for an industry which some had begun to regard as almost mortally sick.

W. J. Jenkins, president of the Illinois Coal Operators' association, and Illinois members of the operators' committee at the code hearings, returned from Washington in the morning. They seemed still a bit confused by the whirl of events which led to the code signing Monday, but expressed confidence that its acceptance will mean better times for operators and miners alike in Illinois.

Stuyvesant Peabody, president of the Peabody Coal company, operator of the state's largest mines, said the code will rescue the unionized Illinois field from the almost ruinous competition it has suffered for a decade from the nonunion fields of Kentucky and the southeast.

Lose on Kentucky Issue.

The operators were unable to win all the objectives they sought at the code hearings, explained Mr. Jenkins, who is president of the Consolidated Coal company. They hoped to include Kentucky in division 2 of the coal administration, embracing Illinois, Indiana, and Iowa, but in this they failed. Kentucky goes into division 1, embracing the bituminous fields of Pennsylvania, Ohio, Maryland, Virginia, West Virginia, North Carolina, lower Michigan, and northern Tennessee.

So far as wages and working hours are concerned, few Illinois mines will be affected, Mr. Jenkins explained. The code prescribes a 40 hour week for all fields and in Illinois retains the $5 a day minimum, the highest scale in the country, which the Illinois operators have been paying for a year and to which they have laid most of their troubles.

These troubles, they believe, will now be removed because the much lower scale heretofore maintained in the non-union fields of Kentucky, West Virginia and the far south, are adjusted to a point commensurate with the Illinois scale. The new scale for these fields ranges from $4.20 to $4.60 a day, in contrast to old scales as low as $2.50 and $3.

Points to Low Pay in South.

"Within the last ten years," Mr. Peabody observed, "the coal situation approximated that before the civil war. It was slave labor in the south competing against free labor in Illinois. I know of fields in the remote southern mountains where the miners, what with deductions for company hospital care, company rents and company grocery bills, would get no more than 80 cents a week in actual cash. It got so that some of these mines could move coal into a town like Decatur, Ill., and, notwithstanding the freight differential, could undersell our mines, which were only 60 miles away."

The code will eliminate such competition, Mr. Peabody believes. It prohibits operators from requiring the men to trade at company stores or rent company homes. It also abolishes juvenile labor in southern mines, limiting the employment age at hazardous occupations to 17 years and at all mining occupations to 16 years.

The operators generally agreed that the code will mean higher prices at the mines, which increases will be passed on through the retailers to the consumers.

Administration of the Code.

Section 2 of the code, under the subheading of "administration," provides that within ten days divisional code authorities shall be established by the operators themselves under chairmanship of a coördinator, appointed by the President.

The task of the divisional authority, Mr. Jenkins explained, will be to examine the production costs of fields within its province, such as the interstate commerce commission examines freight rates, and, on the basis of its findings, set up a scale of fair prices subject to the O. K. of the supreme coal authority. When a price scale is once approved, the code provides it shall be published once a month so that retailers and consumers may be protected against profiteering, rebates to competitors, etc.

Mr. Jenkins said the operators of the Illinois fields would be called together next Tuesday to organize a divisional authority.

PRESIDENT SIGNS 7 MORE CODES; ONE FOR TRANSIT LINES

Washington, D. C., Sept. 19.—(AP)—President Roosevelt late today signed NRA codes for seven additional industries, including transit, gasoline pumps, oil burners, textile bags, underwear and allied products, linoleum and felt base, and flower and feather.

TAX RECEIVER'S AGENTS COLLECT $267,808 TAXES

McDonough Reports on Control of Properties.

Agents of County Treasurer McDonough, who manage income bearing properties for which the treasurer has been appointed receiver under the Kerner-Skarda act, have collected $267,808 in delinquent '928, 1929, and 1930 real estate taxes. This was disclosed yesterday in the monthly report of the treasurer on the administration of properties for which he has been appointed receiver by County Judge Jarecki.

Since the enforcement of the Kerner-Skarda act was started on April 28, a total of $24,012,635 has been collected in delinquent taxes for 1928, 1929, and 1930. Collections by the agents are included in this total, but the bulk of the payments have been made by property owners wishing to avoid receiverships, who in many cases have entered into agreements to pay delinquent taxes in monthly installments.

Large Property Owners Pay.

"The total collected by agents is not very high," County Treasurer McDonough explained, "but this is because the properties for which I continue as receiver yield little income. The large property owners avoid receiverships by payments, which is the primary purpose of the Kerner-Skarda act, and our collections are on properties which formerly yielded nothing."

Since the enforcement of the act, the treasurer has filed 10,978 tax receivership petitions and has been appointed receiver in 2,025 cases. In 641 of these cases, the petitions were withdrawn when substantial payments were made, and in 353 other cases, receivers are in possession of the properties by appointments in the Circuit and Superior court, leaving 1,031 cases still under the control of the county treasurer. The treasurer employs 167 agents to manage the properties. The agents' fees are charged against the operating expense of the properties.

Distributes $1,745,000 Tax Receipts.

The treasurer yesterday distributed $1,745,000 in tax receipts to various taxing bodies, as follows:

State of Illinois	$ 156,000
City of Chicago	1,256,000
Forest Preserve	40,000
Sanitary District	156,000
South Park Commissioner	90,000
West Park Commission	40,000
Lincoln Park Commission	25,000

Judge Jarecki yesterday heard 140 tax receivership petitions and appointed the treasurer as receiver for 24 properties, owing an aggregate tax bill of $87,000. Attorneys for other properties paid a total of $60,000 to avoid receiverships. Judge Jarecki ordered his call increased to 200 cases a day.

TAX COLLECTIONS.

Real estate tax collections yesterday were $363,691, making a total of $70,168,478 collected since the enforcement of the Kerner-Skarda act was started on April 28. The day's collections of real estate taxes and the uncollected taxes for the last four years follow:

Sept. 19	$ 18,934	$ 26,805
Uncollected	17,513,122	46,272,809
	1930.	1931.
Sept. 19	$ 70,842	$ 747,590
Uncollected	72,651,677	79,851,952

The day's collections of 1931 personal property taxes totaled $2,281.

Cuts His Own Salary from $135,00 a Year to $40,000

New York, Sept. 18.—[Special.]—Gerhard M. Dahl, chairman of the board of the B. M. T., has voluntarily accepted a 70 per cent salary cut, a reduction in his yearly stipend to $40,000 from $135,000, it was announced today.

HUNT 2 MISSING TOBACCO TRUCKS; FEAR HIJACKING

The Burns Detective agency and officials of the Mutual Trucking company, 532 South Canal street, were searching southern Indiana last night for two truckloads of tobacco, valued at $20,000, which disappeared with the five men in charge of them some time Monday night. It is believed that the trucks were waylaid by hi-jackers who either killed or kidnaped the men.

A convoy of three tobacco trucks left Louisville, Ky., on Monday. In addition to a driver and helper on each truck, an armed guard accompanied the convoy.

One of the trucks broke down and stopped at a wayside garage. The others went on with the guard. No trace has been found of them except that company officials are sure they were seized south of Indianapolis.

ASSERT CITIES' FISCAL WOE IS UP TO CONGRESS

When congress next convenes it will be faced with four problems involving the finances of municipalities for which federal legislation will be sought, it was asserted yesterday at the meeting of 200 city managers in convention at International house, University of Chicago. The four problems are:

1. Relief for municipal debts, probably through an extension to cities of the new "moratorium" provisions of the bankruptcy laws as applied to individuals.
2. Provision from federal sources for municipal unemployment relief funds.
3. Regulation of banking laws to secure deposits of municipal funds.
4. Establishment of a method of marketing municipal securities.

The problems, which now are vital in the governments of more than 15,000 cities throughout the United States, were outlined by Paul B. Betters, executive director of the American Municipal association. He asserted that more than 75 large western cities, headed by Portland, Ore., now are planning to petition the aid of congress in settling their difficulties.

The most important of these problems is the one involving the debts of municipalities, said Mr. Betters. He explained that ally two-thirds of the cities in the country were seeking an extension of time in which to meet the bills of their creditors.

One of the suggestions for marketing municipal bonds and tax anticipation warrants, he said, is the issuance of bank notes by cities which put up their securities as collateral for the currency. This constitutes a means of borrowing money without paying interest, Mr. Betters pointed out. It has not found favor with government officials, he added.

DEFIES RIGHT OF U. S. TO CUT RAIL EXECUTIVES' PAY

Pennsylvania Road Tests Government's Authority.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 19.—[Special.]—The first challenge of government authority to compel a reduction in salaries of railroad officers has been offered in the apparent refusal of the Pennsylvania railroad to comply with the request of Joseph B. Eastman, coordinator of transportation, that such action be taken.

Through the association of railway executives, Mr. Eastman has been notified that all other roads have agreed to limit salaries of their presidents and other executives to a maximum of $60,000 a year.

The coördinator suggested no specific reduction in executives' salaries, but asked that a "reasonable adjustment" be made "in view of prevailing conditions."

This appeal Mr. Eastman addressed to a conference of railroad presidents on July 14, and, although more than two months have elapsed since then, he said late today that he had received no communication from the Pennsylvania railroad as to its intentions, either directly or through the association of railway executives.

According to Responsibility.

But the talk among railroad men is that the Pennsylvania intends to continue paying its officials in accordance with their responsibility, and that it has no intention of reducing the salary of W. W. Atterbury, president, from its present level of $109,000 a year.

Mr. Eastman has taken steps to learn whether the apparent reluctance of the Pennsylvania to comply with his request was to be taken as a refusal. In case of a direct refusal, leaving Gen. Atterbury the only railroad executive in the country receiving more than $60,000 a year, Mr. Eastman would have to decide on the issuance of an order under the emergency transportation act directing the road to comply.

Under the law Mr. Eastman may make a finding that the salary of an individual railroad executive constitutes an "avoidable expense" or "preventable waste" and that it should be adjusted. Should an order be issued to that effect and should the Pennsylvania still refuse to comply, the matter would be one for the courts.

"Invades" Management.

Some railroad executives consider Mr. Eastman's "request" for an adjustment in their salaries as an outright invasion of managerial discretion.

Objection also has been voiced against similar action by the Reconstruction Finance corporation, which has set the salaries of executives and attorneys of several of the roads indebted to it. But this stipulation is attributed to the Corporation's creditor position, leaving the carrier with the alternative of compliance or the risk of default through the calling of its loans.

No many railroad executives were receiving annual salaries in excess of $60,000 at the time of Mr. Eastman's proposition to them, and no great difficulty was experienced in gettir the roads generally to comply.

Saving Held Trivial.

The expected savings as a result of all reductions, is slightly more than $208,000, or about .009 per cent of total railroad operating expenses for 1932.

This amount was characterized by one railroad man today as not amounting to "a hill of beans," as compared with the 1932 operating expenses aggregating $2,205,473,415.

Mr. Eastman has not yet determined what his course shall be in e... t... lvania should decide to "hold out."

U. S. DAIRY CHIEF OUTLINES PLANS TO AID INDUSTRY

Threatens to Punish Cut Rate Dealers.

BY PAUL POTTER.

Dr. Clyde L. King, dairy administrator for the federal agricultural adjustment administration, declared yesterday that he would see to it that the licenses of milk dealers who cut prices in violation of government trade agreements are suspended long enough to cause "every gyp dealer to lose every dollar he made by gypping the public."

Dr. King addressed the annual convention of the International Association of Ice Cream Manufacturers at the Palmer house. He outlined the elaborate plans of the farm administration to bring returns to the dairy industry back to pre-war parity. One of these plans will be to finance large scale purchases of butter and cheese from current markets, turning the purchases over to relief agencies for immediate consumption, a project calling for $30,000,000 of capital.

Trade Agreement Program.

Another project the government is undertaking for dairymen, Dr. King said, is to establish and enforce trade agreements in every large consuming center where producers and dealers are organized. In those areas not so organized, he said, the administration is "sending out trained young men with enthusiasm and understanding to work with producers and dealers" to establish "fair prices for consumers, fair spreads between producers and consumers, and to help eliminate the cheap and unfair business practices which have taken toll of producers and demoralized the markets."

Consults with Farmers.

During the day Dr. King consulted with officials of the Pure Milk association, farmers' bargaining agency, and with representatives of the large milk companies on the proposed increase in retail milk and cream prices for the Chicago region. He declared that the government was making progress in enforcing the present trade agreement and indicated he was in favor of the price increase to bring dairy farmers' income to the pre-war level.

Federal Judge John P. Barnes yesterday continued to Dec. 3 the hearing of a petition filed by northern Wisconsin dairy companies seeking to restrain the Chicago board of health from enforcing an ordinance limiting the area of inspection for the city's milk and cream supplies to a zone with a 200 mile radius.

KILLING WITNESS SAYS HE FEARS TO TELL TRUTH

Timothy Murphy, 1141 West 63d street, who was taken into custody Monday when he changed his testimony concerning the killing of James L. Gallagher by Detective Louis Natzke, told Judge Green in the Felony court yesterday that he was afraid to tell the truth about the shooting. Chief of Detectives Schoemaker said he believed Murphy had been intimidated.

Gallagher, a hoisting engineer, was shot to death on Aug. 14 in Edward O'Toole's tavern at 362 East 63d street, where Murphy is a waiter. At the inquest Monday Murphy testified that a statement taken from him at the detective bureau the night of the shooting, to the effect that Gallagher was a robber, was untrue. He said the statement was typed by some one at the bureau and that he was asked to sign it without reading it.

He also declared at the inquest that Miss Madeline Duffy, an entertainer at the tavern, had not said Gallagher was a robber despite her signed statement to that effect which was also typed by policemen. Gallagher was a frequent customer of the tavern and had been in the place ten minutes before Detective Natzke shot him, Murphy said.

The case before Judge Green, a charge of attempted robbery against Thomas Leahy, companion of Gallagher, was continued by the judge to have Miss Duffy and O'Toole in court.

ACT TO RELIEVE TOWNS OF ODOR OF NEW DEAL PIGS

Dump in Railroad Yards to Be Covered.

Active steps were taken yesterday to eliminate the terrific odors from the bodies of government killed bonus pigs, which have irritated residents of Hazel Crest and other nearby suburbs for the last week.

The carcasses, almost entire because the agricultural adjustment administration's plan called for the keeping of pork and by products of the bonus pigs from commercial channels, had been dumped for the last three weeks in a railroad fill in the Markham yards of the Illinois Central railroad at 170th street. In large part uncovered, this animal matter threw off a stench and became a vast breeding ground for swarms of flies.

Railroad Crews Cover Dump.

Spokesmen for the railroad, which hauled the material from the stockyards, said the first complaints from residents of Hazel Crest, Homewood, and Harvey were received Thursday and that further dumping was halted at once. Yesterday the railroad had its own crews busy putting layers of cinders over the dump and it was said the entire mass would be fully covered today and the menace to health as well as the unpleasant odors ended.

M. Huber, grading contractor, whose forces are working on improvements in the railroad yards, explained his company's part in the pig dumping.

"We have been working for some time here," he said. "Our material for making fills has been hauled out from the city. It has all been composed of industrial wastes, and much of it from packing houses. Until the government pig killing program came along the packing house wastes were of such a nature that they did not decompose.

Stop Dumping Near Chicago.

"In the last month the stuff has been gradually getting worse and there was so much of it we couldn't get enough nonsmelling stuff to cover it. But there will be no more of this pig meat sent here."

Representatives of the larger packing houses, which are killing the pigs under contract with the government, said that no more of this type of refuse would be dumped within 200 miles of Chicago. They explained that pigs have come in so fast that there is no more room for storing fertilizer made from them. The only commercial product retained from small ones now being slaughtered is a few cents' worth of grease per animal.

The government's plan called for the killing of 4,000,000 pigs, since increased by nearly 500,000, and 1,000,000 sows, with the aim of destroying them completley as commercial factors. It was estimated that this destruction would make other surviving swine more valuable The cost of the program, estimated at $55,000,000, is to be obtained from a tax after Oct. 1 on pork products sold in regular channels.

SECRETARY WALLACE'S AID SEES TOO MANY ENGAGED IN SELLING

Boston, Mass., Sept. 19.—(AP)—Dr. Mordecai Ezekiel, economic adviser to Secretary of Agriculture Wallace, suggested today that too high a proportion of the nation's population might be engaged in selling and transportation as compared with production.

Speaking before the Boston conference on retail distribution, Dr. Ezekiel first warned that costs of raw materials must advance more rapidly during the next few years than retail prices—that otherwise the whole course of recovery might be impeded, or prevented.

"Our major attention here, however," he said, "may be devoted to the longtime problem. Distribution costs have continued to rise over a long term of years. That rise cannot be permitted to continue forever."

"Is it necessary," he said, "that for every two persons engaged in production one person be engaged in distribution? That is the fundamental problem which farmers look to transporters, wholesalers, and retailers to answer."

Dr. Ezekiel pointed out that over a long period a larger and ever larger share of the nation's expenditures have been absorbed by distribution services, which there was a corresponding reduction in the share which went back to the farm producer of raw materials.

ASK LOAN FRIDAY TO FINISH BRIDGE AT RIVER MOUTH

Parks to Offer Bonds to U. S. as Collateral.

An application for a federal loan of $6,800,000 to complete the outer drive bridge at the mouth of the Chicago river will be filed Friday with the state advisory board on public works, it was announced yesterday by officials of the south and Lincoln park boards. A hearing on details of the project will probably be held subsequently before the board, of which Carter H. Harrison is chairman.

The park boards will offer bonds as collateral for the loan and, according to the plan, as taxes are collected in the future the collateral will be withdrawn and the loan gradually repaid. The financing plan has not yet been completed. The south park board will ask for $4,500,000 and the Lincoln park board will apply for $2,300,000 to complete their share of the project.

Randolph Viaduct Not Included.

The Randolph street extension, consisting of a viaduct 128 feet wide from Michigan avenue east to Leif Ericson drive, will not be included in the "easy money" plan. The south park commissioners and the Illinois Central railroad will defray the costs for this project jointly. The south park board has authority to issue $3,500,000 worth of bonds for this extension.

Work was halted on the outer drive bridge early in January of 1932 after a joint meeting of the two park boards. The park boards reached the decision because of the need for retrenchment in their finances.

Hugh Young, chief engineer for the Chicago plan commission, declared that men could be put to work immediately on the span if funds were obtained. He said that it was hoped construction might be resumed by November.

Employment For 1,000 Men.

"More than 1,000 men could be employed on the project," explained Mr. Young. "Those working on the south park's share of the bridge would be employed for a year and a half. Lincoln park has gone a little further with its share of the construction and this section of the bridge could be completed in fourteen months.

"Aside from the direct labor employed, there would be thousands of men at work fabricating steel and working on other materials."

Mr. Young said that more than $500,000 worth of steel has already been fabricated and is in storage at Gary. This steel is ready for erection in the main river bridge.

15,000 MORE STRIKE IN NEW YORK; ASK MORE PAY, SHORTER HOURS

New York, Sept. 19.—[Special.]—The growing army of strikers in New York City was augmented today by the addition of 15,000 painters who responded to the strike call of the Brotherhood of Painters, Decorators and Painters of America and walked out in support of the union's demands for shorter hours and more pay. The demands are for a 6 hour day, a five day week, and $1.65 an hour. The men now receive $8 for an 8 hour day.

The strike resulted in the stoppage of work in thousands of apartment houses, private homes, and business establishments where renovating work was under way. Many office buildings and leading hotels were also affected by the strike. Pickets were on duty all day in front of these establishments.

While some progress was being made toward settlement of the strike of 25,000 underwear workers, now in its second week, no settlement appeared likely immediately, although Grover A. Whalen, chairman of the local NRA organization, was active in efforts to bring this conflict to a termination at conferences with employers and representatives of the unions.

STATE TO DROP CASE AGAINST 2 NAVY OFFICERS

Charges of disorderly conduct against two young women and two naval officers assigned to Great Lakes Naval Training station, who were arrested on Sept. 11 in a Waukegan beer tavern, will be dismissed when the case is called today before Justice of the Peace Harry Hoyt in Waukegan. State's Attorney Charles A. Mason of Lake county announced that he will have an assistant appear before the court and move to have the charges dismissed for want of prosecution and a lack of evidence to convict.

The announcement followed a conference in the training station quarters of Rear Admiral Wat T. Cluverius, who last Saturday requested United States District Attorney Dwight H. Green to assign an assistant to defend the officers, Lieut. William Shahan and Lieut. John Perry. At the conference were Sheriff Lester Tiffany of Lake county, who made the arrests and signed the complaints; his attorney, George W. Field; Defense Attorney Harold Tallett and State's Attorney Mason.

The naval officers and the women, Miss Ruth Broncheon and Mrs. Adele Pulse, asserted that Sheriff Tiffany entered the tavern and asked them to have a drink. When they refused, words ensued and the sheriff called a squad of detectives and arrested them, they said.

LAWYERS' DELAYS TURN TABLES IN COURT CRITICISM

Continuances Halt Most Civil Judges at 11 A. M.

All except half a dozen of the 29 judges hearing civil cases in the Circuit and Superior courts were able to adjourn court by 11 o'clock yesterday and go home because they had no work to do.

This was because lawyers, many of whom have criticized the assignment of eleven judges to the Criminal court on the ground that it would congest calendars in the civil courts, were unwilling to proceed with trials when their cases were called. All of the judges heard a call of cases, but in the majority of the courts every case was continued as lawyers for one side or the other, or both, offered some excuse for their unwillingness to go to trial.

In the Circuit court, Judge George Fred Rush had 45 cases on his call in the last two days without finding one in which the lawyers for both sides were willing to go to trial.

Provokes Outburst from David.

The situation provoked an outburst on the part of Judge Joseph B. David. Monday he had ten cases on his call, and all were continued. Yesterday he had a call of 25 cases, and again was unable to find any lawyers ready for trial. As a result he ordered his clerk to place 50 cases on his call today, in the hope of finding at least one case in which the lawyers are ready to go to work.

"The lawyers have complained of the shortage of judges in the civil branch," said Judge David. "I got a letter from one of them today protesting against the assignment of eleven judges to the Criminal court. But now it is their own fault, because of their lack of coöperation and their refusal to go to trial while they are trying to arrange settlements."

Judge David said that he would consult Judge James J. Kelly, head of the law division of the Superior court, in an effort to work out some general remedy for the situation, perhaps through a revision of court rules which would tighten the restrictions on continuances and other delays.

Assails Pauper Suits as Racket.

Following his conference with Judge David, Judge Kelly denounced as a racket, which he said he will ask the state's attorney and the bar association to investigate, the practice of a number of attorneys in having their clients file suits as paupers. By making affidavits that they are unable to pay the filing fees, the plaintiffs avoid payment at the time of filing, although the fees are deducted from any judgment which they receive.

"There were 44 of those petitions filed before me Friday," said Judge Kelly. "Many of them are undoubtedly fraudulent, but the court has no means of investigating them. The majority of them are filed in personal injury cases. An ambulance chasing lawyer goes to the victim of an accident and persuades him to file a suit, assuring him that he can do so without payment of fees by filing as a pauper. One lawyer brought eight such suits before me Friday.

"If a judgment is returned, the fees must be paid before it is entered, but many of these cases are settled out of court. Then the suit is dismissed and the county loses the fees. This loss amounts to $60,000 or more a year."

In addition to the Chicago judges assigned to hear civil cases, three Circuit judges from other counties, George W. Bristow, Albert Crampton, and Paul McWilliams, are sitting in the Superior court at the request of the judges of that court.

The employment of out of town judges has been consistently opposed and criticized by the county board because of the extra expense involved. The judges get $17 a day and the county now owes out of town judges $25,000 for services in the Circuit and Superior courts. The Superior court judges insisted that the three judges from other circuits were needed to handle the volume of civil trial work.

PRESS DRIVE ON 'VAGS,' DESPITE COURT SETBACKS

The drive against hoodlums under the new vagrancy law will continue with increased vigor despite recent setbacks in court, it was decided yesterday at a conference attended by State's Attorney Courtney, Chief of Detectives Schoemaker, and Municipal Judge Thomas A. Green.

Assistant State's Attorneys Gordon C. Nash, Frank S. Righeimer Jr., and John S. Boyle were assigned exclusively to prosecution of the vagrancy cases. Chief Schoemaker announced that his men would continue the search for hoodlums named in the warrants.

Plans were also made to reëstablish a special vagrancy court in the Criminal court building in order to give speedy trial to hoodlums asking a change of venue or a jury trial. Pending the development of plans discussed at the conference the case of Ralph Buglio, 34 years old, alleged Capone hoodlum, was continued until next Monday.

ROCCO RUSHED TO TRIAL AS A POLICE SLAYER

Judges and State Balk Efforts for Delay.

Three murder trials, one of them for a police killing, were going forward in the Criminal court yesterday. Efforts by defense attorneys to gain continuances in these cases, all of them several months old, were rebuffed by the judges, who are conducting a war against crime under the leadership of Chief Justice Philip L. Sullivan.

Tony Rocco, 23 years old, alleged slayer of Policeman Maurice Marcusson, who was shot down on Jan. 20 when he prevented the robbery of a dress shop in a building at 323 Jackson boulevard, was put on trial as a result of some quick strategy by Assistant State's Attorney Charles S. Dougherty. Before court adjourned for the night four jurors had been selected in the trial, which is being heard by Judge Charles P. Molthrop.

Rocco Seeks Change of Venue.

Rocco and four co-defendants were scheduled to go to trial before Judge Harry B. Miller. Attorney Michael Romano filed a change of venue petition in behalf of Rocco naming Judges Miller and Thoas J. Lynch as being prejudiced against Rocco.

Each of the other defendants had the same right to name two judges as prejudiced and between the five defendants they could have taken the case from every judge in the Criminal court building and forced a continuance. Prosecutor Dougherty outmaneuvered the defense when he asked Judge Miller to sever the case of Rocco from that of the other defendants. This was done and the Rocco case was sent to Chief Justice Sullivan for reassignment.

Attorney Romano asked Judge Sullivan to grant him a continuance. His request was refused and the case was assigned to Judge Molthrop.

Again Asks Continuance.

"I would like a continuance because the community is in a state of hysteria," said Attorney Romano to Judge Molthrop.

"What do you mean, hysterical?" replied the judge. "I have seen none of it around here. The judges are simply doing their duty."

"I would like a sixty day continuance," said the attorney.

"You might like it, but you are not going to get it," retorted the judge. "I have a short bench trial now and when I finish it we will start on this case."

When the case was called later Attorney Romano said "everything was wrong." The indictment was not in proper form, the witness list was not proper and neither was the venire list he said. To each of these contentions he added the phrase: "If your honor will give a continuance I will prove it." But continuance he could not get and the selection of a jury pledged to the death penalty was started soon after 2 o'clock.

The case of the other defendants, Ernest Manzone, Richard Bastile, Dominick DeNardi and George Chevas, was left on Judge Miller's call. They will be tried as soon as Rocco's trial is ended.

A murder case against Peter Manzone, younger brother of Ernest, was also on Judge Miller's call yesterday. It was continued to Oct. 19. He is alleged to have shot Ralph Pisano last Christmas. All the youths are alleged to be members of the 42 gang.

Charles McKenna, 35 years old, is on trial before a jury in Judge James J. Fardy's court. He is accused of slaying Nicholas Razes, part owner of an ice cream parlor at 1201 West Garfield boulevard on April 11. Judge Fardy ruled that this case had been pending too long and should be disposed of at once. The jury was selected yesterday.

Third Trial in Progress.

The third murder trial in progress is that of Joseph E. Gilloffo, 65 years old, before a jury in Judge Francis B. Allegretti's court. He is accused of slaying his son, Anthony, 28 years old, by setting fire to the home of his divorced wife on the northwest side last March 17. Gilloffo took the witness stand in his own behalf and denied that he had started the fire. This case is expected to go to the jury today.

The Criminal court judges imposed three more penitentiary sentences, bringing the total to 288 since the crime war started early in August. Those sentenced yesterday are:

SAM J. JEFFRIES, 40 years old, sentenced to 1 to 10 years in prison by Judge Thomas J. Lynch for embezzlement. He is alleged to have appropriated to his own use $465 from a securities company.

WILLIAM WAGNER, 21 years old, sentenced to 1 to 14 years by Judge William V. Brothers. He was convicted of assault to murder Policeman John J. Reilly on June 29. He fired several shots at the policeman when the latter tried to arrest him.

FRANK HARKNESS, 21 years old, sentenced to 1 to 10 years by Judge Fardy for automobile larceny. He was convicted of stealing the automobile of George Cherones, 2324 Lincoln Park West, on Aug. 17.

Chief Justice Sullivan after a conference with George Seif, clerk of the Criminal court, and James Gabriel, chief bailiff, said he would recommend to the county board employment of additional help for the clerk's and bailiff's departments during the crime war.

GERMANY PLACES FARMERS UNDER A DICTATORSHIP

Limits Grain Acreage and Fixes Prices.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Sept. 19.—Measures to establish German farmers—one-third of the population—as an independent and privileged class with assured and adequate incomes freed from the worries of domestic and foreign market fluctuations were announced today by Walter Darre, minister of food and agriculture. Darre, who becomes Germany's farm dictator under the new Hitler decree, also detailed plans for the development and expansion of agriculture.

The measures were based on a decree investing the minister of agriculture with supreme authority by conferring upon him powers to limit production of grain, fix prices, and to ban trading in futures on other speculative transactions.

Fair Prices, Is Slogan.

"The point at issue," Darre said, "is that the farmer must see that his duty lies toward his race and the people. The making of the highest possible profits by the farmers is less important than their stability and the charging of adequate and fair prices."

He declared that persons attempting to sabotage the measures would be liable to prison sentences and heavy fines.

All wheat and rye trading in futures is prohibited. Darre fixed the price of wheat in a range of $1.80 per bushel in October to $1.92 per bushel next June, figured according to current exchange rates.

The government prices, however, are not to be regarded as "pegged" and are applicable only to the amount of wheat and rye required for domestic consumption, Darre added.

Orders Grain Acreage Limited.

Proclaiming that the grain and milling trades are of national importance for food supplies, the minister of agriculture said:

"No farmer will be permitted to sow more wheat and rye this autumn than last. Every farmer voluntarily must reduce grain acreage to provide more barley, albuminous fodder, vegetable fibers, oil, fruits, wool, and fats. Ways and means will be found of dealing with farmers ignoring this warning and seeking to gain advantages at the expense of their neighbors."

Darre also announced plans for the formation of a "peasants' estate" to embrace all German farmers. Under this scheme the food minister will become the leader of the farmers. Advised by a staff of assistants, he will project further laws with the aim of bettering farming conditions and the regulation of markets and prices.

"The farmers must have their own organizations to counter the trusts and syndicates if they are to obtain fair play," he concluded.

300 Arrested in Raids.

BERLIN, Sept. 19.—(AP)—Approximately 300 persons were arrested today in simultaneous raids by police and storm troopers on communist and Leftist dwellings in the Harz mountain district. Seventy-five of the number were still detained tonight. The others were released.

It was estimated more than 1,000 police and storm troopers participated in the raids, which were staged after a man described as a communist courier was intercepted en route to the district. Among those arrested and taken to Goslar was a native of Holland.

HITLER ORDERS CITY STREETS CLEARED OF BEGGARS AND CHEATS

[Copyright: 1933. By the New York Times.]

BERLIN, Sept. 19.—Nation-wide action to clear the streets of cities of beggars was launched today by police acting in concert with Chancellor Hitler's militiamen.

This emulation of Premier Mussolini was officially explained on the ground that "according to the will of the leader nobody in Germany shall suffer from hunger or cold during the coming winter," hence it is adduced there is not now any justification for begging on public thoroughfares.

"Those really in want will be cared for by National Socialist welfare organizations," says an official manifesto, "but Germany is too poor to support professional beggars, labor shirkers, drunkards and cheats. We need our money for the help of decent and healthy folk."

The dwellers on the 22 acre tract desire the privileges of the Evanston schools.

Steak Bone Sliver Kills Judge; Lodges in Throat

CHINESE AND HIS LAWYER GUILTY OF CONSPIRACY

Attorney Paul Pomeroy, former assistant city prosecutor, and Frank Chan, a Chinese, were found guilty of conspiracy to obstruct justice in the court of Judge Thomas J. Lynch last night. A jury deliberated three hours before reaching the verdict.

A motion for a new trial was made and a hearing on this set for Oct. 7. If the motion is denied the two men face sentences of one day to one year in the county jail, a fine of $1 to $2,000 each, or both fine and imprisonment.

The conspiracy charge grew out of a case in which Chan, manager of a restaurant, was represented by Pomeroy. The Chinese had been charged by a girl employé with striking her and he was found guilty of assault and fined $100. As the basis for a new trial of the case Pomeroy presented an affidavit, signed by William Briehof, stating that the latter saw the quarrel between Chan and the girl and that Chan did not strike her.

At the trial yesterday Briehof testified he signed the affidavit without reading it and that it was false. He, too, had been charged with conspiracy, but gained a severance and was a state witness. Seven Municipal judges testified to Pomeroy's good character, but their evidence failed to sway the jury.

Famous actress loses 10 lbs. without diet famed for her acting in "Passing Present" and other plays is most enthusiastic about Vannay, the new scientific and absolutely safe way to reduce without dieting. Miss Francis writes:

"I want to acknowledge my gratitude for the help I have received from Vannay Reducing Tablets. I only needed to lose ten pounds, which I did in the first nine weeks. Where Vannay helped me most was in losing several inches off my thighs, and an inch and a half off my hips.

"I have tried drugs, exercise and heavy massages unsuccessfully, as well as strenuous dieting, so I can recommend Vannay Tablets wholeheartedly. They are the only means of reducing that I have found successful as well as harmless. In fact, since I have been taking Vannay, I have felt infinitely more alive."

After reading these words, how absurd it is to take dangerous drugs or anything that rushes food through the body half digested and leads to chronic constipation!

You don't have to starve yourself or go through painful exercises. You simply take the tablets each day and continue to eat three hearty meals. Avoid fattening foods. The fat disappears at just the places where you want to lose it. Start the treatment at once, avoid excessive fatty foods, and all your fondest dreams of health and slim loveliness should come true.

ROSH HA-SHANAH BEGINS TONIGHT FOR WORLD JEWRY

Marks Beginning of Year 5694 for Judaism.

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

Sundown tonight ushers in the most solemn and significant season for Jews throughout the world. It is the feast of Rosh ha-Shanah, or Jewish new year. For the orthodox Jews it continues until sunset on Friday, while for the reform Jews the feast closes at sundown on Thursday. While for Christians, midnight of Dec. 31 will celebrate the beginning of the year 1934, today's twilight will begin the year 5694 for the Jews.

Rabbi Solomon Goldman, spiritual leader of the orthodox Temple Anshe Emet, said yesterday that the origin of the holiday is obscure and that the first mention of Rosh ha-Shanah is in the books of comparatively late writers of the Scriptures. The lawgiver in Leviticus does not mention the feast by name, but as a "feast of memorial" and as the day for the blowing of the ram's horn, he said.

Spirit Similar to Lent.

The spirit back of the new year's day and the ten days thereafter when the day of atonement, or Yom Kippur, is celebrated, may be compared with the Christian season of Lent, which ends the day before Easter. Penitence, self-examination, and fasting mark the period. Yom Kippur, which falls on Sept. 29, is observed by Jews in a way that may be compared with the Christian observance of Good Friday.

Dr. Goldman explained that both Rosh ha-Shanah and Lent developed from roots found in nature religions, and closely associated with the growing of crops and increase of herds.

"It seems that at one time Rosh ha-Shanah marked the beginning of the agricultural year, although scholars maintain that the name is probably not older than Ezra, in about the 5th century B. C. The sounding of the ram's horn or "shofar" has remained its most distinctive feature. The blowing of the shofar was observed on the first day of every month.

The Day of Judgment.

"Whatever the origin, or origins of the holiday, many centuries of Hebrew and Jewish traditions have raised the day to the significance of the Day of Judgment," Dr. Goldman said. "Folklore has it that all creation passed in review before the throne of judgment. The fate of man and beast for the coming year is sealed upon that day. This accounts for the solemnity and penitential aspect of the holiday."

Temples and synagogues throughout the world will be thronged as age old prayers of Judaism are uttered. These prayers emphasize the universality of God, his loving kindness and justice, and man's weakness, his propensity for sin, the oneness of mankind, and various experiences in the history of the Jews.

MEXICAN EXPLORERS DISCOVER RUINS OF ANCIENT MAYAN CITY

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 19.—(AP)—The discovery of new ruins of an ancient Mayan city near the Pomuch railroad station, in the state of Campeche, was reported today by Alberto Escalona R., member of an archeological expedition into Yucatan.

Escalona said the ruins resembled others found in the south of Yucatan and probably were more than 1,800 years old. What he described as apparent evidence of the passing of the Toltec Indians through the region about 700 years ago was found in a statue.

Only about ten Indians living in the vicinity had knowledge of the ruins, which Escalona believes are a part of a temple, and they were afraid to approach, fearing the spirit of the Mayans.

AUSTRIA AWAITS EDICT: FASCISM OR DEMOCRACY

Dollfuss Is Still Debating Course to Take.

VIENNA, Sept. 19.—(AP)—The decision whether Fascism or democracy shall dominate the new Austrian constitution still hangs fire, it was revealed tonight at the federal chancellory on historic Ballhaus platz.

The building was heavily guarded with steel helmeted soldiers as correspondents of the Austrian and the foreign press thronged in to hear what Chancellor Engelbert Dollfuss would say.

The chancellor did not appear, however, a spokesman announcing he would withhold a statement "until he has reached a decision." It was emphasized that while Vice Chancellor Franz Winkler was demanding a democracy and leaders of the heimwehr [a pro-Italian Fascist organization] were demanding an unadulterated Fascism, both sides would appeal to Dollfuss as an arbiter.

Has Not Reached Decision.

"When the chancellor has reached a decision he will say so, but not before," added the spokesman.

Meanwhile reports of riots added to the tension in the political situation. A clash today between Nazis and the heimwehr at Wolfsegg, near Linz, resulted in the deaths of three men and the wounding of twelve. The removal of Nazi burgomasters in Carinthia resulted in riots over the week-end in which several Nazis were bayonetted. A heimwehr member was killed in a disturbance in Styria, long the stronghold of the Nazis.

The heimwehr, through its remaining Vienna newspaper, the Abendblatt, thundered a warning that the organization "means bitter earnest" and is determined to "smash" any opposition to a Fascist program.

Warns "Storm" Is Near.

The newspaper continued that "any one who knows Maj. Fey [Emil Fey, minister of public security] knows he would ten times sooner act than lose time wrangling with words."

"The storm he has spoken of is already beginning to blow and the hurricane which will sweep away all that is wormeaten and rotten is ready to break loose," the article added.

The heimwehr was reported seeking the appointment of Fey as executive minister, with control of all armed forces, including the army, police, and gendarmerie. He predicted last night that "a still stronger wind is going to blow in Austria."

Other demands of the heimwehr were said to be the resignation of Karl Vaugoin, the war minister, and of Winkler.

CUBANS REVOLT AS PRESIDENT OFFERS TO QUIT

Student Body Refuses Grau's Resignation.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HAVANA, Cuba, Sept. 19.—Ramon Grau San Martin today placed his resignation as provisional president of Cuba before the student directorate, his chief support, leaving them to decide whether he will remain in office or voluntarily retire, as opposition factions have been demanding. The students declined to accept the resignation.

Meantime, students are marching around the city with shouts of "Viva Grau San Martin" and "We want no politicians."

Members of the student directorate spoke to a huge crowd in front of the palace. From the palace balcony they harshly criticized the attitude of the opposition leaders such as former President Mario G. Menocal, leader of the Conservative party; Col. Carlos Mendieta, head of the Nationalist union, and Miguel Mariano Gomez, former mayor of Havana and head of the Marianista party. These three have been foremost in the movement to oust Grau.

Revolt in Camaguey Province.

Meantime, a revolt blazed up today at Moron, in Camaguey province, 350 miles from here, and the military activities of Col. Fulgencio Batista and his army, minus the regular officers, were concentrated against Col. Juan Blas Hernandez, guerrilla war specialist.

Early this morning Hernandez at the head of 300 armed men captured the city of Moron. Hernandez is now reported making his way toward the southern part of Santa Clara province, with Trinidad as his objective.

The palace announced tonight that the army had recaptured Moron and that Col. Batista had gone to Camaguey to take charge of operations against Hernandez. Three trains filled with infantry and machine gun battalions left for the revolt zone at 3 o'clock. President Grau said an iron circle will be thrown around the rebels somewhere between Moron and Trinidad and that "we expect Hernandez to surrender within 48 hours."

The ABC revolutionary society announced that members of the Caribbean army of students have gone with the army forces. The students will try to persuade Hernandez to surrender if they can get in touch with him before actual fighting takes place. Hernandez is for the reinstatement of former President Carlos Manuel de Cespedes, who was ousted by the army revolt of Sept. 5.

An Old Foe of Machado.

Hernandez, a short, squat, husky man of about 45, with a penchant for fighting in the hills, started his revolt at Ranchulos, on the north coast of Santa Clara. He set up a government of his own and moved to his birthplace, Moron, where he stormed the city, put the garrison to flight, and took possession of one of the largest cities on the north coast of Camaguey.

Out in the hills and canebrakes Hernandez is considered a sort of military hero, because he was the only guerrilla leader capable of defeating army forces under Maj. Arsenio Ortiz, an underling of former President Machado, last February.

Hernandez has a record of having maintained an armed revolt in Camaguey and Santa Clara provinces for eight consecutive months against forces of Machado which greatly outnumbered him.

Hernandez has the palace and the army far more worried than the 450 army and navy officers who are still bottled up at the National hotel here.

Another Revolt in Oriente.

In Oriente province, at the other end of the island, 80 per cent of the population of which is black, conditions are growing more critical, according to dispatches received here from THE TRIBUNE'S correspondent there. He reports that at Colon, former Congressman Olimpio Fonseca has revolted with 150 armed men and is marching toward the Sierra Maestra, the tallest mountain range in Cuba, on the south coast of Oriente. Army forces have been ordered to pursue the rebels.

Strikers staged a riot in a public park of Manzanillo. Two persons were killed and several were wounded in the shooting. The city is under communist control.

Troops are apparently supporting the communists at Santiago. American employés at the Daiquiri iron mines near Santiago were reported to be virtual prisoners of striking workers. The strikers, it was said, had refused to permit the Americans to replenish their food supply.

French, British, and American consuls have presented official protests to the governor of Oriente against the chaotic conditions imperiling the safety of their respective citizens.

Briton Seized by Reds.

In Oriente 18 sugar mills are now in the hands of communists and sugar labor strikers. Syndicalism is one root of the disturbances. It is patterned on the old one-big-union idea, and labor syndicates have been organizing agricultural labor, mostly sugar workers, on the island.

Black and tan "wobblies" have been promising the workers double wages and an eight hour day, while the communists, who are said to be affiliated with the Uruguayan branch of the Third Internationale at Moscow, have been propagandizing sugar laborers with sovietism.

Late this afternoon communists captured the Soledad sugar mill, one of the largest in Santa Clara province, and made O. D. Hughes, a British subject, prisoner. Soledad is 12 miles east of Cienfuegos.

A soviet régime was also established today at the sugar central at Palma.

One hundred and fifty physicians of the National Medical federation have abandoned the civil hospital at Santiago de Cuba, leaving the patients without assistance. They tendered their resignations to Carlos J. Finlay, secretary of sanitation in Havana, claiming he is an enemy of the interests of the federation.

Col. Batista and the army are the balance of power in the political movement to overturn Grau on the ground that he is unable to get economic results in the way of improving the depression because he is not supported by the full force of the revolutionary groups.

An appeal to Batista to revolt against the Grau government was placarded over the city late today by the junta de defensa del estado del ejercito [junta of defense of the condition of the army]. This is a new organization of former officers and soldiers, now retired. The organization issued a manifesto praising the deposed De Cespedes administration and criticizing the leaders of the army revolt which pushed him out of the presidency.

Charge Army Is Betrayed.

The manifesto said the revolution has now been transformed into "a fountain of egotism and personal ambitions. The army has been betrayed. Soldiers were led to believe the revolt was solely for the purpose of cleansing the army of forces formerly connected with the crimes of Machado, but not to oust De Cespedes."

Indications are that a showdown is fast approaching. Grau, in announcing that he had put his resignation before the students, accused Menocal, Mendieta, Gomez, and the ABC of putting their approval on his selection as president by the junta nine days ago.

The reply of the counter revolutionaries is that they gave approval to the establishment of a government with a president and cabinet instead of a junta. They also claim that the Grau government is hopelessly stalled and unable to preserve order.

The counter revolutionaries demand that President Grau make way for a new temporary government of neutral character, composed of men with no political affiliations and to which no prominent leaders of revolutionary groups shall be appointed. They also demand the organization of a revolutionary council of 30 members to prepare and adopt measures necessary for the establishment of a permanent government.

BRITISH EARL ROUTS BURGLARS WITH POKER AND A REVOLVER

DUDLEY, Worcestershire, England, Sept. 19.—(AP)—Swinging a poker in one hand and a revolver in the other, the earl of Dudley, who is a close friend of the prince of Wales, spent part of last night chasing burglars at his home, Himley Hall, he revealed today.

The earl who is a first rate shot, said that the robbers took little more than his night's sleep and that they escaped by diving through a window.

The earl of Dudley was awarded the military cross during the world war and is also a chevalier of the Legion of Honor.

FRENCH REFUSAL TO GIVE UP GUNS ALARMS BRITISH

Cabinet Is Summoned for Special Session.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Sept. 19.—Disarmament under the French scheme, which is not disarmament until Germany proves its good faith, became a grave problem for the British government today when Capt. Anthony Eden, undersecretary for foreign affairs, dashed back here by airplane with a report of his conversations at the French foreign office yesterday.

Upon his return, Capt. Eden hurried to Downing street to see Prime Minister MacDonald. At the same time notices were sent out summoning an emergency cabinet meeting tomorrow afternoon.

Simon Rushes to London.

On top of all the rush Sir John Simon, foreign secretary, was at Balmoral as minister in attendance upon King George. He boarded an overnight train for London.

It is learned on good authority that the chief difference between the British and French viewpoints pivots around arms supervision in its relation to Chancellor Hitler's new Germany. The United States has already accepted arms supervision in principle. The British have not gone so far, but have agreed to such supervision on condition that the details of the French scheme are acceptable.

French Remain Firm.

Nevertheless, they have agreed to supervision of a kind in MacDonald's draft agreement, which, however, did not apply to British land forces.

It is understood that the French presented an uncompromising attitude toward Capt. Eden, who had hoped to reconcile the French scheme with the German demands. A few weeks ago the French might have agreed to supervision on something like the following lines: automatic supervision of world armaments for a period of five years with some slight French disarmament "on account" in order to satisfy Germany.

Now they are adamantine. They will not spike a single gun during the five year period nor, it is reported, are the French prepared to compromise in any manner for the sake of an agreement on such a basis. They are too nervous over Hitler.

Davis Confers with French.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Sept. 19.—Following up the Franco-British conversations of yesterday—conversations which incidentally are still considerably shrouded in mystery here—Norman H. Davis, American ambassador at large, today had long conferences with Joseph Paul-Boncour, French foreign minister, and Premier Edouard Daladier.

Mr. Davis transmitted a verbal message of good will and hope in the disarmament conference from President Roosevelt to Daladier. It is understood that Davis found the French position on disarmament little changed since last spring. In American circles this is taken as optimistic since unofficial reports have frequently represented the French position as more "intransigeant" than last spring.

Actually the crux of the problem remains what it always was—that France is insisting on an effective international organization to oblige Germany to live up to her treaty obligations before she [France] disarms. As the French government possesses a dossier with which it thinks it would be comparatively easy to prove that Germany is already secretly rearming in violation of the treaties, this thesis obviously puts the Germans in a hole. If they adhere to a disarmament convention they must either live up to the letter of the Versailles treaty or else give the French a legitimate excuse for postponing disarmament indefinitely.

Consequently, the Germans oppose this plan or any kind of supervision which supervises the way they are executing the Versailles treaty. The British, realizing that the famous French dossier could be used to block disarmament indefinitely, insist in effect that France should overlook the secret armament now under way or achieved in Germany and content herself with new guaranties that Germany will not arm in the future.

LEAGUE CREATES SPECIAL SECTION FOR U. S. AFFAIRS

GENEVA, Sept. 19. — (AP) — With Hugh R. Wilson, American minister to Switzerland, practically living in Geneva and with five members of the consular staff, headed by Prentiss B. Gilbert, devoting themselves exclusively to league of nations questions, the league decided today to inaugurate a special American section.

Arthur Sweetser of Boston, one of the late President Wilson's aides when the covenant was drafted in Paris, is slated to take charge. Gilbert and four foreign service assistants will cover for Washington every detail of the forthcoming assembly and attend committee meetings.

Norman H. Davis, American ambassador-at-large, Minister Wilson and their staffs probably will be here during the assembly for private conferences, so the Americans, though not members of the league, are likely to have a personnel greater than powers who are permanent members of the council.

This situation was causing speculation today as to whether Washington intends to change its position regarding the league of nations. One report was that because of growth of American coöperation with the league, Ambassador Davis, after disarmament agreements are reached, might be appointed a permanent representative.

URSCHEL DEPICTS RANSOM DEAL WITH GANGSTERS

Often Chained to Bed Near Paradise, Tex.

and I still was blindfolded, but I was not handcuffed.

"After nightfall Sunday I was led into a house. They rearranged the furniture and added another bed. I occupied one, but I didn't sleep any that night.

"In the morning, Monday, July 24, I was given breakfast and had to eat it while still blindfolded.

"Somebody read me the headlines from the newspapers and told me that if the officers remained so active they might have to change their plans.

"I was asked to suggest some one outside of Oklahoma City to act as an intermediary, and I gave them the name of John G. Catlett, of Tulsa, an oil man and my good friend."

Urschel estimated the day of his arrival at the Shannon farm with his abductors was Sunday, July 23. He said Kelly remained at the farm and discussed with him his [Kelly's] experiences as a liquor runner.

Bank Robbers Cool Off.

"Kelly said the place was used as a stopover and that occasionally bank robbers would come to the house and stay a few days to 'cool off,'" Urschel testified. "He said they usually gave the people $200 or $300."

Friday following the kidnaping Urschel was given a new hat and shirt.

"Did they give you anything else?" asked Hyde.

"Yes, a chain," the witness answered, "to make me more comfortable."

Urschel said he was chained to his bed at night but was released every morning. During the day he said he lay on the floor, guarded and blindfolded.

Urschel said the blindfold was changed daily, "until Friday, but from then until Monday, after Bates and Kelly left, it was not changed."

"After Friday, who guarded you?" the prosecutor asked.

"Boss Shannon," the witness replied, referring to R. G. Shannon.

Clew from Shannon.

The millionaire said by that time the cotton beneath the blindfold had begun to come loose and he could see beneath it.

"I still didn't know where I was, but from conversations with 'Boss' Shannon I learned he was interested in politics of Texas, Arkansas, and Oklahoma. He referred to Oklahoma as 'down in Oklahoma.'"

Copies of a letter Urschel wrote to start the ransom negotiations were presented over objection of Ben Laska, Bates' attorney. Laska argued the photostatic copies were not the best evidence. Hyde promised to have the original in evidence tomorrow.

Urschel said the ransom note was written to Mr. Catlett the Tuesday after his abduction, inclosing a note to Mrs. Urschel.

Urschel said the kidnapers destroyed the letter he wrote because "they didn't like it."

Asked what the letter contained, the witness explained:

"I said since the estate would have to borrow any money that might be paid for my release, if the demands were excessive, to just let it go. The men said not to say anything about the amount, since somebody else would do that."

Urschel said he then wrote as the outlaws dictated. They took the letter and he was blindfolded again. He said he did not see the men because they stood behind him.

"Did you ever have any conversation with Kelly about your children, your family, or their movements in Oklahoma City?" Hyde asked.

Kelly Well Informed.

The witness replied Kelly told him he knew all about his family, adding: "He told me about my cars and a trailer that had been left in the back yard. I told him it was lucky for them they found us in the sunroom that night. He said it would not have made any difference, that they knew where I slept and would have come right up to my bedroom."

Urschel said Kelly and Bates left the farm shack on Thursday and that Shannon and his son watched over him after that. Kelly and Bates returned the next Monday, the witness added, relating:

"Kelly told me to get up, that he was going to help me shave. He gave me a basin of water, a razor and a mirror."

After Urschel shaved, he was blindfolded again. The trip home then was begun. He said when the car left the farm it was with only one man, believed to be Bates. After driving about an hour another man joined them. He thought that man was Kelly.

Urschel then told of his release at Norman, 18 miles south of Oklahoma City, on a rainy night and his cab ride home. Asked by Hyde if he told federal officers of his experiences, the witness replied:

"Within thirty minutes after I got back, Mr. [Gus] Jones and Mr. [R. H.] Colvin were at my house and I told them everything, even though I was tired and dead for sleep."

ARMORED BANK CAR CARRIES URSCHEL CASE TRIO WHO AIDED U. S.

Oklahoma City, Okla., Sept. 19.—(AP)—The federal government today used an armored bank car to carry R. G. Shannon, his wife and son from the federal building to the heavily fortified county jail tonight. The car was escorted by deputy sheriffs. The Shannons have aided the government in the Urschel case. Armed guards were locked inside with the Shannons ready to fire through the windows.

A letter purporting to come from George R. Kelly, sought as a kidnaper, was received today by air mail from Chicago. It was signed George R. Kelly and was said by the writer to include his finger prints.

"I desire the public to know that the Shannon family are innocent victims in the Charles F. Urschel case the same as Urschel was," the letter said. "I understand they are now government witnesses, also defendants, and I don't want them convicted for I desire to settle with them in my own way and with no assistance from the government."

The letter added: "You might state for Mr. Keenan's [assistant United States attorney general] benefit that he has never come anyways near catching me, although I have even been in Oklahoma City four nights and up town each day."

U. S. OPENS QUIZ INTO INCOME OF FILM UNION CZAR

Agents Question Slugging Victim About Maloy.

Thomas E. Maloy, czar of the turbulent Motion Picture Operators' union, who has escaped prosecution by the state, although he has been questioned concerning numerous acts of violence, may face federal prosecution on charges of income tax violation.

This was revealed yesterday when two government agents questioned Clyde Osterberg, 30 years old, 4716 Winthrop avenue, who was slugged last Friday in the office of the union at 500 South Wabash avenue. The agents appeared at the Criminal court building and announced that they were seeking information concerning Maloy's income.

After a long session with Osterberg the agents departed with the announcement that he had told them "everything he knew about Maloy." Osterberg is in voluntary custody of the state's attorney on his request for protection from further violence at the hands of sluggers of the movie union.

Quinn Gets Change of Venue.

Osterberg had charged that Emmett M. Quinn, 40 years old, who practices dentistry and is also a motion picture operator and steward of the union, beat him unconscious with a revolver butt when he called at the union offices to protest concerning a curtailed pay check.

Quinn, arraigned yesterday before Judge Joseph H. McGarry on a charge of assault with a deadly weapon, was granted a change of venue. The case was set for hearing next Tuesday in the jury court.

Osterberg, a former intimate of Maloy and Quinn, announced after he was beaten in the union office that he was "through" with the union and Maloy and was ready to "say plenty."

The affairs of the operators' union have drawn police attention on numerous occasions in the last few years. Bombings, sluggings, and several murders have been attributed to strife within the union.

Scene of Oser Slaying.

The union headquarters was the scene of a killing last March, when Fred Oser, leader of a rebel faction of the union, who had sought a court accounting of Maloy's administration of union affairs, was shot to death by Ralph O'Hara, Maloy's bodyguard. O'Hara was tried for murder and acquitted.

Osterberg told the police that his trouble with the union grew out of his employment as an operator in the Chrysler building at the World's Fair. He received only $35 a week for 12 hours' work daily, Osterberg said, despite the fact that officials of the building were paying the union $2.50 an hour for the work.

Quinn learned that he had complained to the Chrysler officials, Osterberg said, and fired him. Osterberg said that the slugging occurred when he went to the union headquarters to renew his protest.

MAKE VICTIMS LIE ON FLOOR.

The police yesterday were seeking three bandits who took $90 in a robbery, late Monday night, of drug store at 3000 North Laramie avenue after forcing the manager, Joseph Salon, and several customers to lie on the floor.

AVIATOR BALCHEN VANISHES ON WAY TO AFRICAN CLINIC

CAPE TOWN, Union of South Africa, Sept. 20 [Wednesday].—(AP)—Bernt Balchen, the flyer, who arrived yesterday with Sir Hubert Wilkins suffering from acute appendicitis, has mysteriously disappeared and his whereabouts is not known.

Balchen left the ship Wyatt Earp, on which he and Sir Hubert arrived, at 4 p. m. and took a taxi for a hospital to undergo an operation, but he never reached the hospital. Newspaper men who boarded the ship early today found Sir Hubert and the captain and crew of the vessel still awake, awaiting news of Balchen.

Persons aboard the ship said the airman met a doctor at a hotel in town after asking a taxi containing his belongings to wait for him. Having talked to the doctor, Balchen excused himself and left the room. He did not reappear. Eventually the taxi driver returned to the ship with Balchen's belongings. Police were notified. They found no trace of him. Balchen gained fame as pilot for Admiral Richard E. Byrd on his south pole expedition.

NEW IRAQ KING IS ENGAGED TO MARRY COUSIN

BAGDAD, Iraq, Sept. 19.—(AP)—Young King Ghazi, who succeeded his father, the late King Feisal, only eleven days ago, is engaged to marry his cousin, the Princess Aliyah, daughter of former King Ali of the Hedjaz.

The betrothal was celebrated last night at the palace. No official announcement was made, however, and it was not known generally in the city. Political reasons, it was said, may have been responsible for the engagement so soon after the death of King Feisal.

The future queen of Iraq is 22 years old, the same age as the king. Reports from the palace are that she is very beautiful.

RISE OF DAVIS TOLD IN SECOND LOTTERY TRIAL

U. S. Charges Big Profit on Dance Tickets.

New York, Sept. 19.—[Special.]—Two pictures, differing only in their emphasis, of James J. Davis, United States senator from Pennsylvania and director general of the Loyal Order of Moose, were presented today to the jury in the federal court. There he is on trial again on charges of violating the federal anti-lottery laws in connection with two charity dances conducted by the Moose in 1930 and 1931. The first hearing resulted in a mistrial.

Assistant United States Attorney Louis Mead Treadwell gave credit to Senator Davis for the work he did in building the Moose and cited Mr. Davis' close personal and financial relationship to the order. Treadwell gave that as convincing proof of the contention that Mr. Davis must have given his approval and support to the charity dances and lotteries conducted in connection with them.

Depicts Davis' Struggles.

Charles H. Tuttle, former United States attorney, who opened the defense, depicted the struggle of young James J. Davis from bootblack and telegraph messenger boy to leader of labor, three appointed secretary of labor, and United States senator.

When Davis joined the Moose on Oct. 27, 1926, "a sacred date in the annals of the order," Mr. Tuttle continued, he first advanced the idea which later grew into being as Mooseheart, the home in Illinois, for the care of orphans of members of the order.

Charges Davis Got Profit.

When the two attorneys came to a discussion of financial affairs, however, there was a great divergence. Mr. Treadwell produced several charts covering the charity dances showing that the gross receipts from the sale of 50 cent tickets had been $3,224,493.44, of which $500,000 went to Mooseheart, the announced beneficiary of the entertainments. Mr. Treadwell charged that Senator Davis and Theodore G. Miller, secretary of the propagation department of the order, received $250,000 and that Bernard C. McGuire, a professional promotor, received a similar amount.

Mr. Tuttle said individual lodges of the order retained $900,000 of the proceeds of the ticket sales and that out of this amount they paid their annual assessment for the support of Mooseheart bringing up the total amount received by that beneficiary to nearly a million dollars.

Senator Davis and Miller are charged with violation of and conspiracy with others to violate the federal lottery laws.

KIDNAP CONFESSIONS ADMITTED BY JUDGE IN LUER CASE TRIAL

Edwardsville, Ill., Sept. 19.—[Special.]—Following a ruling by Judge D. H. Mudge on the admission of alleged confessions, evidence to implicate Percy M. Fitzgerald, St. Louis, and Mike Musiala, Madison county farmer, as two of the kidnapers of August Luer, Alton banker, was offered in the Madison county Circuit court today. The two are on trial with a woman and three other men on an indictment charging kidnaping for ransom.

Judge Mudge said the court could not cast aside and disregard the alledged confessions and statements made by the several defendants.

"I do not believe they were obtained under coercion, threats or promises of immunity or reward," he said. "The court will not allow the statement of one defendant made against another, even though the defendant was present, to be used against that defendant. But such statements of guilt as can properly be established will be accepted. The statements of defendants Norvel and Gitcho come undenied, undisputed, agreed upon and indorsed."

EXPLAINS BANK DEAL WITH AID OF PAPER CUPS

Demonstration Put On for Kresel Jury.

New York, Sept. 19.—[Special.]—The white haired John W. Davis solemnly made use of a drinking glass and eight white paper drinking cups this afternoon in "an elementary demonstration" before the jury which is trying Isidor J. Kresel on charges of misapplying the funds of the Municipal Safe Deposit company, an affiliate of the new defunct Bank of United States. Mr. Davis is counsel for the defense.

Kresel, who was counsel to and a director of the bank, is on trial in the criminal branch of the Supreme court.

Mr. Davis made his demonstration during his opening address to the jury to prove, he said, that not one cent was lost or gained by the Bank of United States or any of its subsidiaries as a result of the intricate security switching transaction on which the indictment against Kresel is based.

From the glass Mr. Davis poured water into a paper cup and then transferred the water from the cup to cup and back to the glass again.

"Now you see," he said, "not a drop was spilled in the transaction—not even as much as I have spilled here in my elementary demonstration. Not a cent was lost or gained by the transaction which has been described."

In making the demonstration Mr. Davis had explained that three of the cups represented financial subsidiaries of the bank, two represented development companies, three represented safe deposit companies and the glass represented the bank itself.

"If there ever was a technical crime committed," Mr. Davis said, "you'll find that this was that sort of crime."

He went on to say that the transaction had nothing to do with the failure of the bank in December, 1930.

Specifically Kresel is charged with the willful misapplication of $2,009,518 of the funds of the Municipal Safe Deposit company on Jan. 13, 1930.

An item Saturday erroneously said that the cost of three steel single screw coast guard cutters to be constructed for the great lakes area would be $550,000. The vessels are to cost $550,000 each, according to Capt. H. R. Searles, commander of the Chicago division of the coast guard.

The name of Frank C. Devlin appeared as chairman of the American Legion committee of Cicero day at A Century of Progress in last Sunday's Metropolitan section. George Stasenka, commander of Cicero post of the American Legion, is the chairman.

HERE'S PLENTY OF FOOD FOR THOUGHT

NUMBER 4 IN A SERIES OF ADVERTISEMENTS

AN AUTOMOBILE, today, is a purchase that should be thought over very carefully in advance. It is, in fact, a long-term investment that should be investigated just as carefully as though you were buying mortgages or bonds.

There are hundreds of good, solid reasons why the Graham is a really remarkable value. It satisfies all eight primary value-factors:

1. Economy
2. Dependability
3. Speed and power
4. Beauty
5. Comfort
6. Safety
7. Long life
8. Re-sale value

We haven't space to cover all of them here, so we're going to talk, this time, entirely about economy.

First, consider gasoline mileage. Claims mean nothing unless they are based on normal operating conditions. A driver who runs a car in one special way (say at 12 miles per hour on a level track) can get many more miles to the gallon than would be possible in every-day use. Therefore it is noteworthy that under exacting road tests conducted at an average speed of 25 to 35 m.p.h.—which is probably your average driving speed—the Graham shows a gasoline consumption of 16 to 17 miles to the gallon.

The Graham is also very economical on oil. That is because the cylinders of the Graham engine are water-jacketed their full length.

Graham has Free-Wheeling, which also helps save both gasoline and oil.

All moving parts in the Graham are made of the best materials, so designed that they will last an unusually long time. And when, finally, it becomes necessary to replace one of these parts, it will be found relatively accessible to the mechanic, thus keeping labor costs down.

But after all, the best way to satisfy yourself on Graham-value is to try it out yourself. We will be glad to arrange a demonstration for you at your convenience.

SOMEBODY FORGOT! . . . AND HE DROVE 20 MILES AT 50 MILES PER HOUR WITH A DRY CRANKCASE!

WHEN ALBERT ARPS of Denver instructed the garage to change oil, the crankcase was drained but the boy forgot, because of other work, to refill with oil. Mr. Arps, being delayed and hurried, did not notice the absence of oil and drove out on his trip. Twenty miles later he discovered his oil pressure at zero and found he didn't have a drop of oil in his crankcase. This was verified by a Red Triangle station man at Broomfield. Much worried before, because he had driven all but the last half mile, around fifty miles per hour he was greatly relieved to find both radiator and engine only normally hot. No damage had been done. Mr. Arps had used Conoco Germ Processed Motor Oil exclusively in his car but had never thought of the "Hidden Quart" in terms of actual protection until this incident about which he wrote in enthusiastic terms.

You may never have this experience and drive with an empty crankcase. But remember that if you use oils not Germ Processed, which drain away during idle periods, you are running your motor under "dry crankcase" conditions every time you start. Only Germ Processed Oil actually penetrates and combines with metal surfaces. And only Germ Processed Oil gives you the protection of the "Hidden Quart" that stays up in your motor and never drains away.

The "Hidden Quart" cuts down starting wear, saves gas and gives your motor longer life . . . . with fewer repair bills. It assures safe lubrication at all times.

"The newspaper is an institution developed by civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and mold public opinion, and to furnish that check upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide."

THE ENEMY OF THE CONSTITUTION.

The observance of Constitution week this year was marked by the preparation of a considerable number of addresses and papers of a quality which is not often associated with such occasions. Ordinarily the emphasis is on past glories and the style is oratorical. This year the emphasis has been on the future of constitutional liberty and there has been an almost complete absence of bombast. It was plain that many, if not most, of the speakers are alarmed at the turn of events They are insistent that their countrymen know what has happened to the constitution of recent months and what is likely to follow.

Among the more important addresses of the week that of Mr. Charles W. Hadley before the Aurora chapter of the D. A. R. deserves to be listed. Mr. Hadley stressed a point which has been too much neglected. He said that governmental extravagance is itself a grave menace to the continued functioning of the constitution. Why this should be so can be readily demonstrated.

When the government in time of peace plays the rôle of drunken sailor the money will go either in direct gifts to the citizens or it will be spent in the creation of additional agencies of control and regulation. As a matter of fact, all three methods are being pursued at the moment.

An unspecified sum which will unquestionably amount to hundreds of millions of dollars is going to the farmers to induce them to produce less. A half billion is going to support the idle. These are typical subsidies. They cannot be long continued without implanting firmly in the mind of every American citizen that the government owes him a living. That theory, in turn, cannot be followed for long in a nation whose constitution guarantees individual liberty. No government can undertake to support its people unless it is given the right at the same time to direct their lives. If the government must support the people but cannot command their labor the nation will go bankrupt as more and more of the population degenerates into pauperism or is forced into pauperism by crushing taxation required to pay the subsidies. The soviets had no illusions on this point. When they took the position that the state owed the individual a living they asserted at the same time the right of the state to deny to the individual all the rights of a freeman, political and economic. Our experimenters have pretended that constitutional liberty has not been imperiled by their subsidies, but they are deceiving themselves.

The squandering of vast sums on dubious public works is scarcely less subversive. Instead of debauching and enslaving the individual, public works debauch whole sections of the country. They readily degenerate into bribes to members of congress to permit invasions of the rights of the people and to the people themselves to waive their rights. In the Tennessee valley appropriation these tendencies are apparent and the further tendency of the government to use its public works appropriations actually to destroy the competition of private citizens and taxpayers. There can be no equality of citizenship when the government becomes an unfair competitor of some of the citizens while subsidizing others.

There is, finally, the immense increase in the personnel of the executive branch of government and therefore in the patronage lists. The constitutional division of powers must break down under this pressure. The legislature succumbs first; and in the presence of a political machine of unexampled strength and size no one knows or can say with certainty what will become of the judiciary.

Extravagance, as Mr. Hadley well said, is the enemy of the constitution. It is not the only enemy but it is the most insidious. If the contemplated rate of spending in Washington is adhered to there will be little left of the constitution within a few years. Indeed, the inroads which have been made already may prove to be irreparable.

AND STILL NO GOLD PROSECUTION.

Week follows week and still no one has been prosecuted for the possession of gold in violation of the treasury's decree. The date when gold must be surrendered has been postponed once more, this time to Oct. 3. This is, of course, explicable in view of the now well established fact that the attorney general, Mr. Cummings, who must direct the prosecution, is a firm believer in constitutional liberty and accordingly must be finding it extremely difficult to make a case which will satisfy the courts and more especially his own conscience and sense of right.

Meanwhile the treasury is itself making the market for gold, and its late quotations show that those who obeyed the government's order have been heavily penalized. They received $20.67 in paper money for every ounce of gold they turned in. Lately the treasury has been paying more than $30 for the same quantity of new gold. Meanwhile, because the government's market is confined to new gold, old gold is being bootlegged extensively and by one ruse or another extremely heavy movements of capital out of this country are taking place.

The situation is loaded with dynamite. Some time—and it must be soon, if trade relations are not to be seriously impaired—the dollar must again be stabilized in relation to gold. When that time comes there will be stupendous sums held abroad by Americans to be repatriated. How that reverse movement can take place without causing the most serious unbalancing of the exchanges, accompanied by new declines in foreign currencies, it is difficult to see. Much of the alleged advantage which comes to our foreign traders as a result of our declining dollar may be lost.

THE ECONOMY OF COSTLY WASTE.

New deals necessarily imply the abandonment of old ideas. A new deal is based on new ideas, and Mr. Wallace and Mr. Peek in the agricultural adjustment are friends of innovation. The people of the Chicago suburbs who are distressed by the odors of thousands of slaughtered little pigs dumped along the Illinois Central right of way are merely smelling the sacrifices to the new gods of agriculture which now prevail in the American agronomy.

When tillers of the soil were more superstitious than they are now little gods had a place on the soil. They were gods of fertility. Tributes were offered them to secure their countenance and good offices that the vines might bear and the stock increase, that there might be grain and olives. The little gods of Mr. Wallace and Mr. Peek preside over destruction. The votive offerings to them are public funds used to promote the destruction of farm products, striving for less meat, less grain, and less cotton.

For reasons which the agricultural adjustment administrators could give, it was regarded as inexpedient and inadvisable to have the pork destruction quietly undertaken on the producing farms and as desirable to have the little pigs hauled to the packing centers, principally Chicago, for slaughter. In consequence, the waste of food products has been concentrated here as a huge drama of administration purpose. It has overtaxed even the great facilities of the Chicago stockyards and the carcasses dumped as waste have become a peril to health and a terrible offense to the senses.

To old ideas of economy these things now being destroyed were wealth. Pork and grain raised in abundance meant that the nation could look forward to winter with security. Food is destroyed in Chicago, a city in which the per capita cost of relief, supported by public revenues, is increasing because the cost of foodstuffs is increasing. The sufficiency of the public revenue to continue the feeding of the destitute becomes more questionable month by month, and yet the festering carcasses of food animals drive inhabitants of this region to justified protests, and it may be that in some of the homes so distressed there is actual need of the wasted meat. For the savage irony of this the administrators no doubt will have an economic explanation.

In times past the thing a country most dreaded was that drought, flood, loss of soil fertility, or other causes would produce a food shortage. The dread was not an unreasonable one and in this day it is an actual and recurring hardship in many lands. Lands in which population is a burden are in terror of the food shortage and feel that wealth is theirs when the soil produces an abundance. Nations living on the margin of production or beyond it in the realm of deprivation include the great powers of Russia and Japan. The United States apparently sees no other escape from ruin than one requiring the destruction and waste of its food. The public money is used with one hand to destroy supplies and with the other to buy them for inhabitants of the land who look to the government for their daily bread.

Editorial of the Day

FEDERAL STUPIDITY.

[The Grand Rapids Herald.]

The labyrinthical complexities of federal operation are a source of unceasing discomfort to the American people. Just why governmental enterprise cannot operate in a straight line, but instead seems persistently destined to meanderings into blind alleys and obstructed byways, is one of the great mysteries of our political system.

The New Deal, fertile as it is with innovations, has not overcome this fault. As proof of this statement take the case of the army air corps and Maxwell field, a southern post near Montgomery, Ala. More than a year ago President Hoover released the sum of $995,000 for the construction of 55 new "sets" of officers' quarters to house the married flyers. Because the lowest bid for construction was far below anticipations only $640,000 of this amount is being spent on a contract awarded last November. Thus a saving of $355,000 was accomplished.

Some of these officers' quarters, which actually are individual houses, are now completed so far as general construction is concerned, and are ready for occupancy—except for one little omission. The electrical conduits to supply current for the quarters have not been built or ordered built; and neither has anything been done toward construction of the necessary roads.

These houses will stand idle until electricity is provided and highway approaches are made available.

All of this is happening because last April 1 the President impounded all unobligated funds previously appropriated by congress for the army housing program. Since contracts had not been let for the electric connections and roads, this Maxwell field subjob had no money "obligated" for it, and the need apparently was lost sight of in the shuffle for the New Deal.

Only some $24,000 was originally estimated as needed for roads and $18,000 for electrical conduit connections to make these officers' quarters available for use. But since that money is not available and those contracts have not been let, a $640,000 investment must stand idle. In the meantime the government is losing money every day because Maxwell field commissioned officers are required, through lack of housing facilities nearer the field, to live in Montgomery. The government pays their rent with an average allowance of $72 per month. Since approximately 40 "sets of quarters" will be ready for occupancy early in October, except for electricity and roads, this means a net loss to the government of something like $3,000 a month.

While all of this delay continues prices of labor and material are mounting, and, since another of those unbreakable federal rules denies payment to subcontractors until the entire job is completed, they, too, are losers.

Of course, President Roosevelt doesn't know about this. Neither, presumably, does the secretary of war, which likewise is in keeping with tradition. The whole picture is typical of the manner in which red tape tangles and strangles federal enterprise, pyramiding the cost to the taxpayer and bringing endless and unnecessary delays. A similar story could be told of other federal projects.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

WELL, WELL, WELL! So two more states, Idaho and New Mexico, joined the big parade and voted big majorities to give the Sacred Eighteenth the bum's rush. "Stop! Stop! You awful scofflaw." I can hear the drys shouting at me. "You are always boasting and bragging about putting the Line to bed at six o'clock and at six o'clock yesterday afternoon, because of the difference in time, the polls out in Idaho and New Mexico hadn't closed yet and they hadn't begun to count the vote, so how dare you say that Idaho and New Mexico were against the Sacred Eighteenth by big majorities? How could you tell before the vote was counted?" I honestly don't know how I do it. It's a gift. You turn to the first page and see what a regular little seventh son of a seventh son I am. And I'm ready to peek behind the veil that conceals the future and tell you likewise what the five states left to complete the job are going to do. Are you listening?

GARDEN MUSICALE.

Blow your trumpet, pipe your flute,
play the dark bassoon,
while I strip this tree of fruit beneath a clouded moon.

Play the mellow clarinet,
sound the hollow drum;
this moment I shall not forget
now that it has come.

The fruit I gathered from the tree
I hold within my hand and so shall hold it lovingly
all through the saraband

and shall not taste of it until the music and the moon are gone, and up upon a certain hill
my heart is hallowed in the dawn.

TWO BANDIT ladies here in Chicago giggle at a gentleman passing their car and ask him to please tell them how to get to the World's Fair. The gentleman politely lifts his hat, steps over to the car, and says: "You go to the next corner and turn east"—and the ladies, giggling merrily, put guns under his nose, make him get into the car, and drive to a secluded spot and take seven berries away from him. Which is going to make it hard sledding for any two giggling ladies who ask me how they can go to the World's Fair. It may not be gentlemanly, but the place I'll tell 'em where they can go won't be the World's Fair.

SAID OUR MUSIC CRITIC, Mr. Moore, yesterday: "I have heard worse performances of 'Carmen' at six dollars than this company gave at one." Which made me decide to give our tickets for "Madame Butterfly" to the cook, when I happened to notice that Mr. Moore also said: "'Carmen' was a performance to gladden the soul." You have to read a critic all the way through.

Which she should have kept
Inside the golden locket
Of her heart.
But she, being a woman,
Often wept
And claimed that Life

Should weep for candles
Grown a little dim,
While he stood near her
Gazing up at stars.

OIL THE BABY.

In the present state of the art babies 9 months old and older are pretty healthy. The death rate in the group is not much higher than the general death rate. Nor do they have a great amount of nonfatal illness. Mothers and nurses know how to take care of babies of this age. Babies between 6 and 9 months old are also on a pretty satisfactory basis. They do not have as low a death rate as does the general population of the present day, but it does compare favorably with that of forty years ago.

The great unsolved problem is that of the young babies—those who are less than 3 months old. We must learn to take better care of the very young babies if we are to have continued improvement.

There are some pretty well established facts that need to be more generally known and adopted. A baby's first few baths should not be tub baths, nor should soap and water be used. The proper cleansing agent is oil. Babies that are cleaned with oil keep several degrees warmer than those cleaned with soap and water, however warm the bath water and the air of the room may be.

Very young babies are extremely susceptible to cold. Their skin temperature is very prone to drop and if it does trouble may follow. To wash a baby with soap and warm water, dry him, powder him, and dress him is quite apt to make his skin temperature fall. Besides, washing and dressing require much handling and the less a very young baby is handled the better are his chances.

Babies cleaned with oils lose less weight and that is very important. Some loss in weight during the first week is inevitable and it should be avoided in so far as is possible. Cleaning with oil is one way to do that.

Feeding from the beginning is an even more effective way. The newborn baby should be put to the breast within six hours after birth. Probably no food will be forthcoming, or what is supplied will be scant in amount and of poor quality. In that event the baby should be given either water or milk, or both.

A few teaspoons of boiled water, cooled and then heated to blood heat, should be given at about four to six hour intervals, especially in warm weather.

Most babies need and can take some milk. The best milk is that from the mother, although if that is not available well diluted and sugared cow's milk can be used, provided it is of good quality and pasteurized or boiled.

During the first day the baby should have four feedings at six hour intervals, or four small drinks of warm water, as stated above. During the second day there should be five feedings at four hour intervals, or a like number of drinks of water. During the third day, if the supply of mother's milk is not ample, the substitute feedings or drinkings should be at three hour intervals. However, by the third day no shortage of the maternal supply is to be expected.

The old plan was to let the baby go without water or food until the mother's milk came. Under that plan babies lost weight rather rapidly and many of them developed a hunger fever. Under the modern plan hunger fever is rare and the loss of weight is less.

HOT FOOD.

Mrs. G. writes: I have an argument with my daughter who, at times, must attend to our cooking. I think that most cooked foods should be served steaming hot, especially to young children and elderly persons, whereas she contends that the mere cooking process suffices to render the food entirely wholesome and that it matters little whether the food is served and eaten either hot or lukewarm.

REPLY.

Your daughter is right. Cooking foods increases their digestibility as a rule. There is no advantage but some disadvantage in eating foods that are hot. We talk much about the harm done by hot breads, but we forget that they are not worse than other hot foods.

BAD BREATH.

M. S. S. writes: I am troubled with bad breath, which I have at all times. I also have laryngitis. Do you think that the laryngitis is causing the bad breath?

REPLY.

Laryngitis is not a cause of bad breath. Chronic bronchitis with bronchiectic cavities [which might be mistaken for chronic laryngitis] causes some cases.

Among the causes of bad breath are: Foul tongue, teeth, or tonsils; ozena, and intestinal fermentation. The last causes more cases than all the others combined.

Treatment of halitosis due to the last named consists in changing the diet and bowel habits.

RED NOSE.

A. L. D. writes: I am bothered with small red varicose veins around the nose. They are very embarrassing. Can they be removed? I do not indulge in alcohol.

REPLY.

As a rule, thread blood vessels around the nose are due to digestive disorders. Drunkards often have them, but when they do it is because of the indigestion caused by drinking rather than the liquor itself. Treatment consists in overcoming the gall bladder, liver, or stomach trouble that is responsible.

BLOOD RELATIVES.

Chicago, Sept. 17.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—The Probate court of Ohio has referred me to general code, Ohio—10504—73, relative to blood relatives and nonblood relatives as beneficiaries in a will. However, I am unable to find the provision or classification for an inheritance of money willed by a stepdaughter to her stepmother (the stepmother passed on before the stepdaughter, but leaves two daughters). These two daughters had the same father as the stepdaughter. Would they be considered blood relatives? In other words, would the two half-sisters be eligible to the inheritance left their mother, inasmuch as there are no direct heirs? H. J.

As we understand it, the mother or the "stepdaughter" [A] died and the father [B] married the stepmother [C] and had by her two daughters [D] and [E]. On such facts A is a blood relative [half sister] of the two daughters [D and E], but is not a blood relative of the stepmother [C].

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

INSURANCE POLICY.

Chicago, Sept. 17.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—A brother has been sick since 1924. He is now in an insane asylum. According to the provisions of his life insurance policy my mother is the beneficiary. She used to get a monthly payment from the insurance company. In 1930 my mother died, and after her death the company stopped sending the monthly checks. 1. We assume that the money is accumulating with the company. 2. Can we in any way obtain that money and how should we proceed? 3. Can we obtain the money as heirs to our mother? Is it necessary to appoint a trustee, and if so, who is competent to select him? What will be the rights of the trustee in spending the money? Can he change the beneficiary of the policy? M. U.

1. The obligations of the insurance company would depend on the wording of the policy. You might try writing to the company if you do not have the wording.
2. See 1.

FRIEND OF THE FARMER

[Inquiries on farm management, financing or governmental regulations addressed to this department must be accompanied by stamped, addressed envelope for reply.]

S. A. K. asks: Where is the government getting the money to refinance farm mortgages?

Answer: The farm credit administration is authorized to issue bonds against assets of the federal land banks, interest on the bonds being guaranteed by the government. Issues are limited to two billion dollars. Supplementary loans are made from an appropriation of $200,000,000, of which the land bank commissioner in the credit administration is administrator. Such loans must be $5,000 or less, designed to aid farmers who are in debt beyond the first mortgage limits set for the land banks.

W. G. S. asks: The tenants on several of my farms in South Dakota have asked me to sign applications with them for wheat allotment, but my share would be so small I would not want to sign if I may be held liable for failure of my tenants to comply. [a] Am I liable for acts of my tenants under the government contract? [b] Must I see that the allotted wheat acreage is planted the next two years, regardless if a tenant might fail to do so? [c] Would I be liable for failure of a tenant to repay a government seed loan?

Answers: [a] No. Failure of tenant to comply with contract merely forfeits all adjustment payments. [b] There is no minimum acreage of wheat required, only the maximum. [c] No.

D. E. W. asks: How long does it take to get a government first mortgage loan after application has been made?

Answer: Thus far the farm credit administration finds it takes an average of two months; some loans are approved quicker, others take longer.

R. G. H. asks: I am a tenant on a farm, but have only a one year lease. Could I get some of the government payments for reducing the wheat crop this year?

Answer: Yes, in the proportion of crop division fixed in your lease.

J. O. S. asks: When does the government pay for the wheat we agree to produce under the contract? Must we sell when the government tells us?

Answer: An advance payment on the allotment of wheat assigned to you is promised early in the winter, the balance next spring. No, sell it when and where you please, but get a receipt for it.

A LONG PERSPECTIVE.

Mason City, Ia., Sept. 13.—I've lived in the U. S. seventy years. I have had wide and varied experiences and have made much money in my time. I started with no capital and in my years of 21 to 60 I made and saved $200,000. I invested in lands which lost me just about half of my money, so, having enough to carry me through to the end, I think of the good times and the poor. And we have had more of the good than the poor. But now I want to say that in all the seventy years I've never seen so much foolishness in legislation as is going on right now.

The killing of a million piggy sows and four million little pigs, and the destruction of cotton, wheat, etc., is the most damnable, ridiculous, and vicious legislation I have ever heard of. Then there's the nine foot channel of the Mississippi river. Every one who has ever tried to boat (even rowboat) it down from St. Paul to Prairie du Chien knows it's nothing but a little bit of a stream and does not carry much more water than any ordinary small river. Why any one with an ounce of brains would advocate the spending of money on this project is beyond me. I guess I am not big enough to see it.

I see many of the papers are blaming Secretary Wallace, etc. That's all wrong. He's secretary of agriculture and does just what he's told to do. After a man has been selected by the President as a cabinet member he will do just what the President wants to have done. When they leave the farmers entirely alone they'll begin to get along. Every time a new farm board is tried out the price on the article they try to control goes flat instantly. Look at the wheat buying campaign put on when Alexander Legge was handling matters for the farmers. Our government lost 300 millions and wheat went down and down all the time they were trying to boost the price. Now they have the New Deal, which makes the poor pay higher prices for what they buy, but does the producer—the farmer that grows the grain or the live stock—get any more? He does not.

ARTHUR DIXON.

A MISPLACED ADJECTIVE.

Chicago, Sept. 12.—May I call your attention to THE SUNDAY TRIBUNE of Sept. 10, part 1, page 16, wherein appears a picture of three national officers of the Veterans of Foreign Wars of the United States, with the heading, "Foreign War Veterans Elect Officers." This heading was no doubt written by some one in your organization in haste, without thinking that it implies that these men are "foreign" and not fellow Americans.

Might I ask on behalf of the department of Illinois, V. F. W. of U. S., and my comrades, that in the future any references to this organization be "Veterans of Foreign Wars of the U. S."

P. P. STANISZESKI,
Commander 33d Division Post, No. 1871.

DRINKING HABITS.

Chicago, Sept. 17.—The sentiment of Gov. Horner's advisory liquor committee indicates quite clearly that the citizens of Illinois need not expect to be permitted to drink cocktails "on the premises." The saloon is to be doomed.

This is good news indeed, and I and my family heartily approve for the following reasons:

1. We much prefer to see men, women, and children do their drinking in speakeasies, which will be automatically perpetuated by the expected action of the legislature.
2. I much prefer to be ruined by actually confiscatory taxes rather than have taverns and saloons take a large share of this insupportable burden from my shoulders.
3. Americans are unfit to be permitted to drink in public.
4. I wish to see perpetuated that hypocrisy and lack of honesty which has been characteristic of the handling of the liquor problem these last fourteen years.
5. The criminal participation in speakeasy ownership and in their liquor transactions is much to be desired.
6. State snoopers, political protection, and corruption fit in well with the speakeasy and with the ideals of the governor's commission.
7. Professional drys should be permitted to keep alive the prohibition question.
8. Finally, I want it to be conclusively proven that we have not sufficient intelligence to learn the obvious lesson which prohibition should have taught us—namely: that man's drinking habits cannot be changed by laws. E. J.

A RUSSIAN MIRACLE.

Springfield, Ill., Sept. 11.—On Aug. 28 you printed a cartoon by Orr depicting Russia starving on her knees in the midst of barren fields overrun by communist armies, with a banner labeled "tyranny" floating over them.

In your news columns of Sept. 11 appears an Associated Press dispatch telling us of bountiful harvests throughout Russia and containing such phrases as: "There are indications of food in abundance, large quantities of vegetables, fruits, milk, poultry, and eggs can be had at low prices"; "the yields observed are so rich that even a relatively small percentage would be sufficient to keep the grain elevators working full blast."

Inasmuch as it does not appear that there has been any change in government in this period of three weeks, the reader is forced to the conclusion that the armies which in Mr. Orr's cartoon were responsible for the starvation of Russia in two weeks' time have achieved the miracle of abundant harvests.

BY EARL MULLIN.

Downers Grove will take over the Fair today for the third of a series of neighborhood days, conducted by the Fair to show all of Chicago that the Exposition, commemorating the developments of the last 100 years, is of and for the entire metropolitan area. Advance sales of tickets have totaled approximately 3,000 and officials of the day announced last night that close to 4,000 residents of Downers Grove would either participate in or watch the ceremonies.

The program will feature music, a parade, speeches, and a program by the state championship Downers Grove High School band. The suburban program will open in the Court of Honor at the 14th street gate at 3:30 p. m. with a parade, which will move down the Avenue of Flags to the court of the Hall of Science.

Concert by Championship Band.

The chief event of the day's program, a concert by the championship band, will take place in the Science Court after the parade. The band, under the direction of Clarence J. Shumaker, in addition to winning the state championship was a national contender with second rivision rating at Evanston last June. Other musical features will include choral and solo singing.

A community chorus, composed of voices from all the churches in the suburb, the a cappella choir of Downers Grove High school, the American Legion auxiliary vocal trio, and the Downers Grove Men's Glee club will be among the performers.

Speakers at the evening program in the Science Court will include Mayor Walter C. Barber and Lottie Holman O'Neill, one of the first woman legislators in Illinois.

The next of the neighborhood series will be Forest Park day tomorrow. This western suburb has been working for three weeks in conjunction with J. Parker Van Zandt, Fair official in charge of neighborhood participation, and last night announced a full day's program of music, speeches, and parades.

Forest Park Chooses Queen.

The Forest Park queen was selected yesterday. She is Florence Blume, 18 years old, and was selected from a field of seventy-five suburban beauties. Her two maids of honor are Phyllis Vodden, 33 Elgin avenue, and Clara Murphy, 825 Elgin avenue.

The Chicago Association of Commerce, which has been sponsoring the neighborhood days, last night took active participation itself. The Association of Commerce Glee club presented a program in the court of the Hall of Science at 7:30 p. m. The club, composed of seventy voices, is under the direction of Arthur Dunham. W. D. Egan is president of the organization. Soloists included Leo Landry, Carman Learn, Vernon Lange, and J. P. Hoster.

Despite threatening skies and only a routine program, the attendance yesterday reached a total of 100,428 at 11:30 p. m.

The Exposition will pay an additional 10 per cent on its $10,000,000 gold note issue on or shortly after Oct. 1. Announcement of the payment was made last night by President Rufus C. Dawes. This will be the second payment on the notes. On Sept. 1 a payment of 20 per cent was made by the Fair. Interest will cease on the 10 per cent payment, which will be pro rated on all outstanding notes.

Only 42 More Days Remain in Which to See the Fair.

CENTURY OF PROGRESS NOTES

Friday will continue to be Children's day at A Century of Progress, with children under 12 years old admitted to the Exposition grounds and many concessions for 5 cents. The ten cent admission price for each on other week days will also be continued, it was announced yesterday by Exposition officials.

Yesterday was an anniversary on two counts for Mr. and Mrs. John Walsh, 7811 Bennett avenue. It was the fortieth anniversary of their wedding and the fortieth anniversary of their first visit to the Fair of 1893. They celebrated by going to see the 1933 Fair. Mr. Walsh was a young farmer in 1893 with a farm near Campus, Ill. He is now 69 years old and his wife, Anna, is 68 years old.

The World's Fair hospital, under the direction of Dr. Frank W. Baylor, has treated 12,766 cases since the opening of the Fair. Of that number one-third have been medical cases. During the three and a half months no fatalities have occurred at the hospital and the most serious accident has been a broken bone.

The lost and found department at the Fair has proved to be one of the busiest offices at the Exposition. Since the opening day 5,075 articles have been found and turned in at the office in the General Exhibits building. Of that number two thousand were claimed. Lillian Murray, manager of the department, vouches for the honesty of Fair visitors, showing by the records that slightly more than $1,000 in currency has been turned in. The greatest sum found was $240.95 in a purse which was returned to a woman in Seattle.

With 400 Minnesotans registered at the Bismarck hotel for tomorrow, Minnesota day at the Fair, the hotel has arranged for a special party for the state visitors. The party will be held in the Walnut room tomorrow night with Gov. Floyd B. Olson as honor guest. Miss Anne Morana of Hibbing will be queen of Minnesota day.

Mrs. Mary Allison, Gardner, Ill., was the one millionth visitor to the Century of Progress exhibition in the Art Institute yesterday. Mrs. Allison, now a housewife, was a student at the institute twenty years ago and studied under the direction of Dr. Frederick Freer. She was given a reproduction of Whistler's "Mother" by Dudley Craft Watson, lecturer of the institute.

LABORER FOUND HANGED.

The body of Peter Eudis, 45 years old, 6605 South Washtenaw avenue, a laborer, was found hanging from a tree at California avenue and 68th street yesterday morning.

Called for Lectures

Dr. Shailer Mathews, dean emeritus of the University of Chicago school of divinity, departed yesterday for Vancouver, B. C., where he will embark for the orient. Dean Mathews was given the appointment as the 1933 Barrows lecturer in Burma and India. This lectureship is regarded as one of the most influential in the field of comparative religion. The lectures will be delivered in six principal universities of India.

Dean Mathews will visit Japan en route and participate in special ceremonies at Kobe college. He is the president of the Kobe College corporation. Mrs. Mathews will accompany her husband on his tour.

The appointment of the retired head of the University of Chicago divinity school to the Barrows lectureship was regarded as somewhat sensational in cholastic circles because of the almost opposing theological approaches of the Chicago school and Hindu leaders.

Dean Mathews' school represents the "social approach" whereas the orient lays stress on the metaphysical. Heretofore, social problems and social conduct have gained little general attention in India. The new interest in social questions on the part of Indian leaders has given Dean Mathews what he calls "the greatest adventure of my life."

CIRCUS AS CARGO GIVES SKIPPER EVENTFUL TRIP

Camel Drinks the Water in Swimming Pool.

New York, Sept. 19.—[Special.]—De Wolf Hopper's song about the man who had an elephant on his hands which broke him by eating hay was recalled today when the Red liner Caracas reached port from a trip to the West Indies and South America. Capt. Harry Hichborn had an elephant on his hands—in fact he had a whole circus—on the trip down, which started at New York on Aug. 24.

"The elephant must have been crossed with a goat," said the captain. "Her name was Topsy and they told me she was 68 years old. She weighed three tons and we had to quarter her on the forward deck. They chained her feet but they forgot to chain her trunk.

Eats Everything in Sight.

"Before we were 24 hours out two heavy tarpaulins used to cover the hatches, a lot of tackle, 50 feet of deck hose and a whole chest full of signal flags had disappeared. The circus people said Topsy had eaten them. I think she threw them overboard but her keeper insisted that she would eat anything she could get in her mouth.

"We cleared everything movable out of reach of Topsy's trunk and she confined her appetite to hay thereafter. She ate two bales of hay a day and was always hungry.

"On the afterdeck we had a trained camel. Evidently the camel had gone through a fasting period before boarding the ship, for the first day out she emptied the canvas bathing pool, which was filled with fresh water. With the water inside the camel the passengers had to go without their swims.

Pigs Is Pigs.

"There were 30 performers with the circus, which belonged to Monge Brothers. Every afternoon they would go up in the rigging and practice. I was afraid some of them would fall overboard, but we didn't lose a single acrobat.

"On the last day of the voyage the circus people obliged with a performance. That night the female member of a troupe of performing pigs gave birth to a litter of eight little pigs. O, it was some trip, all right."

Miss Iowa Attends Fair as One of Her Awards

Lindberghs Ready to Hop from Sweden for Russia

STOCKHOLM, Sept. 19.—(AP)—Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh rested at Karlskrona naval air station tonight with the plane in which they crossed the north Atlantic completely fueled and ready to take off tomorrow. Their destination has not been announced but the fact a Russian visa was stamped on Lindbergh's passport at Stockholm convinced the local press that the next halt would be at Leningrad.

SHINNIES ACROSS SKY RIDE CABLE, 600 FEET IN AIR

Bunny Dryden, 21 years old, a stunt man from Rising Star, Tex., wanted to get his name in the papers and yesterday he risked his life to get his publicity. He shinnied across the supporting cables between the Sky Ride towers at the Fair, and was fired for his trouble.

Dryden, who walks a tight wire at Hollywood at the Fair, has been trying to obtain the permission of the Fair to walk the wires between the towers since the opening date. Neither the Fair nor the Sky Ride would listen to his pleas, and yesterday he resorted to guile. He rode to the 628 foot level of the east tower. There Dryden obtained permission of Truman Ogland, a guide, to use a washroom reserved for employes.

Inside the washroom is a trap door which permits electricians to descend to repair the flood lights. Dryden reached the cables at the 600 foot level through this door and was on his way. The diagonal supporting strut slants to the 400 foot level and then a similar cable rises to the 600 foot level at the west tower. The stunt man slid down one cable and laboriously climbed up the other. The towers are 1,850 feet apart and the better part of the afternoon was needed for the trip.

AIRPORT CHIEF HURT, GIRL KILLED IN AUTO CRASH

Car Driven by Flyer Hits a Truck.

John Casey, 38 years old, airplane pilot and superintendent of the Chicago airport, was in serious condition yesterday at the Oak Forest infirmary after an automobile accident in which his young woman companion was killed. The victim of the crash was Miss Agnes Kroes, 28 years old, 1034 North Mansfield avenue, a telephone operator.

The car driven by Casey, who is married and the father of three children, crashed into the rear end of a light truck at Cicero avenue and 16th street, Alsip. John Dziedzic, 38 years old, the driver of the truck; his wife, two children, and Tony Schipions, 3055 South Bonfield avenue, were slightly injured.

Dziedzic said that the tail light on his truck was burning and that there was no other traffic on the road. Casey, however, told Peter Kroes, father of the dead girl, that he was forced into the truck by a southbound auto.

Kroes said that his daughter had known Casey for a year and had seen him occasionally during that time. He said that the couple left the Kroes home last night to attend the Sharkey-Levinsky fight. The inquest was continued until Sept. 28.

Two Trains Hit Truck; Boy Killed.

One young man was killed and his companion critically injured last night when the truck in which they were riding was struck by two freight trains at the Milwaukee road crossing on Buckley road, two miles north of Rondout.

The youth who was killed was Clarence Naumann, 19 years old, son of Emil Naumann, a farmer living three miles north of Libertyville. His companion was Frank Knigge, 23 years old, who lives on a farm near Rondout. Both were taken to the Condell Memorial hospital in Libertyville, where Naumann died.

The two freight trains were running in opposite directions on parallel tracks and the first train hurled the truck onto the other tracks just as the second train appeared.

Frank Dee Schwartz, 63 years old, 167 North Ridgeland avenue, Oak Park, former president of the Inland Electric company, was fatally injured at Roosevelt road and Ridgeland avenue, Berwyn, by the automobile of Maryon Prymula, 2906 South 48th court, Cicero. Prymula lost control after the car struck a truck. Prymula was arrested and charged with manslaughter.

Four Cook County Deaths.

Schwartz's death and three others yesterday in Cook county brought the motor toll for 1933 to 740. The victims:

The damage was estimated at $250.

All orders approved by him will be signed by either Judge Brothers or Judge Philip J. Finnegan. Mr. Miner will serve until Judge Brothers concludes his service in the Criminal court.

Master Miner is completing his ninth year as master in chancery. He has recently written a treatise on Mechanic's Lien Law.

ORDERS INQUIRY INTO DEATH OF WEALTHY WOMAN

Post-Mortem Made at Relatives' Behest.

Coroner Walsh ordered an investigation yesterday of the death on Monday of Mrs. Mary Scully Fagan Wilhelm, 221 Linden avenue, Wilmette. Her age had been given as 52, but relatives who asked the investigation said she was 76. They asserted that last May 6 she married a man 34 years of age who will inherit her property. Her estate is said to be valued between $250,000 and $1,000,000.

Mrs. Wilhelm died while seated in a chair in her home. Her husband and an interior decorator were present. Dr. H. H. Hawkins, who was called, said death appeared to be due to heart disease, but because she had not been under a physician's care he notified the authorities.

An inquest was begun yesterday morning in the undertaking rooms of William Schmidt at 3834 Irving Park boulevard and specimens of the stomach contents were given to Dr. Clarence W. Muehlberger, coroner's chemist, for analysis, pending which the inquest was continued.

Mrs. Wilhelm was the sister of the late D. B. Scully, wealthy sirup manufacturer. She had been a widow for 24 years and recently she lived at 5240 Sheridan road, but after her marriage she and her husband moved to Wilmette. Relatives said friendly relations with Mr. Wilhelm terminated after the marriage. Mrs. Wilhelm had no children but is survived by 14 nephews and nieces and seven grandnephews and grandnieces.

August Wilhelm, the husband, formerly lived at 4338 North St. Louis avenue with his parents, both of whom died within the last year, according to Mr. Schmidt, the undertaker. After the marriage with Mrs. Scully Fagan, charges were made against Wilhelm by Mrs. Mary Reardon Dean, an elderly resident of Lemont. Mrs. Dean said she met Wilhelm in Florida two years ago and entrusted the management of her estate to him. When he married Mrs. Scully Fagan Mrs. Dean made an examination of the contents of her safety deposit box, to which he had a key, she said.

Money Missing, She Says.

She declared that $5,000 in cash was missing as well, as some bonds. Wilhelm was said to have returned the bonds. Mrs. Dean obtained a warrant for his arrest from Justice of the Peace Alderman Dystrup of Lemont.

Last month Wilhelm was held to the grand jury by Justice Dystrup on charges of embezzlement and confidence game. Assistant State's Attorney Eugene L. Wachoski said Wilhelm denied having received the money from Mrs. Dean. The charge is still pending before the grand jury.

Dr. Hawkins said the husband told him Mrs. Wilhelm had eaten too hearty a meal Sunday night. Other than that she had made no complaint of illness nor of heart trouble, the doctor said.

Coroner Walsh said the husband would be questioned after the funeral tomorrow.

SEEK 100 WOMEN TO HELP SOCIAL AGENCIES' STAFFS

Volunteer Workers Sought for Many Tasks.

BY KATHERINE KELLEY.

Within a few days Chicago women with leisure time on their hands will flock to an employment agency that will provide them with jobs which will pay them nothing a week. One hundred such posts are to be filled. Last year 250 applied.

The agency is the volunteer bureau of the Chicago Council of Social Agencies. In the three years of its existence it has recruited more than 1,000 women to ease the immense case work burden which the depression has placed upon the shoulders of paid welfare workers. These volunteers, many of whom had never before seen the inside of a settlement house, are trained in a special class at the bureau instructed by the social service leaders of Chicago.

Volunteers Still Needed.

Mrs. Edward O. Brown, head of the volunteer bureau, pointed out yesterday that while names may be rapidly disappearing from relief rolls as a result of increased business activity, the need for volunteers to aid regular social workers continues. Volunteers are as necessary this year as last, she added, urging Chicago housewives and young women out of school to enroll as soon as possible. The primary requirement is a high school education.

Mrs. Brown thumbed through a stack of index cards. "These are only a few of the requests from welfare groups sent me during the last week," she explained. "Eleanor P. Eells of Association house, a settlement, asks for volunteers. She wants cooking teachers, sewing teachers, club leaders for both junior and senior groups, accompanists, a dramatic director, a handicraft instructor, and an art teacher.

"Central Howard association, through F. Emory Lyon, needs two persons for outside visiting and investigation in behalf of men who are on parole to the association.

Other Work to Be Done.

"The Chicago Heart association needs two women to help during the heart stamp sales.

"The Chicago Orphan asylum needs someone to read to invalid children. Howell Neighborhood house requests someone to help in the office—club leaders and instructors in parent education. The Jewish Home Finding society has work to be done, such as taking children to the dispensary and on recreational trips."

Mrs. Brown said that the agencies would fill the available jobs only with volunteers trained by the volunteer bureau of the council. The lecture class will open on Oct. 3, in room 807, at 18 South Wabash avenue. Enrollment, however, will take place at the council's headquarters, 203 North Wabash avenue. The lecture class will be held on Tuesday, Thursday, and Friday mornings until Nov. 3.

Antoinette Donnelly Tells How Noted Beauties Keep Charm

Frozen North Is Locale for These Stories

Lawyer Turns Trapper for Adventure's Sake.

BY AL CHASE.

Helge Ingstad, a Norwegian lawyer, several years ago found the call of adventure too loud to ignore and gave up a good practice in his native land for four thrilling years as a trapper among the Indians of the Barren Lands of the Canadian northwest. He tells of these adventures a thousand miles from the nearest railroad in "The Land of Feast and Famine" [Knopf], one of the best books of its kind we've ever read.

ROBERT MARSHALL.

It's well written, full of action and human interest, and packed with authentic information about the Indians and animals of the little known Barren Lands. He lived one winter with the Caribou-Eaters, a tribe of Barren Land Redskins, and left them only because they carried their adoption of him to the point of arranging a match with one of the belles of the tribe. Flight was the only solution of the problem. The book is splendidly illustrated with photographs by the author and has a good map.

Arctic Villages Like All Others.

Robert Marshall in his "Arctic Village" [Smith Haas], has written a vivid and picturesque portraiture of an Alaskan community.

Village life in the arctic isn't much different from that of the middle west o. anywhere else on earth in its essentials. In fact, it's more like our midwest small town life that one would suppose. And Mr. Marshall, who spent more than a year in the Koyukuk region, north of the arctic circle, living in a tiny community of Eskimos and whites, has captured the spirit of this northerly outpost in his absorbingly interesting "Arctic Village."

The author made a brief visit to this area in the summer of 1929 and left with "a vivid impression that the few white and Eskimo people who were scattered through this remote region were on the whole the happiest folk I had ever encountered." To confirm this impression he returned to Alaska and spent more than a year in Wiseman, a town of 127 persons.

His "Arctic Village" is a straightforward, simple setting forth of facts —every minute detail of life—as lived in this land of subzero winters and short and hot summers. The author was fond of his neighbors and they apparently were equally attached to him.

Another Welzl Book on North.

"The Quest for Polar Treasures," by Jan Welzl [Macmillan], seems a rather unsuccessful attempt to bring out another "natural" like the author's "Thirty Years in the Golden North." His new volume is entertaining and different than the usual book of its kind and perhaps but for the inevitable comparison with his first volume could be highly recommended. As in his other work, this is ghost written and translated. How much of the original truth and color remains can only be guessed.

For the person who likes a chilly climate and who dislikes American business life, "True North," by Elliott Merrick [Scribners], should have a decided appeal. The author, a Yale man, sought relief from newspaper work in Labrador, where he met and married an American girl. The couple took a long trip into the interior of Labrador and Merrick has written a quietly interesting account of it.

Frank Story of Oil Fields.

Jonathan Norton Leonard, author of "The Tragedy of Henry Ford," has written a boisterous, humorous, intimate and at times startlingly frank picture of the oil fields of western Venezuela in his "Men of Maracaibo" [Putnam]. The author lambasts or pokes fun at the Yankee yes-men who unsuccessfully try to convince the easy going Venezuelan that work is more important than loving and loafing.

His chapters on the home life of the natives and his comparisons of the South and North American viewpoints on sex are a bit startling even in these days of realism. But it's an unusually readable and interesting travel tale.

Every youngster and most grownups at some time in their lives think what a swell time they'd have as a modern Robinson Crusoe. With that in mind John Grove edited "The Desert Island Adventure Book, True Tales of Famous Castaways Told by Themselves" [Macmillan]. It's a rattling good collection of thrilling shipwrecks and one of the best anthologies of sea escapes we've ever read.

Koyke Scores Big Success in 'Mme. Butterfly'

"MME. BUTTERFLY."

Opera in three acts by Giacomo Puccini, presented by the San Carlo Grand Opera company at the Auditorium Tuesday, Sept. 19. The cast:

Madame Butterfly [Cho-Cho-San] .....Hizi Koyke
Suzuki [Her Servant]....Bernice Schalker
B. F. Pinkerton [of U. S. Navy] .....Dimitri Onofrei
Kate Pinkerton [His American Wife].....Marie Zara
Sharpless [U. S. Consul].....Mario Valle
Goro [Marriage Broker].Francesco Curel
Yamadori [Suitor for Cho-Cho-San] .....Natale Cervi
The Bonze .....Harold Kravitt
Conductor, Carlo Peroni.

BY EDWARD MOORE.

After the twenty-five years or more that "Mme. Butterfly" has been sung here and everywhere, one might be excused for doubting whether there were any new thrills left in it. But there was a whole set of them last night.

They were furnished by Hizi Koyke, who made her first bow to a Chicago audience as Cho-Cho-San, and who was induced by the audience to make so many of them that she nearly touched her dainty forehead to the floor of the Auditorium stage. Here was a voice, a personality, a demeanor and stage presence that just about made new standards for the part.

She is a native of Japan. Not that this is anything new for the rôle, since Tamaki Miura used to do the same thing. But with full memories of how good the Miura performances used to be, Miss Koyke does a much better one.

In fact, she was so utterly charming in the part, and with so much sincerity in her voice and manner as the basis of her charm, that there were times when I began to forget what the master minds had maintained about the complete falsity of the rôle, how it derived at first from a sentimental story, then became a more sentimental play, and finally an opera book for a great Italian melodist. Somehow she made this complex ancestry seem a graceful and truthful romance.

Japanese though she may be, her voice and her use thereof are completely occidental. It is not a large voice as sopranos go, but it is a lovely one. She does not dazzle, but she persuades. Even "Un bel di" was less an exhibition of vocalism than a pathetic confession of hope.

There is youth in her voice, and after all that is the great reason why she and her audience at once got on such a cordial ground. So is there in the voice of Mr. Onofrei. The persistent operagoer may possibly have heard the first act love duet sung more loudly than these two did it, but only on rare occasions has it been any more charming or with more sense of beauty.

Other features of the performance kept up the level set by "Carmen" on the night before. Mr. Valle, personable and melodious, was just about as able an American consul as ever walked across the Auditorium stage, and all the other rôles showed wise selection and careful staging.

"Faust" will be sung tonight, with Mr. Onofrei returning to sing the name part. Thalia Sabanieeva will be the Marguerite, Leon Rothier the Mephistopheles, and Claudio Frigerio, a newcomer, the Valentine.

Chicago's Symphony Will Give Concert Series in Milwaukee

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Milwaukee, Wis., Sept. 19.—[Special.]—A concert series by the Chicago Symphony orchestra today was assured Milwaukee as the result of the report made by the woman's auxiliary of the Milwaukee Orchestral association at a meeting in the Pabst theater.

The women have been working for weeks to retain for Milwaukee the concert series, long a part of Milwaukee's cultural life. This was done entirely by the support of the general public through subscription ticket sales, making guarantors unnecessary.

Workers reported ticket sales 20 per cent in excess of the subscription of last season, assuring the orchestra of the largest audiences in several seasons.

Despite the fact that the auxiliary has passed its goal, the women volunteered to continue their personal and telephone calls to achieve a "packed house by subscription." The additional funds would make possible outstanding soloists, Mrs. Frederick Thwaits, chairman, announced.

Mrs. Thwaits stated that Oct. 16 has been chosen as the date of the first concert. Five will be held before Christmas.

Front Views and Profiles

By June Provines

THE other day a woman who has been blind from birth and who lives at the state home for the blind was taken to "see" the Fair. The verb is her own, and she was rapturous about her new experiences. The atmosphere of the Fair made her happy, she told her companion; she felt the life and activity and color about her. A rickshaw was a great thrill, and she ran her sensitive hands over its leather seat, its wheels and shafts. She liked many things; the exhibits in the Transportation building; the De Soto cabin and its fireplace crane. She stayed at the Fair for ten hours, "seeing" the sights. And as the nightly ceremony of lighting the exhibition from the rays of Arcturus and the colors were described to her she exclaimed rapturously over and over again.

Blind—Discreet—Incidents.

"I like the red and blue lights best," she commented. "They're always the prettiest."

MRS. ORVILLE E. BABCOCK'S favorite child story of the moment concerns a little girl who started to school this week. When she came back from school she told her mother that she had had to tell her name, and her parents' names, and her age.

"Then they asked where I was born, and I knew you wouldn't care about my going into details and saying the Chicago Lying-In hospital, so I just told them the Cubs' park," she finished.

SITTING in front of the typewriter ruminating as to what to write, it occurred to us that last Sunday was, in a quiet way, rather an eventful day. In the first place, we made the acquaintance of a handsome Irish setter named Jerry, who offers his paw in greeting and who, if you squeeze his paw gently and affectionately, will squeeze back, with a gentle contraction of his toes inside your palm. That was rather pleasing. . . . Then there were the humming bird moths, which were a new bit of fauna to us. Perhaps you've seen them—delicate creatures with transparent wings banded in pink, that move with the delicate darting and dizzying motion of a humming bird. There were dozens of them, and they hovered over brilliant beds of pink and purple petunias, Chinese bell flowers, ageratum, and zinnias in a country garden, the colors of the flowers visible through their gossamer wings.

THEN there was that rather painful incident at luncheon at another country house earlier in the day when we sat through the entire luncheon thinking the man on whose right we sat was named "Mr. Berchold," the name we had caught upon introduction, and who turned out to be Philip La Follette. It was not until coffee we discovered this and probably we turned the color of our scarlet sweater when we recalled that during our conversation we had asked him where he lived. It was pleasant to realize, however, the the modesty of the man, who merely had answered "Wisconsin," and registered no surprise that a newspaper woman apparently never had heard the name La Follette.

Daring Riders Tumble Hard in Burro Race

The junior Byron S. Harveys have a new pet, a baby turtle with a souvenir picture of the Fair on his back; the Eugene F. MacDonalds had watermelon for dinner last night; the family of "Bunny" Daniels had "weenies," and the David L. Lockwoods ate catsup on something; at least if these four winners in A Century of Progress burro race made use of their prizes last night these statements are true.

Mrs. Harvey, on a little burro that answered to the name of Speed, was first in the race, which occurred in the Court of States at A Century of Progress; Mrs. MacDonald on Mizpah, named for her husband's yacht, was second; Miss Daniels on Lotus Bud was third, and Mrs. Lockwood on George was the winner of the "booby" prize.

It was hard to say who had the best time, the ten riders, the ten little burros, or the hundreds who watched the proceedings, but we would be willing to wager that it wasn't the riders, for all of them except Mrs. Harvey and Mrs. MacDonald suffered at least one fall. Miss Daniels had the most serious casualty with a skinned knee and elbow, although Mrs. Patrick Geraghty [Helen Ticken] probably felt that tearing her riding breeches was a calamity, for they were brand new and very good looking. She was the only one who was so dressed up for the event, for all the other riders were in Levis, which are the regulation attire of most dude ranch equestriennes.

Elegance of posture, manners of the burro, the most reckless and nonchalant rider and the appeal of burro and rider were the things to be weighed by the judges, Mrs. Robert Nell Cowham, James Minotto, and Shepard Vogelgesang. Needless to say, there wasn't much elegance of posture displayed by any of the contestants, although all the judges agreed that Inez MacDonald, who learned to ride in her girlhood home of Oklahoma, was by far the most elegant of the ten; and the manners of all the burros were atrocious.

All the riders were reckless if not nonchalant, and as for the appeal—we'll let that pass! Anyhow, it was a clever stunt and every one congratulated the originator of the idea, Mrs. Nathaniel Owings, on providing such an original and amusing feature.

Mrs. Owings was one of the contestants and so were Mrs. Winston Elting, Mrs. J. Stewart Harvey, Mrs. James Beach Clow, and Miss Betty Scriven.

Curator of Textiles to Address Colonial Coverlet Guild Today

Dr. Russell H. Anderson, curator of agriculture, textiles, and forestry of the Museum of Science and Industry, will address the Colonial Coverlet Guild of America at their first meeting of this season today at 2 o'clock in the museum's auditorium. Mrs. Frank L. Richardson is president of the guild. Dr. Anderson will speak on "Peruvian Textiles," and a special exhibit of prehistoric Peruvian textiles, modern Peruvian textiles and looms, Coptic textiles, Hopi textiles, Philippine textiles, Tapa cloth, and a Chilkat blanket will be on view.

In addition there will be an exhibit of a general textile nature, including a pieced quilt from a private collection, a Howe sewing machine, believed to be the third Howe made, thereby antedating the machine which he sent to the patent office with his patent application in 1846, and a collection of books on textiles.

The student of textile technology will be interested in the Churga, or roller gin, such as is used by Gandhi in ginning cotton, and a replica of Richard Arkwright's water spinning frame, which Arkwright, an English barber, invented in 1769.

Intimate Opera Will Benefit Olivet Institute

Performances to Be Given at Palmer House.

BY JUDITH CASS.

CHICAGO is to have an opportunity, or rather three opportunities, of hearing opera intime this winter in Chicago, opera such as ladies and gentlemen used to hear in the drawing rooms and great halls of the old world when opera was young. Mrs. Howard Linn, who plans a benefit for Olivet institute every fall, has arranged this novel and sure to be delightful entertainment as a means of raising money for her pet charitable enterprise this year.

There are to be three evenings of this form of opera, Nov. 21, Dec. 19, and Jan. 23, all in the ballroom of the Palmer house. Karl Kreuger, the well known conductor, who is in Kansas City forming a symphony orchestra, is coming to Chicago to direct the productions which will be given by the New York Music guild. Mr. Kreuger is married to Mrs. Linn's cousin, the former Emita Jewett. He and his wife are coming to Chicago some time next month and at that time Mrs. Linn will give a tea party for them at the Casino so that Mr. Kreuger can talk to the guests about intimate opera which is modeled upon the presentations of such works given in the Redontensaal of the Austrian imperial palace in Vienna.

"The charm of this form of opera lies in its sophistication and at the same time utter simplicity," explains Mr. Kreuger. "The stage and everything on it seemed to spring right out of the floor and to be a part of the surroundings. Hence our choice of a ballroom for these performances."

Double Bill Each Evening.

There will be a double bill each night: "The Cadi Deceived," by Gluck and Mozart, and "Salieri," by Rimsky-Korsakow, in November, and "Le Tableau Parlant," by Gretry, and "Savitri," by Holst, the December offerings.

Olivet institute, one of the oldest social settlements in Chicago, is located at 1441 Cleveland avenue. The Rev. Norman B. Barr directs the social service work in all its branches and Harold F. McCormick is chairman of the board of trustees and Evan Evans of the board of directors. The McCormicks have been interested in the settlement ever since it was founded, and Mrs. Linn, whose mother was a McCormick, has been active in raising money for it ever since she was a young girl.

Last year Mrs. Linn took over the opening night of Herma Clark's and Alice Gerstenberg's "When Chicago

Powder Cleans and Whitens Teeth—as nothing else can

THERE is nothing known that will clean and polish teeth so quickly and leave them so gleaming white—as POWDER.

That is why your dentist, when cleaning your teeth, as you know—always uses powder.

As it is only the powder part of any dentifrice that cleans, a dentifrice that is ALL POWDER just naturally cleans best.

Dr. Lyon's Tooth Powder is ALL POWDER—100% cleansing properties. This is more than twice the cleansing properties of tooth pastes.

Dr. Lyon's Tooth Powder cleans off all stains and tartar, and polishes the teeth in a harmless and practical way that leaves them sparkling—many shades whiter. Free from all grit or pumice, it cannot possibly scratch, or injure the softest enamel.

Dr. Lyon's Tooth Powder keeps your teeth REALLY CLEAN and clean teeth mean—firm, healthy gums, freedom from pyorrhea and the least possible tooth decay.

Once you use powder you will never go back to a less scientific way of tooth cleansing. It leaves your teeth feeling so much cleaner, your mouth so refreshed, and your breath so sweet and pure.

Dr. Lyon's Tooth Powder is not only doubly efficient, but it costs only half as much to use. Even a small package lasts twice as long as a tube of tooth paste.

BLOOD MONEY

By IRVIN S. COBB.

SYNOPSIS.

Uncas Cresap and his Chinese servant are found dead in the upper room of Cresap's boathouse on Kettle pond, near the eastern end of Long Island. Gilbert Jonathan Redd, Cresap's stepbrother, keeps a written private account of developments in the case. A blow on the forehead from a slender, sharp edged implement killed Cresap. The cause of Wong Gee's death is not apparent. Capt. Bray, a special investigator, is an old friend of Redd's. Redd is a former police reporter. Florence Dane, Cresap's niece and an orphan, lived with him. Redd was fond of Florence's mother. He bought a home near Cresap's in order to protect Florence. Cresap made his fortune in the tin-can trust. Redd freely admits to Bray his hatred of Cresap, who was a drunkard and a débauché. There seemed to be some secret bond between Cresap and two of his servants, the Chinaman and a dwarf, Sabino. Bray finds a new will disinheriting Florence. As it was unsigned, the old will stands. Cresap disapproved of Florence's moneyless sweetheart, Gregory Thorpe. Thorpe disappears. He is found in a hospital, victim of a hitch-hiker before Cresap's death, which exonerates him. Florence takes a room in the hospital. Hilda, Florence's maid, tries to leave the Cresap estate and is arrested. Florence leaves the hospital and can't be found. Sabino also disappears. Bray is of the belief they are both seeking a common rendezvous.

INSTALLMENT XXXIX.

FUGITIVES PURSUED.

Now then, now that the keystone of Bray's arch of threefold confidences has been so rudely and so suddenly shaken down, I see him standing among the shattered blocks, transformed by his chagrin and his wounded conceit into a berserk. Somebody, or some group of somebodies, has betrayed his trustfulness. By somebody he has been most befooled. And some traitor of a somebody is going to pay for making a fool of him. This is not the kindly, dog-loving sentimentalist of a Pat Bray who quit the cops to raise chickens up by Calverton. This is the implacable, unrelenting Sergt. Bray who unriddled the Troy-Treherne poisoning twenty years ago and sped a pretty woman to the death-house. It is the Bray who single handed shot it out, his gun against their three, with the Gondorfer kidnapers on their stolen yacht in Larchmont harbor, and, being himself bored twice through the chest, yet brought one of them ashore extensively perforated and quite dead, and brought the remaining two ashore winged and clubbed and tamed. There was a Bray who could—and would—coo as gently as a mourning dove, purr as softly as your grandma's tabby. And there is a Bray who can shame the hyena when it comes to ghoulish digging among mouldy bones. Who can out-lynx the lynxes for sheer blood-thirstiness.

And tonight I know which one of these two Pat Brays is surely hanging over the long distance telephone at Riverhead, his eye contracted like a peep-sight on a rifle, his unshaven jaw jammed like a spring wolf trap, and in his soul rancor and spleen and a cankered spitefulness.

So it is no very comforting image that I am conjuring up as I sit here.

Same date, midnight.

Just now, starting for my bedroom, I found outside my study door a neat pile of final editions which Abe or Mrs. Bevil, obeying the letter of the law that when I am at my desk I cannot be disturbed save on some such matter as life or death or hot coffee late at night, must have left there, and I have returned for long enough to amplify the manuscript by one more jot.

"This is not the dog-loving sentimentalist Pat Bray!"

The Evening Journal has a beat—down south they would call it a scoop—on the chronology of the telegram which sent Florence off so precipitately. A red "fudge" on the front page displays a stop-press flash from Riverhead stating that Bray has a copy of that telegram.

It was signed "Mansab." It was filed at the Amagansett office of the Western Union. Amagansett being a few miles west of here, at 5:17 p. m. on Saturday. It was addressed to "Miss F. Dane." It was received at Flushing main office at 5:32 and immediately delivered by messenger at the hospital, being signed for by her personally in the boy's book.

According to the dispatch, Capt. Bray declined to give out the contents or even to hint at the nature of them, but he did tell the Journal man that the hunt for Sabino and Florence was to be focussed upon a certain area of upstate New York.

"It is believed that the international border in the neighborhood of Niagara Falls is meant and that the pursuers have reason to believe the pair are hoping to get across the line to Canada."

That's the tag sentence, the snapper on the whip of the Evening Journal's slash.

Now I'm surer than ever that Bray will spend the rest of the night or a good part of it with a twitching ear glued to a telephone receiver.

Well, I doubt whether I shall do much sleeping, either.

P. S.—I had almost forgotten one detail. Rand called up. He was just back from Riverhead. At the district attorney's office he was told any move now to procure Hilda's release on bonds would be fought tooth and nail. So until we meet what the next few hours might bring forth, he advised that nothing be done. He didn't see Hilda; she is held incommunicado. But he sent word in to her that her legal interests were being protected.

Tuesday, Oct. 25.

It is likely that my notations under this date line will be briefened to bulletin form—and staccato bulletins, at that. Because these scrivenings have come to be a routine with me, I shall carry them forward but I am in no frame of mind to expand anything which may happen today beyond the barest mention.

8:05 a. m.—Morning papers all carry long stories, but contribute nothing to what last night's papers contained. Pictures in all of them—mostly pictures of Florence.

9:40 a. m.—Durkee just drove in to serve a subpoena citing me to go before the grand jurors at Riverhead. From a special venue, a grand jury will be impaneled there next Monday and my presence is called for on the opening day, which strongly indicates that this case will be slated as the first case up for inquiry. Durkee told me he had just come from serving similar subpoenas upon the survivors of the depleted domestic corps over at the Cresap place—upon Delia the cook and Verity, upon Greta the waitress and Olsen the chauffeur. And added that Shapiro already had started with Olsen in a car for Riverhead. But gave no reason why Olsen's attendance should be desired so much sooner than the time assigned for the rest of us to appear. Didn't ask him why. Had a feeling that there was nothing further to be got from that quarter.

10:20 a. m.—On a chance, called up Chief Taper, thinking possibly he might know the inwardness of the action against Olsen, and if so might be induced to tell me. Was right on both counts. Taper says he understands from Larkin the county detective, that Olsen is the chief supporting witness for Sabino's alibi on the night of the killing and from this he deduces—and so do I—that Bray intends to grill Olsen on that particular point. Perhaps on other co-related matters as well, but certainly on that point. Taper says he hears Greta promptly went into squawking hysterics on seeing her young man carried away. Must be a completely disrupted household over there by now. On whatsoever else he can pick up, Taper volunteers to keep me posted.

Noon—Have made three efforts to reach Bray by telephone—two at his office address in Riverhead and the third at his home near Calverton. Nothing doing. In each instance a strange voice rather curtly stated that Capt. Bray was not in and that the person speaking had no information as to when during the day he might be in—if at all. Left my name and number with the request that he call me here as soon as possible, but do not expect any results.

2:45 p. m.—No further news from Taper—or from anyone. Feel like a man groping in the dark. Am terribly restless. An urge is on me to wander about, seeking some diversion from my thoughts. But don't dare quit the house lest in my absence some message come from somewhere or other.

3 p. m.—Nothing.

4 p. m.—Still nothing.

5 p. m.—Telephone rang. Somebody with a pedigreed dog to sell. Shut him off.

Wives Forgive More Readily than Husbands

BY DORIS BLAKE.

Women may be the weaker sex, the vainer sex, but it has to be admitted they're the more forgiving sex when it comes to a case of unfaithfulness. That is, more men have been forgiven, been given another chance, than have women guilty of the same crime.

It may be a tribute to our sex that man's intolerance in this respect is notorious. Nevertheless, we think in a case like the following a little of the mercy man is so frequently extended might be indulged in, and for the same reason—to keep the home together.

Mr. J. has been on extended trips for the last two years. One took him to South America, where he stayed seven months. He left behind a good looking wife, and he it was who urged a "friend" to see that she be entertained. On his return he was confronted with her confession of unfaithfulness. She did not do this to get a divorce. On the contrary, she tried and still tries to assure the man he is the love of her life and the only one.

He argues he never can feel the same toward her. That for the sake of their children, two youngsters, 8 and 10, he ought to pull away, taking the children with him.

Of course, it was a tragic discovery! The loss of faith in his wife is man's bitterest blow. Nevertheless, a truly repentant woman has the right to another chance, just as a repentant husband has.

A woman might be swept off her feet in a mad moment in a period of great loneliness such as the long absences would create. And she, too, might be just as broken up over her act of folly as a man.

Beside, if a man loves his wife, isn't it better to forgive, for his own future's sake. Where children are involved, isn't it finer to forgive and keep the knowledge of their mother's unfaithfulnes from them?

Plan Reception for French Ambassador

The Alliance Française is planning a reception for Sunday afternoon in Curtiss hall of the Fine Arts building for M. Andre de la Boulaye, the French ambassador, and Mme. de la Boulaye, who will arrive in Chicago that day. Louis Rousseau of the French Opera Comique will sing, accompanied by Paul Allais, son of the former president of the alliance, Arthur Allais.

Mrs. Charles S. Dewey, who is just back from a summer in France, as president of the council of administration of the alliance, and Mrs. James Hamilton Lewis, as chairman of the distinguished guest committee, are in charge of arrangements for the reception. Invitations to the party will be in the mail in a day or two.

The ambassador, who is coming to Chicago especially to bring the official recognition of his country to A Century of Progress art exhibit at the Art institute, will confer the decoration Chevalier of the Legion of Honor on Walter Dill Scott, president of Northwestern university. Mr. Scott is the honorary librarian of the alliance and has developed an excellent French department and library at the university.

Sunday night Mr. and Mrs. Moise Dreyfus are giving a dinner for M. and Mme. de la Boulaye, and on Monday night Mr. and Mrs. Chauncey McCormick will entertain at dinner at the Casino for the De la Boulayes. Later the trustees and president of the Art institute will hold a reception in the Goodman theater which will be followed by a visit to the collection of French paintings which form part of the exhibit.

Tuesday the Franco-American society will give a luncheon for the ambassador with Hayden B. Harris in charge, and that afternoon the De la Boulayes leave for Washington. They have a family of four, one son and three daughters. How many of them will accompany their parents to Chicago is not known, but the juniors of the alliance are hoping that all of them will be at the alliance reception. The son is 26 and the daughters range from 14 to 21.

Virginia Ashcraft Will Bow Today.

Today's debutante is Miss Virginia Ashcraft, daughter of the junior Edwin M. Ashcrafts of Evanston. At 4 o'clock this afternoon in the gardens of the lovely Asbury avenue residence of her parents in Evanston, weather permitting, she will greet her friends and those of her family who will be welcoming her into the ranks of "grownups." As Miss Ashcraft is unusually pretty and has great charm, she is certain to receive a royal welcome.

The twelve young women who will take turns pouring at the silver tea and coffee services are Miss Betty Campbell of Orange, N. J., who went to Farmington with Miss Ashcraft and is her house guest; Miss Doris Bokum, Miss Barbara Eldridge, Miss Jean O'Brien, Miss Barbara Hobart, Miss Nancy Thomas, Miss Jean Lamson, Miss Betty Alexander, Miss Honoré White, Miss Jean Hyman, Miss Kean Hughes, and Miss Harriet Fentress.

Owing to the recent tragic death of the bride's brother, the wedding today of Miss Katharine Cowin, daughter of Mrs. Benton Cowin of Boston, to Robert Adams Carr, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter S. Carr of Lake Shore drive, will be a very quiet one, with only members of the immediate families in attendance.

The ceremony is to be read at 4 o'clock this afternoon in the chapel of St. Chrysostom's church by the Rev. Dudley Stark, after which the bride and bridegroom and the few guests will have tea in the apartment of Mrs. Cowin in the Ambasador hotel. Miss Jean Cowin, the bride's schoolgirl sister, will attend her, and William Tilden will be Mr. Carr's best man. Mr. and Mrs. Carr will be at home at 37 East Division street after Oct. 1.

Irwin Nuptials Will Be Sept. 27.

Mrs. Arthur A. Small and her sister, Mrs. Robert R. McCormick, have had word that their niece, Miss Josephine Irwin, has decided upon Wednesday, Sept. 27, as the date of her marriage to Capt. W. Mason Wright, and of course Mrs. Small and Mrs. McCormick are planning to go to Washington for the event.

The ceremony is to be performed at noon in the apartment of the bride's mother, Mrs. LeRoy Irwin, at 2126 Connecticut avenue, with only relatives in attendance. Dr. Small and Col. McCormick also will go to Washington for the marriage. Immediately after the ceremony Capt. Wright and his bride will sail for his new post in Panama.

Miss Alice Coonley, daughter of the Prentiss Coonleys of Folly Farm, Great Barrington, Mass., is arriving today to visit her aunt, Mrs. Edward L. Hasler, in Lake Forest, and to see the Fair. Her sister, Miss Eleanor Coonley, was here last week and departed for home on Sunday. Our correspondent in the Berkshires writes that the beautiful farm where the Coonley family has resided since leaving Lake Forest eight or nine years ago is to be the scene of an auction tomorrow and Friday when Mrs. Coonley will dispose of some of her "antique and modern furniture, silver in Sheffield, coin and sterling, fine linens, china, glass, statuary, oriental and domestic rugs," according to an advertisement published in the Pittsfield Evening Eagle. Mrs. Coonley has a large collection of such things and she thinks this is a good time to dispose of some of them, but the farm is not to be sold.

Mrs. Salisbury Visits Brother.

Also included in the letter from the Berkshires is the news that Mrs. Warren M. Salisbury has left her Pittsfield estate, Tor Court, for a visit with her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Wilder W. Kimball, at Rumford Falls, Me. Later she is to have them as her guests in Chicago when they come to visit A Century of Progress.

Miss Kate S. Buckingham, who almost always has house guests at Bald Head, her beautiful Lenox residence, now has Walter B. Smith and Miss Helen Drake of Chicago and the John Taylor Spauldings of Boston visiting her.

The William C. Taylors of Hinsdale are vacationing with Mr. Taylor's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Sherman Taylor, at their summer place, Plumstead, in Lenox.

The young Edward S. Frenchs who have been visiting her parents, the Edward C. Crossetts, at Wianno on Cape Cod are now visiting the Joseph O. Eatons of Cleveland in Williamstown.

Mrs. E. Parmalee Prentice is giving the third of a series of summer musicals on Saturday of this week at Mount Hope farm in Williamstown and the whole summer colony in the Berkshires is awaiting anxiously what will be a notable event.

Mr. and Mrs. George Rasmussen have returned from three months abroad. Mrs. Rasmussen is filled with tales of their interesting visit at their lovely estate at Klampenborg on the Danish peninsula, which has been filled with guests all summer. Just before leaving it she gave a large dinner for Ruth Bryan Owen, America's representative to Denmark. The James R. Offields, with their daughter, Miss Betty Offield, and son, Wrigley, also visited the Rasmussens, as did the Edward F. Huttons of Palm Beach and Long Island. Later the Rasmussens and the Huttons cruised through northern waters and around to the French Riviera on the Huttons' yacht.

Beauty Trade Cheers Victory Over Barbers

The old controversy about the barber's clippers and the hairdresser's shears enlivened the sessions of the National Hairdressers and Cosmetologists association at the Edgewater Beach hotel yesterday. The beauticians, irked at the Associated Master Barbers of America, which nonchalantly included the beauticians in the provisions of the code submitted at Washington for the barber shops, shouted approval of a protest registered in the national capital by their officials.

There was cheering when association officials declared that the many messages of protest had caused the legal department of the NRA to remove the offending portion from the barber's code. It was reported NRA officials had signified willingness to accept the code of the hairdressers almost in toto.

The dispute has been and is focused on the volume of business created by feminine bobs. Efforts of the organized barbers to obtain legislation denying hairdressing shops the right to cut hair, thus forcing this business into the barber shops, have created resentment among the beauticians. They assert that they were in the field many years before the barbers took up the snipping of feminine locks.

BY MARY MEADE.

How fortunate that new corn and green peppers enjoy their popularity together, for there are few combinations prettier than deep green pepper cases stuffed with bright yellow corn. Likewise these cups offer a convenient resting place for any left-over corn you may have rescued from yesterday.

Then after you've stuffed and baked your green pepper cases with corn or chopped meat for a spell, vary the order by using such stuffings as macaroni, rice, or grated cheese. And since we're forever searching for time savers and dish savers let these combinations take the place of vegetable and potato at dinner time.

First, to prepare the pepper cases, cut a slice off the stem end of the peppers and slice them in half lengthwise or leave small ones whole. Remove the seeds and parboil the peppers in salted water for ten minutes. Sprinkle the inside with salt.

Now stuff the pepper cases with a mixture of grated cheese and boiled macaroni or with the following cheese filling:

CHEESE STUFFING FOR GREEN PEPPERS.

1½ cups grated cheese
1½ cups bread crumbs
1 teaspoon finely chopped onion
2 tablespoons melted butter
½ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
4 green peppers

Prepare the pepper cases as directed above. Combine the first six ingredients and stuff the peppers lightly, sprinkling some of the grated cheese on top. Place the peppers in a pan with a little water in the bottom to keep them from scorching. Bake for ten minutes in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.).

SPANISH RICE STUFFING FOR GREEN PEPPERS.

1 cup cooked rice
½ cup cooked tomatoes
2 tablespoons chopped onion
¼ cup grated cheese
½ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
¼ cup buttered bread crumbs
3 green peppers

Prepare the pepper cases as previously directed. Combine the rice, tomatoes, onion, cheese, salt, and pepper. Stuff the peppers lightly with the mixture and top each with some of the buttered bread crumbs. Bake for ten minutes in a pan which contains a little hot water, using a moderate oven (350 degrees F.).

Or for an unusual combination of vegetables fill pepper cases with creamed asparagus and bake.

PEPPERS STUFFED WITH CREAMED ASPARAGUS.

1 cup drained, canned asparagus
3 tablespoons blanched shredded almonds
½ cup medium-thick white sauce
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ cup buttered bread crumbs
3 small green peppers

Prepare the peppers as directed above. Combine the asparagus, almonds, white sauce, and salt, and fill the green cases. Top with the buttered crumbs and place in a pan with a little water in the bottom. Bake ten minutes in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.).

Smart Checks Mark Stylish Coats, Skirts

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Checkered careers ahead:

Some of the swankiest swagger coats are of cheerful checks. Soft fuzzy woolens, under perfect control as to size of check and length of fuzz, top some plain colored simple streamline skirts.

A stunning raspberry red checked coat with a deeper tone of red is a knockout with a stone grey flannel skirt. Or you might like a lemon gold checked with chestnut brown and worn with an old gold skirt or a grass green affair.

A knowing clothes hound can have a grand time with a checked coat and a flock of separate skirts, blouses, sweaters and even a separate short suede leather jacket to lug along for football games.

Any amount of snappy checked separate skirts can be found in most any store . . . extremely simple things but tremendously good looking for fall with the ubiquitous twin sweaters. All kinds of them will streak across the campus and fill the grandstands at the first football games. The "twins" are amazingly smart and casual, and have price tags that are obligingly small and that include both the turtle necked slipover and the cardigan style outside sweater.

Checked taffeta blouses, crisp colorful affairs, are just what you want for contrast for your dark street suits. Lots of them are made with wide rustling bows at the neckline, long sleeves, well fitted waistlines and ribllines and are ready for duty either outside or inside the skirt.

Checked ascot ties in velvets, in soft woolens, in silks and satins can decorate the necklines of your newest frocks . . . the way you tie your throatline will mark you as a fashion-wise and knowing clothes collector. You will not be well dressed, or rather cleverly completed, unless you do exciting things with color and ties and decoration around your necklines. The most dashing and daring the smarter you will appear!

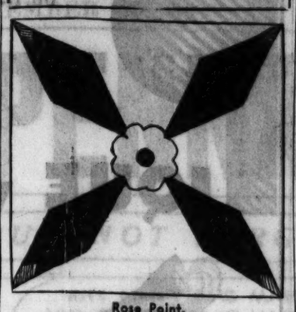
Quilt Introduces Rose with Points as Block Feature



Rose Point.

BY NANCY CABOT.

From the hills of Kentucky comes "Rose Point," and a great favorite it is in its mountain home, as well as in other states that have adopted it.

To be in keeping with the name it should be pieced in shades of rose. But don't be bound by tradition. Certain combinations of green and yellow would make a beautiful block.

For a quilt pattern of this design, send 5 cents in stamps or coin to Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, printing your name and address clearly. Or call at the Tribune Public Service Office, One South Dearborn.

MINUTE MYSTERY

By H. A. RIPLEY

[Copyright: 1933: By The Chicago Tribune.]

Dr. Fordney is professor of criminology at a famous university. His advice is often sought by the police of many cities when confronted with particularly baffling cases. This problem has been taken from his casebook covering hundreds of criminal investigations.

THEFT.

"It was a terrifying experience . . . the most horrible I've ever had," said Mrs. J. Ellison Clark to Professor Fordney. "I've been completely unnerved ever since."

"Naturally, you have been greatly upset," Fordney interjected. "It's not to be wondered at. A holdup isn't a pleasant thing . . . especially for a woman. I'll ask as few questions as possible. Will you bear with me?"

While he smiled at her nod of assent he didn't fail to notice the broken nails on the first fingers of her otherwise beautifully manicured hands. She drew a handkerchief from her elaborate negligee and kept her nails covered.

"Well?" she inquired.

"I understand you were standing outside your dressmaker's at 3 p. m. waiting for your chauffeur when a man stepped up to you, inquired the time, and demanded your money and jewelry. Correct?"

"Yes. That's what happened."

"Did you call for help?"

"No. I was too frightened."

"Did you hand over the valuables or did the robber take them?"

"Why, I gave them to him. I was. . . ."

"Is this list correct?" Fordney inquired, pulling from his pocket a piece of paper. "Two diamond bracelets, one emerald pendant, a diamond tiara, two emerald earrings, $180 cash, and three diamond finger rings."

"That is correct."

"Were you wearing a wrap?"

"No. It was extremely warm."

"And your wrist watch?" the professor asked, looking closely at the woman.

"Why, I . . . wasn't . . ."

"I'm sorry, Mrs. Clark, to take action in the case, but of course I know the alleged robbery was a frameup."

HOW DID HE?

Perhaps you have a story or problem you would like to submit to Prof. Fordney. If so, send it to him, care of this paper. He will be delighted to receive it.

Artist Offers His Definition of Glamorous

Cites Garbo in Theory of 'Illusion of Beauty.'

In next Sunday's TRIBUNE Miss Donnelly will inaugurate presentation of a number of Chicago's Most Glamorous Women. Her article will be accompanied by a portrait in full color.

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

Garbo and Lynn Fontanne unquestionably are to the great body of critics, professional and lay, two of the world's most glamorous women. The descriptive has been applied so often to Katherine Cornell it's become synonymous with her name.

What is it then these women have that other women of stage and screen apparently have not? The answer cannot be the glamour automatically due a noted stage or screen personality since others share it but fail to register the same witchery? What then? Perhaps because they are all great artists as well as fascinating women? Perhaps a deep emotion-stirring quality in the voice of each? Garbo's mystery build-up does not extend to the other two. It isn't age—since all three represent a different decade. In their earlier days, at least, none was an acknowledged beauty. But they have that SOMETHING.

Perhaps Edgar Miller, Chicago artist, is right in saying that you can not put your finger on any tangible thing or things that make a woman glamorous. Glamour, he contends, is a work of art. A work of art cannot be figured out. It can not be nailed down to recipes and ingredients.

"When I say glamour is a work of art," Mr. Miller explains, "I do not mean that the woman must be artistic. She is artistic in this particular medium, but she may have no desire to paint, look at a picture, hear a symphony. Nevertheless, she has that art in her that is able to create the illusion of beauty. Sometimes where it does not exist at all. Garbo is, of course, the outstanding artist in this respect, Lynn Fontanne another great glamour artist—and Claudette Gilbert often does the same thing.

"In the broad sense, glamour is 100 per cent sex, 100 per cent beauty, and 100 per cent grace. All things at full strength, best portrayed by Helen of Troy and Lilith. . . . Illusions definitely created—but that have reality—that's glamour.

"It is not a thing of studied trick or wile, nor of type or coloring.

"People are so widely different. I get an extremely interesting reaction from one who may not even be good looking—but glamorous. Another reaction from one who is glamorously beautiful, and still another reaction from one who may destroy her physical beauty with a mannerism or trait.

"A woman is glamorous to me when she looks the way I feel she ought to look. I can't say what makes her that way—but I don't want her different."

"About this Helen woman," we argued. "She never even left a snapshot——"

"She was immortalized in something better—the Iliad," Mr. Miller concluded.

"Illusions definitely created—that's glamour," we chanted.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Blake Dewey Jr., of Chicago, will spend the winter in Washington in the former home of the latter's grandmother, the late Mrs. Charles M. Mystery of Death Hard to Explain to Young Child

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

A letter that came to me requesting a booklet had appended to it this concise and staggering postscript:

"How shall I explain death to a child of four?"

Without being at all flippant, I feel like replying: "You tell me." I think this unquestionably one of the most difficult things a parent has to cope with. I've done it myself, but I'm not yet sure how successfully.

Many mothers who have answered the probing questions of their three and four year old children must feel the same way. We do our best to rob death of its terrors, to make it seem like a journey on to something finer, brighter, and more sentient. We try to make it seem a continuation, not a finish. But it is difficult because of two things. They always ask the unanswerable questions, "But do you KNOW this? How do you KNOW?" And because usually they have absorbed some of the morbidness and horror they see older people associate with death.

I think we could reassure them if we had only the question about the unknown to answer and the fear of it to combat.

But the other is hard to dismiss. I know that whenever the question about death comes up in this column there are deeply religious people who always write that the answer for children lies in faith or in the dogma or direct teachings of the church. It would, if it were not for the attitude of the world toward death.

It is not easy to answer the question, "What shall I tell my child about death?" All I can say is: Be guided by your belief. Be as natural about death as you can. Protect your child from morbid sights or sad ceremonies. And little by little nourish, or implant, a sense of the beauty and strength of the life force as it shows itself in the natural world and in the creation of new beings—in plant or in animal or human birth.

GREECE STUDIES U. S. DOCUMENTS IN INSULL CASE

Evidence in Extradition Effort Is Submitted.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ATHENS, Sept. 19.—Greek foreign office officials tonight were contending with about two bushels of documentary evidence on Samuel Insull's allege violation of American federal bankruptcy laws. The documents were submitted to the Greek authorities today by Gerhard Gade, secretary of the American legation, and Forest Harness, special representative of the American attorney general's office. Gade and Harness loaded the documents into a taxi at Storning, where photostatic copies had been made, and had them hauled to the foreign ministry.

The papers constitute the formal demand of the American government for the extradition of the former Chicago utilities magnate following his provisional arrest here on Aug. 26. Gade and Harness talked to foreign office officials for half an hour and arranged for Harness to have an interview later this week with the Greek minister of justice, when he will set forth in detail the indictment against Insull and others affiliated with him in his bankrupt utilities empire.

Harness to Explain U. S. Law.

Harness said he expected to have talks with Prosecutor Reganakos of the Greek Court of Appeals, before which the extradition hearing will take place. Harness will elucidate any difficulties of the Greek court about American law.

Greek foreign office officials said they would examine the translation of the papers presented today and certify them to the ministry of justice. They thought the papers would actually be in the hands of the Court of Appeals and Prosecutor Reganakos for study in about three days.

The papers consist of 1,080 pages in the original English and comprise the brief against Insull with supporting pieces of evidence and depositions showing just how Insull and ten other officials of the Corporation Securities company indicted with him, including his son, Samuel Jr., and his brother, Martin, violated the bankruptcy laws by fraudulent conversion of property in contemplation of bankruptcy.

Greeks Are Impressed.

Besides this original document there is a Greek translation in longhand and four photostatic copies. The Greeks are much impressed with the formidableness of the documents. It is said it will take at least a couple of weeks to read them all.

Insull's lawyers will get one of the photostatic copies as soon as they reach the Court of Appeals. Evidence contained in the documents, it is said, is such as would involve long prison terms for Insull and his co-defendants in case they were convicted.

Following presentation of the case against Insull today, Leland B. Morris, American chargé d'affaires, issued a statement saying that in deference to the Greek judicial authorities, he was unable to disclose the contents of the documents. Morris said the case against Insull is enormous. He emphasized the trouble taken by the American department of justice to present the documents in such a form as to make the task of the Greek authorities as easy as possible.

May Seek Long Delay.

Whether Insull's lawyers will be granted a long delay to get counter evidence from the United States is a matter for the discretion of the Greek court, Morris said.

Insull learned tonight that the case against him had been filed. He appeared a bit more restless than usual and said he was tired, but he preserved his usual calm and ate his dinner with relish.

"I don't know what my lawyers will do," he said. "It will be up to the court to decide about a delay."

GETS JAIL TERM FOR WORKING AT POLLS ILLEGALLY

Judge Charles T. Allen of Woodstock, sitting in the County court, yesterday sentenced Charles Battaglia, 30 years old, 1106 Polk street, to serve 30 days in the county jail for contempt of court in connection with election frauds.

Battaglia pleaded guilty. He was charged with serving illegally as a Republican judge in the 50th precinct of the 27th ward during the registration for the general election last November while he lived in another part of the city. He pleaded that he needed the judge's fee because he was unemployed.

Bonds of three other defendants who failed to appear for trial were forfeited and capiases issued for their arrest. They were Fred Fasano, 3832 West Monroe street, charged with voting illegally; Maurice Fine, 42 North Halsted street, charged with stuffing a ballot box, and James A. Patten, 1119 Fulton street, charged with illegal registration.

Indict Captured Convict on 3 Shooting Charges

Three indictments charging George [Red] Kelly, alias Jack Hart and James Connolly, with assault to kill were returned yesterday before Chief Justice Philip L. Sullivan of the Criminal court. Bond of $5,000 on each charge was set for Kelly, who twice escaped from the Maryland state prison while serving a life term for murder. He was arrested after he had shot and wounded three youths in a beer tavern brawl in Cicero. Efforts of Maryland officials to extradite Kelly failed when Gov. Horner ruled that he must first stand trial in Illinois.

DODGERS SHOW CUBS' PITCHERS THEY CAN HIT

Pound Trio for 12-3 Victory.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

Prof. Charles Grimm of the Cub baseball school abandoned his freshman class yesterday so that the post-graduates could do a bit of research work. The latter unexpectedly uncovered the fact that the Brooklyn Dodgers are not exactly feeble with their bats. Unloading 16 hits of assorted length against three blue ribbon members of the Cub pitching stable, the Dodgers carried away their final of the year by 12 to 3. It marked the sixth defeat in the last eight games for the Cubs and also moved them farther away from that coveted second place world series money.

The first of the pitching post-graduates to tumble out of the picture was Lon Warneke, whose ambitions toward victory No. 18 were blown to pieces almost as soon as he started. However, he hung around and continued to experiment until the middle of the fifth by which time the Dodgers had accumulated half their runs. Then Bud Tinning came forth. The Dodgers hammered him so lustily in the sixth that he was excused from further work. After this, Charley Root tried to handle the situation, but his luck was no better.

Cubs Not Boisterous.

The hitting the Cubs accomplished against Ray Benge can be dispensed with by pointing out that Warneke hit a triple for one of their runs. A double by Root was involved in another. The third blossomed from Ki Cuyler's fifth home run of the year.

Warneke's first inning was a success only until he had retired the leadoff hitter. Frey scratched a single past Billy Herman and took third on Frederick's single to right. A pass to Hutcheson created a full house. Cuccinello looped a single over second to score Frey and Frederick and put Hutcheson on third. Billy Herman threw out Wright, but the latter's bounder was so long in coming down that Hutcheson had ample time to score. Jurges tossed out Flowers to close the inning.

Warneke Hits His Triple.

After watching his mates swing their bats for a couple of innings, Warneke decided that about his only chance to pick up any runs would be to handle the job himself. He tripled to left center with one out in the third and scored on Demaree's long fly to Hutcheson. That made the score 3 to 1, but it didn't stay that way long. Flowers stretched it to 4 to 1 by blowing a homer into the right field bleacher with one out in the fourth.

Warneke had no trouble shaking off the first two men in the fifth, but then wilted. Hutcheson sliced a drive along the first base line; Camilli slapped it down, but couldn't recover in time to keep the runner from enjoying a double. Cuccinello walked and Wright singled to left, Hutcheson scoring. Warneke decided this was a good spot in which to quit the party. Tinning walked into the vacancy and Flowers greeted him with a two base drive to right, Cuccinello scoring and Wright stopping at third. Tinning halted the trouble by fanning Lopez.

Tinning Pounded Out.

Tinning's unhappy experiences in the sixth began with a single by Boyle after Benge had popped out. Frey singled to right, sending Boyle to third. The latter scored on a double steal. Frederick walked and was forced by Hutcheson. Cuccinello ended Tinning's labors by doubling to left center, Frey and Hutcheson scoring. Root stepped in and Wright singled to center, sending Cuccinello across.

A run scored by the Dodgers in the seventh was purely a matter between the two pitchers. Benge doubled to left, went to third on an out and scored on a wild pitch. Just to get even Root assumed responsibility for getting the Cubs a run in their half. Jurges singled and Root's two bagger shoved him to third, whence he counted on a fly by Mosolf. This was followed by Hutcheson's homer into the right field seats in the eighth. Cuyler also hit a round tripper to the same spot in the Cubs' half.

King Levinsky, the personality kid, invades the Cubs' dugout to tell them how to hit. He figured he was qualified after flooring Jack Sharkey Monday night. EQUIPOISE WILL RUN ONE MORE RACE, THEN QUIT

New York, Sept. 19.—[Special.]—Equipoise, for two seasons handicap champion of America, will end his racing career after one more start, C. V. Whitney, owner of the famous son of Pennant and Swinging, announced today. It also became known that Equipoise ran with a crack in the wall of his left front hoof in the Jockey Club Gold Cup race Saturday when he suffered his first defeat in eight starts this year.

The fact Equipoise has shelly feet and that this crack, while slight, is the latest of a series, contributed to the decision to retire the famous five year old, which has won $320,970 and stands fourth among the money winners of the world.

Would Quit Triumphant.

The colt began his career with a victory on April 7, 1930, and Whitney said today he felt Equipoise should be given a chance to end it the same way.

Equipoise's next and last start will be at a mile and an eighth in the Havre de Grace handicap on Sept. 30. Dark Secret, conqueror of Equipoise in the two mile Gold Cup over a muddy for the Havre de Grace race."

Tom Healey, trainer of Equipoise, believes the track condition had much to do with the horse's showing. He said he thought the frog of the hoof was irritated by the grit.

Trainer Blames Mud.

"We wondered why Equipoise did not show his true form in the Gold Cup. Saturday night, after the race, he looked O. K., but on Sunday when we walked him he favored the foot in which the quarter crack was discovered on the morning of the 1931 Kentucky Derby. On Monday we decided we had better cut into what looked like a surface scratch. This disclosed a crack in the wall of the hoof.

"It is being treated twice a day and I believe he will be at his best for the Havre De Grace cup."

Levinsky Isn't Particular; He Wants Carnera Next

BY WILFRID SMITH.

"Now we're ready to meet Primo Carnera and take the world's heavyweight championship."

This was the goal set Monday night by Mrs. Lena Levy, sister-manager of King Levinsky, immediately after the King had won a ten round decision from Jack Sharkey.

"How about Max Baer?" Mrs. Levy was asked.

"Why fight Baer?" was her reply. "Baer didn't want to meet the King after he knocked out Schmeling. Baer said he'd licked the King twice. We didn't believe that was his reason. He was afraid the King would catch up with him and put him on the floor just as did Sharkey.

"If the King can't get a match with Carnera, however, he'll fight any one. The King is the only heavyweight who is always ready and willing to fight."

King Misses Chance.

Levinsky came out of the fight Monday night with an enhanced reputation. He was swinging wildly, he always does, but he had knockout power in each blow. All that saved Jack after he had been knocked down for a count of seven seconds in the first round was the King's inability to punch straight.

Levinsky charged Jack across the ring and smothered him with a barrage of blows. Most of them landed on Jack's shoulders or body, failing to reach a vulnerable spot. The King's eagerness to finish Sharkey prevented him from getting in a knockout punch.

"I kicked away the fight in the first round," was Sharkey's only comment on his defeat. Jack didn't seem particularly down hearted and the $25,000 he will receive for the defeat helped him forget the beating. Sharkey might have come back in the later rounds, but he didn't finish as strongly as the King. Levinsky's rally in the tenth round when he pounded Jack repeatedly without a return clinched the decision. The judges and referee were unanimous in awarding the verdict to Levinsky.

Pete Reilly Buys In.

Sharkey now goes to Philadelphia, where he meets Tommy Loughran in a 15 round fight Sept. 25. Sharkey's purse for this match also is $25,000.

Levinsky broke training Monday night after his five weeks' drill, which was the most strenuous work in his career. He's waiting for his next opponent and personally he doesn't care who it is.

The board of directors which manages Levinsky's training now includes Pete Reilly, Doc Casey, Nick Florio, in addition to Mrs. Levy, Sam Krakow, the King's brother, and Harold Steinman. Reilly, who at one time is said to have had a financial interest in Sharkey, now has bought in on the King. He is reported to have paid $10,000 for a share of Levinsky's earnings.

The King paid Sharkey the guarantee out of his 60 per cent of the net receipts, which was $28,290, leaving the Chicagoan a profit of $3,290 and a much coveted victory.

The Levinsky-Sharkey paid attendance was announced yesterday as 21,218. Gross receipts were $56,598 and the net $47,159.

Promoter Sammy Wolff's profit is estimated at $5,000.

KAWAL, VARSITY GUARD AT N. U., FIRST CASUALTY

Al Kawal, first string guard, became the first casualty on Northwestern's football team yesterday when he suffered a dislocation of the left shoulder, which will keep him inactive for two weeks. Carl Erickson, Wildcat trainer, said it was doubtful if Kawal would be able to play in the Iowa game a week from next Saturday.

Coach Dick Hanley dispensed with scrimmage yesterday, as most of the players showed the effects of Monday's heavy workout. A kicking and signal drill comprised the major portion of the workout.

A game with the freshmen is scheduled for Saturday afternoon. The yearlings will report for their first practice today and will be prepared for the game with the varsity by Coach Maury Kent.

RAIN BOTHERS MICHIGAN.

Ann Arbor, Mich., Sept. 19.—[Special.]—Fundamentals were mixed generously with practice of plays in the two Michigan football practice sessions today. The squad was forced to work indoors during the morning because of rain, but was back on South Ferry field in the afternoon. The drills were intended partly as a warmup for the scrimmage scheduled for tomorrow afternoon.

Russ Oliver, full back and a letter man as a sophomore of 1932, did a generous share of the passing in a half hour session devoted to the overhead game.

Regeczi and Renner, generally picked as the two men who will do the bulk of the passing, also were used. A short time was devoted to place kicking with Renner and Willis Ward in the kicking roles and Capt. Fay holding the ball. It was Fay who held the ball for Harry Newman during the two seasons that the star quarter back did the place kicking for Michigan.

YANKEES DEFEAT SOX, 10-1, 10-3, IN DOUBLE HEADER

Lyons Loses 21st Game of Season, a New Low.

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 19.—The White Sox showed their mettle today by bravely shuffling through two stretches of torture without flinching [much]. The score of the first game of a double header with the Yankees was, New York, 10; Chicago, 1, and of the second, New York, 10; Chicago, 3. The Sox made four hits off Uhle in the first contest and nine off Devens in the second.

In the first game, Sam Jones, hero of the two Sox victories on this distressing journey prior to arrival here, was thumped for five runs in the second inning and thus lost his 12th decision of the year. In the second game Ted Lyons gave up 11 hits and eight runs in two and two-thirds innings to suffer his 21st loss of the year, the biggest red total in his 11 years of major league endeavor.

Homers Speed Up Scoring.

The first game's principal virtue was that it was played in 1 hour and 38 minutes, dandy time considering that the Yankees made 10 runs and 17 hits. Six of the runs were driven in by homers—made by Joe Sewell, Dixie Walker, and Lou Gehrig. These homers didn't take up much time, especially Walker's No. 15 and Gehrig's No. 30, which were line drives and stayed in the air only briefly. The Sox's only run was a homer by Johnny Stoneham, rookie outfielder, which preceded the drudgery.

The second game had few virtues, exceptions being that Joe Heving held the Yanks runless for a while and Milt Gaston was pretty good for a stretch. Then there were a pair of nice hits by Sullivan and Stoneham in the eighth inning when the suffering was acute. Miller pitched the last Yank inning and got the side out on an infield out and two fans.

FIRST GAME

The contest opened auspiciously with Stoneham's in-the-park homer. Without taking too much away from Stoneham, it may be said that he was aided somewhat by Walker's flair for showing off. A more experienced performer would have played Stoneham's drive as a single, but Walker made a stupid attempt at a circus catch. The well hit ball shot to deep center as Johnny legged it home with plenty of time to spare.

The Yank second inning was a very painful affair. After Chapman had fanned to start the session, Lazzeri singled and scored the tying run on Dickey's double. Crosetti lined a single over second to score Dickey. Uhle fanned for the second out, but Combs walked. Then old man Sewell popped a homer into the right field stand, scoring Crosetti and Combs. Walker was hit by a pitched ball and got tough about it. Gehrig walked. Appling made a fine play to capture Chapman's grounder and force Gehrig at second.

The Yankees put over four runs in the eighth after two were out with Kimsey the victim. A single by Crosetti, Uhle's sacrifice and Sewell's single produced the first run. Then came successive homers by Walker and Gehrig for three more. Chapman followed with a double to right. Rhyne threw out Lazzeri.

SECOND GAME

Devens struck out Bocek, Haas and Dykes in order in the first inning, and then the Yankees touched up Lyons for three hits and a run in their half.

Appling struck out to start the second inning to make it the first four in a row. Sewell threw out Swanson but Kress doubled to left and scored the tying run on Hayes' single to left. Sullivan flied to Walker.

Four more hits off Lyons gave the Yankees three runs in the second. Rensa, Crosetti, Combs, and Gehrig made the hits and the first three of them scored.

Lyons held the enemy to four hits and three runs in the third before retiring. Lazzeri singled to center and Rensa popped to Hayes. Then followed a double by Crosetti, a single by Devens, a force out by Combs, a single by Sewell, a passed ball, a walk to Walker and a walk to Gehrig before Heving relieved Ted. Chap-

SOME GOOD, CLEAN FUN MAY DEVELOP IN WORLD SERIES

Altrock and Schacht Are Eligible Again and Barrow's Out.

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 19.—It has been some years since Nick Altrock and Al Schacht performed their nonsense for a world series attendance, but now that their own club is back in the annual Blue Ribbon Gonfalon classic, as we like to call it, there seems to be no way of keeping them out of the yard.

NICK ALTROCK.

It was Ed Barrow, the business manager of the Yankees, who interrupted the continuity of an entertainment which was coming along to the status of a baseball tradition. Nick and Al had entertained the customers at several world series, including those between the Yankees and the Giants which were played at the Polo grounds before the Yankee stadium was constructed on the slender underpinning of Babe Ruth's ankles.

They were beginning to think of themselves as indispensables and the world series as a mere background for their work when Mr. Barrow, in going over the preparations for one of the Yankees' later participations, ran a line through their names and ruled them out as casually as that.

Mr. Barrow Has a Peculiar Outlook.

Mr. Barrow's attitude toward baseball is so grim as to be almost gruesome and he regarded Altrock and Schacht as not only an unnecessary expense but a frivolous and almost sacrilegious influence in the midst of very solemn rites. They were not funny to him, and the fact that the customers found them amusing only went to show that the customers were getting out of the true spirit of the world series and ought to be protected from heresy.

Mr. Barrow never has run himself out of breath chasing a hero to touch his coat unless it could have been Mr. Rockefeller, and even Babe Ruth, who has been largely responsible for his own prosperity for 15 years, will never be more to him than just a large, moist, heavy duty laborer to whom it was unfortunately necessary to pay outlandish sums of money. Can the Babe audit bills, sell tickets, hire and fire, let contracts and keep the office of a million-dollar corporation? He cannot. All the Babe ever could do was lay that big bat of his against a baseball and knock it over a wall.

It was the irony of the show business, however, that if you created a hero for the citizens you had to pay him heroic wages. If you held him down to his value as a heavy duty laborer, paying him, say $6,00 a day, the patrons would not regard him as a hero and your own box office interest would suffer. The citizens will not attend in any considerable numbers to watch a heavy duty laborer labor, but Ruth, as a hero, drawing from $50,000 to $75,000 a year, supported the American league for years, and Mr. Barrow became a solid and prosperous suburbanite as the business manager of a firm whose principal asset was the customer appeal of Babe Ruth.

Mr. Schacht Got as Far as Hollywood.

The Messrs. Altrock and Schacht were injured in their artistic pride and feelings when they were dropped from the world series. They had rehearsed some new scenarios, mocking certain public events of the period, and had lost some sleep and skin in their rowdy preparations for the summons that never came. They tried vaudeville and Mr. Schacht, a serious clown, allowed his ambition to stray as far as Hollywood.

But though they had some success in stag smokers at Odd Fellows' halls around the country and filled some vaudeville bookings, their art seemed unfortunately to be bounded by the walls of the ballyard. Moreover, Nick was growing old and cranky and sometimes when Al had to kick him, strictly in the interests of their art, Nick

*Won world's series.

The New York Giants yesterday clinched the National league pennant when Pittsburgh, the last team with a mathematical chance of beating them, lost to Philadelphia. It was the Giants' thirteenth championship and tied the major league record, held by the Cubs.

The elimination of the Pirates occurred when they were beaten in the second game of a double header with the Phillies, 3 to 2, after they had won the first, 2 to 1. If the Giants lose all of their remaining games and the Pirates win all of theirs, New York still would be in first place by one percentage point.

Bound to Win by Point.

The best possible record the Pirates can now attain is 89 won and 65 lost for a percentage of .578, whereas the worst possible record for the Giants would be 88 won and 64 lost for a percentage of .579.

This is the first league championship which the Giants have won since 1924, when they took their fourth consecutive pennant under the leadership of John McGraw. Last season they finished seventh, after Bill Terry had taken the helm in the middle of the campaign.

Many followers of the game conceded the Giants only an outside chance this season, their first full campaign under Terry's direction. But they never fell below third place once they settled into stride. On June 10 they took the lead and never relinquished it.

Attend to Cubs.

In the last two weeks they met their most formidable rivals, the Pirates and the Cubs, in the course of their final road trip through the west. They won two out of five in Pittsburgh and four out of six in Chicago. The latter series was a vital factor in the elimination of the Cubs.

In the American league the Washington Senators must win two more games to clinch the pennant or the New York Yankees must lost two. Washington has eight more games to play and New York has nine.

Yesterday the Senators were beaten by the St. Louis Browns, while the Yankees were winning two from the White Sox.

CARDS WHIP GIANTS, 12-3.

St. Louis, Mo., Sept. 19.—[Special.]—The St. Louis Cardinals hammered out a 12 to 3 victory today over the New York Giants, newly crowned National league champions, in the final meeting between these teams this season. The Cardinals pounded Hal Schumacher's offerings for four runs in the first inning and went on to win easily. Mel Ott hit a homer, his 23d of the season, for the Giants. Score:

White Sox Accept Challenge of Cubs for City Series

Formal challenge to the White Sox for a city series was issued in behalf of the Cubs yesterday by William Veeck, the club president. The defi was promptly accepted by Harry Grabiner, vice president of the south side forces. The Sox are the present owners of the municipal baseball title, having captured it in the fall of 1931.

The series probably will open Wednesday, Oct. 4, at the Cub park. The complete schedule will be drawn up shortly at a meeting of the club representatives. Regular season prices will prevail.

KAWAL, VARSITY GUARD AT N. U., FIRST CASUALTY

Injury May Keep Him Out of Iowa Game.

"blocking will mean more than brains" has thrown the Notre Dame quarter back race into a four way affair. Coach Heartly Anderson said that the best strategist may be the best quarter back later in the season, but at present he wants one who can call a play and then block so well that it's bound to work, right or wrong.

The news was conveyed to the group of eight prospective signal callers during a stiff blocking drill for all back field candidates. Tony Mazziotti, a sophomore, is reputed to be the superior of his rivals in strategy, but at least three others indicated that they can work right along with him on a blocking standard. They are: Reyman Bonar, Bellaire, O., and Frank Gaul, Waterville, Me., juniors; and Wally Fromhart, Moundsville, W. Va., sophomore. Fromhart and Bonar are old high school rivals.

MAROONS STUDY PLAYS.

No scrimmage has yet disturbed the serenity of the University of Chicago football camp. This restraint on the part of Coach Shaughnessy results from his belief that the Maroon squad should not start its scrimmage until it has something to scrimmage about, in other words, well rehearsed plays to test.

Yesterday the squad continued to learn plays for four hours. It now has an assortment of approximately 30. The second back field, consisting of Cullen, Smith, Flinn, and Bill Lang, the latter a sophomore from St. Rita's, Chicago, calling the plays, worked out with the first string back field. Later the regular foursome, Sahlin, Berwanger, Zimmer, and Nyquist, received the attention of Shaughnessy on the question of timing.

PONY BACKS PERFORM.

Champaign, Ill., Sept. 19.—[Special.]—Chuck Andrews, Steve Steib, Earl Jansen, Frank Leonette, and Bob Minsker, five of the smallest back field candidates on the Illinois football squad, gave a demonstration of effective offensive play in the morning session today as Coach Bob Zuppke ordered a long scrimmage. Practice will be limited to an afternoon drill starting tomorrow. Back field candidates spent today's afternoon drill pushing the charging machine.

LAST ? A DAY AT WISCONSIN.

Madison, Wis., Sept. 19.—[Special.]—The fourth and last day of morning and afternoon practice for Wisconsin football candidates ended today with intensive scrimmage. Because classes begin tomorrow there will be only one session daily henceforth.

Coach Clarence W. Spears continued development of the back field, stressing passing and punting. Capt. Hal Smith and James Bingham received attention in directing passes, while Harry Pike and George Deanovich concentrated on punting. The only injury so far is a slight strain to the neck muscles of Capt. Smith.

BOILERMAKERS PASS.

Lafayette, Ind., Sept. 19.—[Special.]—The Purdue football squad this afternoon was sent through a scrimmage session in which the emphasis was placed on forward pass plays.

Purdue's veteran backfield quartet comprising Paul Pardonner, quarter back; Jim Carter and Duane Purvis, half backs, and Fred Hecker, full back, all steady passers, combined in a four man passing attack that seemed to have great possibilities, although the plays lacked the timing that is expected to come as the season progresses.

OH, FOR A FULL BACK!

Columbus, O., Sept. 19.—[Special.]—After a surprise scrimmage in which two of the strongest teams took the field against each other, Coach Sam Willaman of the Ohio State football squad today spent the most of the afternoon session with the second string candidates and in attempting to build a smooth functioning back field.

Mickey Vuchinich has been moved to center from full back and so far not a capable substitute has been found. In the back field two combinations were kept almost intact throughout the session with Cramer at quarter, Oliphant and Jones at halves and Wetzel at full on the first team and Heeking and Keefe at halves, Pincura at quarter and Yards at full back on the second team.

FUQUA JOINS CRIMSON.

Bloomington, Ind., Sept. 19.—[Special.]—Two Indiana elevens scrimmaged today as Coach Hayes polished up the Crimson offensive. Ivan Fuqua, Olympic track star, returned from Europe, where he competed last summer. Fuqua plays half back. Bob Jones was shifted from full back to guard, Busbee from tackle to guard, and Redding from center to end during the workout.

Nance Wins Wieboldt Golf Meet with 85

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

Wade Nance led a field of 40 junior executives of the Wieboldt stores in a golf outing yesterday at the Medinah Country club. Nance negotiated the 18 holes of the No. 2 course in 85 for first low gross. Second honors went to John D. Fleming, who had an 88.

John P. Currie won the low net prize with a card of 99—32—67. In addition to taking second low gross, Fleming also captured the prize for the longest drive, getting off a tee shot of 235 yards. L. J. Thompson won the putting contest with 32. James Parker, F. A. Allen, and Grace Merrill were in charge of the tournament.

One hundred members and guests of the Builders Tee club played golf at Cherry Hills yesterday. Mike Joslyn, with 80, and Sid Smith, 81, won the gross prizes.

The net winners were Harry Breetzke, 91—20—71; Harry Ryan, 90—18—72; Frank Powers, 96—24—72; Martin Barquist, 97—25—72; John Anderson, 88—15—73; Frank Anderson, 91—18—73; Walter Lovell, 98—22—76, and Walter Johnson, 104—28—76.

Members of the Paint, Oil and Varnish golf association met yesterday at Olympia Fields in their semi-final tournament of the season. Fred Jensen won the championship cup by defeating Carl Schinke, 6 and 5, at thirty-six holes. Schinke's 80—10—70 was the best gross for eighteen holes, while his net earned the first award in class A. Schinke also was awarded the Beverly Hall trophy, as a result of three annual victories in seasonal net averages.

The president's trophy for the four best net scores this year went to Milton K. Pine. His cards were 72, 73, 77, and 75 for a total of 297.

W. J. Dougherty won second net in class A with 85—14—71. The winners in class B were R. G. Dahlberg, 108—24—84, and Ed Heiser, 101—17—84.

John Fenn led in class C with 115—30—85, Art Willisch being second with 115—29—86.

The Auchtermuchty, annual invitational tournament of the Oak Park Country club, will begin today with 27 holes. Another 27 holes will complete the tourney tomorrow. A field of nearly 200 is expected to compete in the event. Art Sweet of Ridgemoor, who won last year, will defend his title.

Medinah will hold a Dawn to Dawn tournament Friday, which may outdo the club's famous Camel Trail day.

Stadium Seeks Ross, Berg Bout for Next Month

Joe Foley, Chicago Stadium Operating company promoter, has opened negotiations for a junior welterweight championship match between Champion Barney Ross and Jack (Kid) Berg of England at the Stadium the latter part of next month. Ross will rest until the first week in October. The Berg encounter is planned as his first since he successfully defended his lightweight and junior welterweight titles against Tony Canzoneri at New York last Tuesday.

PUBLIC LEAGUE PREP ELEVENS START PRACTICE

St. Mel Plays Loyola on Friday Night.

Public high school league football teams in the Chicago district began practice yesterday. Suburban schools and practically all members of the Chicago Catholic High School league started practice last week.

Several games are scheduled over the week-end. St. Mel, west sectional champion in the Catholic league last year, will meet Loyola academy Friday night at Loyola universty. It will be their first meeting since their league game during the 1931 season.

Tilden Opens Season.

Two other Catholic league squads, St. Rita and St. Ignatius, will meet in the annual game sponsored by the St. Rita High school Men's club at St. Rita field, 63d street and Claremont avenue, Sunday. Danny Lamont, former Washington State assistant coach, will be making his debut as St. Rita coach.

A game between Tilden Tech and La Salle-Peru High school of La Salle, Ill., will head Saturday's schedule. The contest will be played at White City stadium. Tilden was defeated 25 to 6 by La Salle-Peru last year.

Oak Park Plays Bowen.

Tilden will be without the services of Nick Dragosh, star guard, who was injured in a steel mill accident in East Chicago this summer. Dragosh suffered several broken ribs and will not be available until the latter part of the season.

Oak Park, which defeated La Grange, 13 to 0, in its opening game of the season last week, will meet Bowen at Oak Park stadium Saturday. In another suburban game Saturday Glenbard and Wheaton will clash in their 12th annual game at Grange field in Wheaton.

Tonelli Wins Decision Over Solly Dukelsky

Laddie Tonelli, west side Italian, won a six round decision from Solly Dukelsky last night in the main attraction of the last outdoor show at the Western stadium, Devon and Western avenues. In the semi-windup Adolph Wiater and Steve Selgrat fought four rounds to a draw. Other results were:

Frankie White beat John Rich [4].
John Mirabal beat Vince Perino [4].
Frankie White and John Rich, draw [4].
Fred Mitchell beat John Peckovich [4].
Davey White beat Tony Conger [4].

World Series May Develop Some Comedy

would lose his temper, and when it came his turn to kick Al would kick him harder than he need have.

So, like Weber and Fields, the boys ceased to be friends and took to sulking back and forth and, unless they have had a reconciliation this year, are strangers in everything except their professional relation.

Altrock Opposes Artificial Props.

Mr. Altrock had been clowning in baseball years before Al Schacht came along and he believed that to make the customers laugh he need no more than fill his face with a large poultice of sucking tobacco, yank his cap over his left ear, do juggling tricks with a baseball—and grin. Schacht favored more elaborate material and devised pantomimes dealing with Suzanne Lenglen, Dempsey and Carpentier, the long count in Chicago and the pitcher—any pitcher—who has just been tagged for a home run by Babe Ruth. These little inventions pleased the world series patrons for several years, but Mr. Altrock always felt that in using artificial props on the ball yard Schacht was debasing his art.

So, in the last few years, Mr. Schacht, what with Nick's temperament and the lack of incentive, has not bothered to keep the act up to date. Perhaps with their own Washington club involved in the ball games the pair of them will derive new enthusiasm from the world series occasion this year and disclose some thoughts on reforestation, the new deal and the NRA.

It will be a relief, anyway, to be rid of the volunteer clown, an anonymous character out of Cincinnati, whose pathetic efforts have made strong men weep at every world series in the west for half a dozen years. Nobody ever troubled to ask his name. It was bad enough to have to see him, a man in a little boy's conception of a comic makeup flouncing around the Cubs' and the Cardinals' yard and failing horribly in laborious efforts to make the patrons laugh.

It is bad enough when a dramatic actor isn't dramatic, but when a clown isn't funny the suffering is terrible all around.

Yes, Dodge Trucks are now priced right down with the very lowest. But that's where the similarity ends. In ruggedness . . . in long life . . . and low operating costs, Dodge is alone. Head and shoulders, the outstanding buy.

Dodge has over two dozen features that cost real money to include. They're there because they make the truck better—save operating costs and repair bills. Everybody knows that 4 main bearings are better than 3. No one questions that 4 piston rings seal power and oil better than 3. Tests prove Valve Seat Inserts eliminate valve grinding costs for 30,000 miles and more. Hydraulic brakes stay equalized, save relining, reduce tire wear. Everybody knows it costs money to include an Oil Filter, big Radiator, big Cast Iron Brake Drums and an engine block of Chrome-Nickel-Molybdenum-Iron.

Yet, amazing as it sounds, Dodge gives you all these quality features, while no other low-priced truck has even half of them—and most of them haven't even 2 or 3. Before you buy any truck, go to your Dodge Dealer and learn about these costly quality features. You'll be astonished at how much more value you get in Dodge.

BROWNS DEFEAT SENATORS, 4 TO 0, FOR 2D STRAIGHT

Coffman Holds Leaders to Six Hits.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 19.—(AP)—Dick Coffman, St. Louis Browns right hander, and the New York Yankees teamed up today to prevent the Washington Senators from clinching the American league pennant — Coffman shutting out the Senators, 4 to 0, while the Yankees beat Chicago twice at New York.

Despite the setback, the second in a row at the hands of the Browns, the Washington club was so confident of playing the New York Giants in the world series that it began building penthouse seats on top of the grandstand to increase the park's seating capacity.

Coffman held the Senators to six scattered hits and was invincible in the pinches. He walked five, but forced his opponents to pop up after regaining his control. Score:

Pitchers Quake When Manush Steps to Plate

[This is the fourth of a series of sketches of the Washington Senators, who will meet the New York Giants in the world series.]

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 19.—Heinie Manush, unlike Riggs Stephenson, the Sewell brothers, and most other Alabamans, talks with no Alabama drawl or whine. In talking with him one is more likely to notice the outcropping of his German ancestry than any evidences of his Dixie nativity. There is no trace of Canadian influence, although he launched his career in organized baseball with the Edmonton team of the Western Canada league in 1921 when he was 20 years old.

HEINIE MANUSH.

Heinie is distinctly a power ball player of the same type as his teammate, Goose Goslin, Lou Gehrig, Jimmy Foxx, and Chuck Klein. Every move he makes suggests great physical power. He never goes to the plate without giving the impression that he would rather bat the ball right through the torso of an interfering fielder than over his head. No player in baseball at the plate gives more distinct evidence of being a downright enemy of all pitchers than does Manush. And when Heinie digs in his spikes for that toehold pitchers know what he's thinking about.

Manush Gets 200 Hits for Fourth Year in League.

Manush, who passed Al Simmons in late September to go into second place in the American league batting standings, got his 200th hit the first week in September, the first by more than a week to reach that enviable mark. This is the fourth American league season in which he has made more than 200 hits. He had 241 with St. Louis in 1928, 204 the following year, also with St. Louis, and 214 last year with Washington.

Manush, then with Detroit, was the American league batting champion in 1926, batting .377 in 136 games. The following year he slumped to .299, and on Dec. 13, 1927, was traded by Detroit to St. Louis with Lu Blue for Harry Rice, Van Glider, and Galloway, of whom only Rice now is in major league baseball.

With St. Louis he immediately staged a comeback as a slugger, batting .378, and, as related in our sketch of Goslin, was beaten out for the championship by Goose by a fraction of one percentage point on the last day of the season. Goslin that year made only 173 hits, as compared to Manush's 241, but Heinie was at bat 638 times, as compared with Goose's 656.

Quaint Deal Sends Manush, Crowder to Senators.

Heinie batted .355 in 142 times at bat for St. Louis in 1929. In June of 1930 Clark Griffith, American league president, decided he wanted Manush and his present leading hurler, Al Crowder. So Heinie and Al went to Washington and Goslin was transferred to St. Louis on June 13, 1930, in perhaps the quaintest of all the surprising deals involving the Washington and St. Louis teams. In 1930 Manush batted .350. Last year he batted .342, which is about six points higher than his lifetime major league average for ten full seasons and the present one to date.

Manush is one of those not uncommon baseball paradoxes in that he is looked upon as a very mean, almost ruthless player on the field, yet is mild and friendly out of the arena. Although he never has gone in for base stealing, Heinie is looked upon as something of a baseline terror.

Some rival players describe him as a "broad jumper," in discussing his method of going into a base when something is at stake. Infielders place no dependence on the possibilities of his spikes being dull.

Manush married a Detroit girl, Betty Lloyd, in 1928. They are the parents of three daughters.

Sox Leave East for Season After Yank Game Today

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 19.—The Sox will say farewell to the east after tomorrow's single encounter with the Yankees. Urban Faber is scheduled to pitch against Danny MacFayden.

Dixie Walker, who is young and large, challenged Sam Jones, who is little and mature, to fisticuffs after Sam had hit him with a pitched ball in the second inning of the first game Charley Berry took off his mask and expressed his willingness to take care of Sam's fighting, whereupon the valiant southerner trotted from the center of the diamond to first without renewing his challenge.

In the Wake of the News

KING LEVINSKY.

KING LEVINSKY, born Harry Krakow, fought the best fight of his career against Jack Sharkey Monday night at Comiskey Park to win the ten round decision. It was the kind of fight present day pugilistic fans like to see, constant action, so the Kingfish firmly established himself as a drawing card in this territory and probably elsewhere. Certainly none who saw the bout will miss Levinsky's next effort against a capable opponent.

Now the Kingfish has not gone "clever." Far from it. He still swings those roundhouse rights from any angle, but he also whips them from shorter distances than formerly, as well as from the long, long trail a-winding. If Levinsky had gone clever in boxing he probably would have been outpointed by the master boxer, Sharkey. His achievement, in our opinion, was in making this master boxer, experienced in ringcraft, fight the kind of battle which he, Levinsky, wished to fight.

Sharkey never has been a one punch knocker-out. The Kingfish therefore was willing to trade punches at every opportunity. Boston Jack, after being upset in the first round, preferred not to trade punches. Wariness, impelled by that upset, nullified to a great extent Sharkey's more skillful boxing. It caused him to cover up and hold carefully in the clinches against a sneak punch. It minimized whatever advantages he had in cleverness.

In general, critics will say Sharkey is on the down grade. Some even may say he is a shell of the former Jack. True. Sharkey no doubt is paying the toll of his long ring activity and advancing years, but certainly he is more than a shell. We prefer, at least, to ascribe his defeat in large part to Levinsky's tactics. And that does not mean we think Levinsky is a great fighter. He is better than we thought, or was Monday night, and better than a majority of those present thought in advance. Moreover, he has "personality," as he chooses to phrase it.

Levinsky, who has twice met Max Baer in losing decision bouts and twice met Carnera, once in an exhibition and once in a losing decision, apparently has stepped into the big money again for another crack at either one of them—if he doesn't meet an upset before that opportunity arrives. One can't anticipate what will happen to him against a harder puncher than Sharkey. Also one can't anticipate what may happen to the other fellow.

So the Kingfish, apparently condemned in public opinion to mediocrity and comparative ring obscurity, emerged by his willing, aggressive tactics and that clip to Sharkey's chin in the first session.

Far from the bustle and noise,

And the Fair is a group of toys.

That's the way with life, my darlings,
It depends on where you stand.

BRAVES DEFEAT REDS, 3-0; RAIN HOLDS UP GAME

Cincinnati, O., Sept. 19.—(AP)—Refreshed after an hour's wait for a heavy rain to cease, Boston's Braves went back to play on sawdust and a puddle filled field today and defeated the Cincinnati Reds, 3 to 0.

man singled, and Lazzeri allowed three to die on base when he grounded out to Hayes. The net of all these things was only four runs.

Dykes Is Chased.

Dykes got bounced out of the game for throwing his cap at Umpire McGowan in a rather active fourth inning during which the Sox made two hits and got two walks, but failed to score. Dykes and Appling singled and Swanson walked, filling the bases with none out. Kress lined to Walker and the ball was relayed to third, where McGowan ruled that Dykes, in running to the plate, had left third before Walker caught the ball. When McGowan proclaimed a double play, Dykes ran out and did his hat throwing act. After things had quieted down, Hayes walked, again filling the bases, but Sullivan died to Chapman.

The Yanks made two in the seventh after two were out on singles by Combs and Sewell and a triple by Gehrig. Gehrig supplied the third out by trying for home on his smash to left center.

The Sox made a pair of runs in the eighth inning in spite of the discouragement of a double play. Appling walked and Swanson beat out an infield hit. Kress then tapped into a double play, Appling reaching third. Hayes walked, after which Sullivan singled to center, scoring Appling and putting Hayes on third. Stoneham batted for Gaston and rolled a single to the right field wall, scoring Hayes and putting Sullivan on third. Bocek walked, filling the bases. Devens then threw out Haas.

SMOKERS

FOR the past several years, men accustomed to the enjoyment of the finest cigars have had to forego that acme of tobacco enjoyment and to make the best of cheaper substitutes. But now, with each new step in the upswing of business and confidence, more of these men are returning to their favorite smokes—and by far the largest number are going back to LA PALINA Cigar.

For many years La Palina has been the first choice of the men in this city who have paid ten cents or more for a cigar. La Palina has weathered other depressions, and it always—and even more so today—has stayed the leader.

All through this trying time we have not surrendered to the natural temptation to cut quality in order to meet "price." There have been times in the darkest days when it might have seemed expedient to do so. But we held to our faith that this depression, like all its predecessors, was bound to end.

The history of America is a history of the desire of men and women to have the best. Depressions temporarily affect the means but never the wish. And business history shows what happens to the product which cuts quality to meet "cut-price."

Today the swing is back to QUALITY—in every kind of merchandise. We are glad we stuck to our guns. For we can say to you now in this advertisement, "Welcome back to La Palina! You'll not be disappointed in its quality. La Palina is better made today from filler to wrapper than it was in 1929!"

IN FACT—if you paid a dollar for a cigar imported from Havana, you couldn't get finer Havana tobacco than is the keystone of the La Palina blend. That rich leaf grown only in the Pinar del Rio district of Cuba is blended for mildness with choice tobaccos brought by ship from other famous Caribbean plantations. Its satisfying mildness is so marked that every La Palina urges you to smoke another.

As conditions improve with you, remember his: Whatever you buy will be more enjoyable if you first go back to La Palina!

CHRYSOSTOM BY A HEAD! OWNER CAN'T BELIEVE IT

O'Byrne's Luck Finally Changes at Lincoln Fields

BY FRENCH LANE.

Johnny O'Byrne, who is known to nearly everybody on the race tracks from Maine to California and from Canada to Mexico, found his luck piece yesterday.

After almost a year of the worst run of luck an horseman ever encountered he could hardly believe his own eyes when he peered down the muddy home stretch at Lincoln Fields and saw his colt, Chrysostom, put on one of the gamest stretch runs of the year in Chicago.

He saw his light blue and black jacket flash out in front of a band of milling, fighting horses in midstretch. He watched Chysostom dash on to the winning post and pass it with his head in front. Then he saw number two drop into winner's slot on the big green board on the infield. That was Chrysostom's number.

Convinced It's No Dream.

Mr. O'Byrne made his way to the cashiers' side of the betting plant and presented a small ticket. A cashier paid him off at $11.72 for each $2 he had invested. Then Johnny O'Byrne knew he wasn't dreaming.

For a year O'Byrne's stable has encountered all the hard luck there is around a race track. His horses broke down. His jockey, M. Calvert, sustained severe injuries and a crippled arm. The horses he got into condition lost decisions by a nose. He couldn't do anything that would bring in a few dollars to his racing establishment.

And it was quite a shock for O'Byrne. A year earlier he couldn't do anything wrong.

Had to Be Game to Win.

Chrysostom had to be a good game colt to win. Royal Blunder and Mad Wind outran him in the early stages. Turning for home he dropped completely out of it. The stretch run was well along when he started to go again. Then he ran over horses to get to the front. The Nash Brothers' At Top, which had led into the stretch by a length, finished second. Two and a half lengths back of her came Mad Wind in third place. Glastonbury, the favorite, finished fourth. Chrysostom ran the mile and sixteenth in the heavy going in 1:49.

Bryant Ott, who trains the French Lick Spring stable horses owned by Thomas D. Taggart, pulled a new one on the crowd when he sent Safe and Sound out to race in the Thornton purse wearing a white flannel bandage around his neck.

Ott Explains to Stewards.

Trainer Ott explained to the stewards that his charge was suffering from a sore throat, but that he didn't believe it would affect his running. Safe and Sound ran nobly until the field was well down the stretch. He had made numerous challenges, but Luna Bright, the pace maker, always shook him off.

Then he began to tire and Cloudet passed him up to take second money. Safe and Sound saved the slim end of the purse. Luna Bright went on to win handily. Cloudet had been the favorite. So Luna Bright paid $11.02 in the mutuels.

The outing apparently did Safe and Sound little harm, for Trainer Ott reported the colt's sore throat was improved.

Timorous Wins Again.

Timorous rolled up another victory in Mrs. A. M. Creech's silks in the Canna claiming purse. He trailed the fleet Dominant Miss from Kentucky until the final strides. Then Jockey Wright squeezed Timorous through next to the rail and won in the last half dozen strides. Spartan Lady also was coming with a mighty rush on the outside, and she got up to beat Dominant Miss out of second money.

Timorous has been running around Chicago most of the season in claiming races ranging from $1,000 to $2,000, but nobody has led him away. He was mixed up in the horse doping scandal which broke in midsummer, and that may have been the reason.

H. O. L. C. RESCUES MILLER FAMILY FROM EVICTION

Mortgage Holder Accepts Plea of Donne.

BY AL CHASE.

Mr. and Mrs. Stratos Miller and their three children are not to lose their home at 4713 West Superior street after all. Publicity and a hint that Uncle Sam might take a hand in preventing their being thrown out by a couple of huskies resulted yesterday in Lawrence McNamee of 1522 Edgewater avenue, holder of the mortgage, voluntarily appearing before William G. Donne, Illinois manager for the Home Owners' Loan corporation, and agreeing to accept H. O. L. C. bonds in exchange for the mortgage.

Mr. Donne made public on Monday what he termed "one of the saddest distress cases that has yet come to our attention. It stands out prominently from the more than 200,000 loan applications we've received." The Miller family are physically and financially hard pressed. Two of their children are sick and a third has just been in a hospital.

Mrs. Miller Pays Interest.

McNamee, holder of a $3,500 mortgage against their bungalow, foreclosed it, although Mrs. Miller claims he told her he would renew the mortgage if she would pay the interest, which she did. According to Mr. Donne, when McNamee's attorneys were appealed to they said they were specifically instructed to "Burn all bridges behind. Get possession of the property."

Two huskies appeared at the Miller home and told them if they weren't out by a certain hour they'd be thrown out. Mrs. Miller appealed to the Home Owners' Loan corporation for aid. Mr. Donne and his counsel tried to reach Mr. McNamee, but he refused to see them. His attorneys refused to accept bonds for their client.

Makes Incident Public.

Then Mr. Donne made the whole incident public. And at the same time he intimated that Washington would be called on for aid if necessary. Publicity brought prompt action. Mr. McNamee and his attorneys hurried into the H. O. L. C. offices yesterday. Before he left McNamee had signed an agreement to accept the bonds if the H. O. L. C. grant the Millers a loan.

"We feel certain that the Home Owners' Loan corporation will be able to make a new mortgage on the Miller bungalow which will be ample to care for the present mortgage, foreclosure costs, taxes, etc." said Thomas P. Grant, assistant counsel for the H. O. L. C. "We've made a preliminary appraisal and have ordered a regular appraisal to be made at once.

"We're very much encouraged over the way the situation has turned out. It means the saving of a home for a worthy American family who was in extreme distress and who couldn't get help any other way than through the Home Owners' Loan corporation."

CHARLES HAAG, NOTED AS WOOD SCULPTOR, DIES

Charles Haag, sculptor, died yesterday at his home, 897 Cherry street, Winnetka, of cerebral hemorrhage. He was 65 years old.

Mr. Haag was born in Sweden. First apprenticed to the clockmaker's trade, he deserted that for art and studied in several European countries before coming to America in 1903. He was best known, perhaps, for his carvings in wood.

His work, most of which was designed to depict the dignity of labor, showed strong sympathy for immigrants coming to the United States. Mr. Haag had exhibited his work in the Art institute and other museums in past years.

He is survived by his widow. Funeral services are to be held in his studio at the residence tomorrow at 10 a. m.

DIES OF HEART DISEASE.

James Palmer, 38 years old, died of heart disease early yesterday after eating a meal in a restaurant at 1114 Wilson avenue.

TOO late Dot realized the handicap that excess, unlovely fat puts on even beautiful women. Too late she realized the havoc that billowing flesh works on lovely features and youthful figures. Are you, too, putting up with abnormal, unsightly fat? Then learn the method multitudes have turned to, when too much food goes to fat and too little goes to energy. Doctors trace this common condition to "low metabolism." Ever since 1907 a wonderful prescription has been used to counteract this frequent cause of abnormal weight. No starvation diets—simply avoid fattening foods. Its 19 ingredients include important vegetable, organic and other factors, which physicians the world over prescribe regularly. It is called Marmola. Since 1907 20 million boxes have been bought by people who have grown tired of embarrassing fat—and tired of ineffective remedies. Now it is asked for by the thousands, in leading style and beauty centers—sold in 48 states and in many foreign lands. Ask for it today—every druggist has Marmola, at only $1.

Elkhorn Pioneer Worked in Chicago Store.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Elkhorn, Wis., Sept. 19.—E. C. Hubbard, 87, who came west 63 years ago from New York state at the request of Marshall Field who then was building up what has become one of Chicago's largest stores, died in Elkhorn today. He was one of Walworth county's pioneer merchants.

Believing there was a better mercantile future in the farming district of southern Wisconsin, he moved to Spring Prairie, in Walworth county, in 1880, where he established a general store. He conducted this store for ten years. In 1902 he came to Elkhorn, where he started a grocery business, which he conducted for 15 years.

Surviving Mr. Hubbard are his widow and three children, Mrs. Forest Cory of Petersburg, Fla., Mrs. R. T. Wiswell of Spring Prairie, and Harold Hubbard of Elkhorn.

COTTON ADVANCES

Cotton was apparently bought by speculators and other interests regardless of price, while selling was by profit-takers, which had a moderate effect at times, but sentiment was bullish, and price fluctuations were numerous and sharp. The finish was around the best for the day, with futures in Chicago up 40 to 50 points. Other markets were up 33 to 38 points. Spots, $1.50 to $2 a bale higher, as compared with Monday's finish. A big market was on, with strong bullish sentiment, based on inflation talk which has been propagated largely by the south, leading interests in that section predicting 20-cent cotton and reporting that they are holding the bulk of their cotton for that price. European buying orders cut an important figure, as also did Wall street interests who are bullish. Prices follow:

GRAIN PRICES SOAR; WHEAT PASSES DOLLAR

Inflationary Actions Influence Trade.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Increasing evidence that inflation is a fact instead of a theory and that the pace may be accelerated in order to head off what is regarded as direct action by congress unless President Roosevelt does it voluntarily is having its effect on the views of grain traders.

Arthur W. Cutten, one of the largest grain and stock operators in the country, yesterday expressed the belief wheat would sell up to around $1.40 per bushel, while looking for corn to sell around 80 cents and oats at 60 cents, or materially above current levels. Yesterday was the first time in many weeks Mr. Cutten openly expressed his views on the market, although privately he has told his friends he felt decidedly friendly to the buying side.

Sells Over a Dollar.

Rumors that an important announcement would be made after the close regarding further inflationary measures sent the grain markets soaring late yesterday and wheat advanced as much as 3⅝ cents from the early low and to a new high since Aug. 11. May wheat sold up to $1.02 and closed at that figure to a fraction under, while September finished at 93⅞ cents and December at 97⅝ to 97¾ cents, net gains for the day being 1⅞ to 2⅛ cents.

Other grains reflected the action of wheat to a large extent, with corn gaining ⅝ to ⅞ cents, December being 55⅝ to 55¾ cents at the last. Oats were ⅛ to ¾ cents higher, with December at 42⅜ to 42½ cents, and rye was up ⅝ to ¾ cents, December closing at 77¼ to 77⅝ cents. Barley led the advance in all grains and was up 2⅛ to 2⅝ cents for the day, the December being 61¼ cents at the last.

Eastern Houses Buy.

Grain traders construed the announcement that $150,000,000 would be made available by the administration for refinancing farm mortgages and the efforts of Senator Pitman to commit the government to a policy of advancing silver prices materially as straws showing which way the wind was blowing, especially as Chairman Jones of the RFC was quoted as saying the former was a definite reflationary move.

Other influences counted for little during the day. As has frequently been the case for some time past houses with eastern connections were free buyers of wheat before the inflation rumors were in circulation and were credited with having absorbed the surplus in the market, and late buyers had to bid up to secure the grain. The northwest was a good seller early. Reports from both the American and Canadian northwest indicated the wheat crop had been overestimated. Winnipeg closed ¼ cent higher to ½ cent lower, while Liverpool was ⅛ to ¼ cent higher.

Expects Higher Prices.

One of the largest cash grain handlers in the country yesterday expressed the belief the longer coarse grain prices remained low the higher they would go ultimately. He based his view on the fact there is no reason for curtailing consumption at low prices and the prevailing level is not regarded as high, especially in view of the extremely small crops of corn, oats, and barley secured this season.

Recent hot and dry weather in Europe, according to reports received yesterday, has resulted in a shortage of pasturage and hay over a wide area, and increased use of feeding grain is regarded as likely during the winter and spring. Drought in Argentina is also said to have resulted in increased consumption of corn in that country.

J. R. THOMPSON CO. VOTES USUAL DIVIDEND OF 25C

Directors of the John R. Thompson company yesterday declared the regular quarterly dividend of 25 cents a share on the capital stock, John R. Thompson Jr., president, announced last night.

The board also accepted the resignations of Charels A. McCulloch, Herman Waldeck, and William M. Collins as directors. Filling of the vacancies was discussed but formal action was put off until the next regular meeting, Mr. Thompson said. The McCulloch and Waldeck resignations were previously announced. Collins submitted his resignation Monday.

The retiring directors opposed the election of Thompson as president of the company at the annual meeting last April. With E. N. D'Ancona they constituted the minority of four on the board of nine members.

"The results of the last two and a half months clearly justify the declaration of the regular dividend," Mr. Thompson said. The dividend is payable Oct. 10 to stock of record Oct. 2.

ILLINOIS CENTRAL'S CAR LOADINGS LAST WEEK 4,373 LARGER

Car loadings on the Illinois Central railroad last week increased by 4,373 over those of the preceding week to a total of 27,456, which was, however, 2,068 below loadings for the comparable week of 1932.

Loadings totaled 18,309 on the Great Northern, or 2,183 above those of the week before and 6,006 above those of the same period of 1932.

On the St. Louis-San Francisco freight traffic amounted to 13,015 cars surpassing that of the preceding week by 2,169, but standing 874 below that of the corresponding week last year.

Car loadings of the Wabash Railway company for the week ended Sept. 16 were 11,786, compared with 11,572 for the same week a year ago.

Resources of Banks Decline Only 10 Pct.

BY HOWARD WOOD.

Although nearly 16 per cent of the banks in the United States closed in the twelve months ended June 30, causing tremendous withdrawals from the remaining 84 per cent, the total banking resources of the nation declined less than 10 per cent during that period, according to a capitulation presented in the current issue of Rand McNally and company's bankers' directory.

This compilation presents the first reasonably complete summary of the disastrous events in banking during the year ended June 30. It lists banks representing about 98 per cent of the nation's banking resources, the few omissions being small institutions that failed to return their questionnaires.

During the twelve months, the report shows, 1,131 national banks and 1,810 state banks and trust companies, and 98 private banks folded up. Banks still open on June 30, 1933, totaled 16,032, of which 4,983 were national, 10,719 state, and 330 private.

Total resources of banks still doing business on June 30 amounted to 52 billion, 261 million dollars, compared with an aggregate of 57 billion 598 million dollars a year before. Combined capital of all banks shrank from 3 billion, 245 million to 2 billion, 925 million during this period. Deposits dropped from 45 billion, 883 million to 42 billion, 544 million. Not all of the difference, however, represents loss to depositors because some of it was due to withdrawals for hoarding and to meet expenses.

An interesting sidelight on the investing and loaning policies of banks is seen in a comparison of the sizable shrinkage in loans with the slight drop in investments. Holdings of bonds and other securities by banks dropped only about a half billion dollars from 18 billion, 759 million dollars in June, 1932, to 18 billion, 265 million a year later. Loans and discounts, however, declined about 5 billions from 27 billion, 698 million dollars to 22 billion, 758 million.

Surplus and undivided profits dropped nearly 20 per cent, the total on June 30 being 4 billion, 55 million, compared with 4 billion, 905 million a year before.

The compilation shows that there are 2,443 bank branches in 30 states. California leads with 755 and New York is second with 561. Pennsylvania has 107 and Massachusetts 109. States in which there are no branch banks are Colorado, Illinois, Florida, Iowa, Kansas, Missouri, Montana, Nebraska, New Hampshire, New Mexico, North Dakota, Oklahoma, South Dakota, Texas, West Virginia, Wyoming, and Idaho.

Of the 16,032 banks in the United States 7,290 are capitalized for less than $250,000 each and 2,910 others are capitalized for between $250,000 and $500,000. Only 250 have 25 millions or more capital.

Banks operating under conservators total 1,208. In addition conservators are in charge of 142 branch banks.

This is approximately the picture facing the national bank examiners and the federal reserve officials as they are setting out to organize the banking system of the United States under the guaranty of deposits provision of the banking act of 1933.

The deadline is Jan. 1, 1934, which means that in about three months a nucleus of national bank examiners, supplemented by hundreds of recruits, must comb over more than 52 billions of bank resources, index and appraise them, and decide which of the 16,032 banks may be qualified for the deposit insurance corporation and which must be left out in the cold or forced to find additional capital.

The job is complicated by the fact that about 8,000 of these banks are state institutions which do not belong to the federal reserve system and which will be entirely new to the national examiners and their hurriedly trained helpers.

N.Y. Exchange Seat Prices Dip $50,000

The full force of the blow given the New York Stock exchange by heavy taxes imposed by the city administration was shown yesterday when exchange memberships fell $50,000 in value. It was one of the biggest declines in the price of memberships on record and meant the erasing of 25 per cent of the former value. The price brought by the seat transferred was $150,000 against the previous sale of $200,000.

Meanwhile the price of Chicago Stock exchange seats continued fairly steady.

The committee of 16 Chicago bankers, brokers, and business men made preparations for the meeting tomorrow, at which ways to promote this city as the center of the security business will be discussed.

In New York several groups went ahead with plans for defeating the latest taxes of the Tammany administration, which call for an additional 4 cent levy on each share of stock transferred and a 5 per cent levy on the gross profit of brokerage firms.

One group of a dozen important stock exchange firms gave evidence of carrying out the threat made to move their business out of New York if the taxes were approved.

Limits Membership.

Howard Froelick, chairman of the committee representing the 12 firms, said that the organization of a new exchange in New Jersey, restricted to New York exchange members, is progressing and that the committee would hold another meeting this morning. Several locations have been considered, but nothing definitely decided, he added.

The activity of this committee is independent of the group which last week took out incorporation papers for the National Stock exchange in Newark, N. J.

The law firm of Caldwalader, Wickersham & Taft has been retained by the organizers to study the legal questions involved.

The new organization would be closely affiliated with the New York Stock exchange, it is understood, although the exchange has taken no active part in its formation so far.

Whitney Meets Hague.

In Jersey City announcement was made that Richard Whitney, president of the New York exchange, had conferred with Mayor Frank Hague three times and had assured the Jersey City executive that his city would be given first consideration if the market is removed from New York.

In Chicago trading in exchange memberships quieted down. The last sale price was $10,000. The best bid last night was $?,500, but the exchange was still receiving a large number of inquiries on seats from New York.

Chicago Board of Trade memberships advanced $250 to $10,750. The lowest offering is $12,500, it was stated. A membership of another New York market, the cotton exchange, sold off $2,500 to $17,500.

DOLLAR AGAIN RECEDES; SELLS AT 64.65 CENTS

Price of Gold Moves Up to $31.64.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 19.—The dollar underwent further depreciation in foreign exchange today to register new low quotations in terms of the gold standard exchanges. It dropped to 64.65 cents in gold valuation, measured against the French franc, compared with the previous low of 64.81 cents made on Monday.

The treasury's daily price for newly mined gold was fixed at $31.64 an ounce, a new high since the practice of buying gold at the world price was instituted and a rise of 20 cents an ounce over Monday's quotation. Today's gold price was based on the French market rather than on the London market.

Best Price Required.

The regulations governing the purchase of newly mined gold require that the best price obtainable in the world markets be paid, and today, due to the relativity greater depreciation of the dollar in terms of the franc than in terms of sterling, sales of gold to the Bank of France were more advantageous than sales in the London open market.

Thus far receipts of newly mined gold have approximated the purchases of gold by the arts and industry, leaving only a small margin to be shipped abroad and sold. Some excess of receipts over sales has accumulated, however, and a shipment of several thousand ounces is expected to be made today.

Franc Reaches 6.06 Cents.

The franc reached 6.06 cents today, which was a new high, and closed at 6.05½ cents, up 6¾ points. Guilders rose to a new high of 62.40 cents, up 58 points; Swiss francs to a new high of 30 cents, up 28 points, and belgas gained 17 points to 21.57 cents.

The pound sterling closed at its high for the day, $4.80¼. At this price sterling was below its previous day's high of $4.82 but showed a net gain of 3 cents.

Appoints Frank McKey Receiver for Hertz & Co.

Frank McKey yesterday was appointed receiver for Hertz & Co., investment brokerage at 105 West Adams street, in a bankruptcy hearing before Federal Judge John P. Barnes. The company last week admitted insolvency in an answer to an involuntary petition in bankruptcy, charging that the former president, William H. Hertz, had embezzled large sums of money. The liabilities of the firm are estimated at about $500,000, and the assets at $300,000.

Northern Trust Company Votes Regular Dividend

Directors of the Northern Trust company yesterday declared the regular quarterly dividend of $4.50 a share, payable Oct. 2 to stockholders of record Sept. 19.

CHINESE OFFER U. S. COTTON TO JAPANESE FIRMS

[Copyright: 1933: By the New York Times.]

TOKIO, Sept. 19.—The president of the Bank of China in Shanghai has offered to sell Japanese cotton interests, the cotton recently acquired under the American wheat and cotton loan. An urgent meeting of Japanese spinners decided to buy the cotton if the price was suitable. This is the first public confirmation of rumors which have been circulating for some time that the Chinese were selling the American loan cotton cheaply in Japan.

A $50,000,000 Credit.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 19.—[Special.]—On June 4 the Reconstruction Finance corporation announced that it had authorized a credit of $50,000,000 for the national government of the Republic of China with which to purchase American cotton and wheat, the purchases to be made in the open market in this country.

EXPECT SEARS EARNING RATE TO BE MAINTAINED

Boston, Mass., Sept. 19.—[Special.]—Lessing Rosenwald, chairman of Sears, Roebuck & Co., said here today that the earning rate of the company from March 26 to July 16 should be maintained for the remainder of the year. The company made a profit of $3,206,000 during the period as compared with a loss of $1,857,000 from Jan. 1 to March 26.

Mr. Rosenwald based his forecast on the assumption that business will continue through the balance of the year as good as at present. If the present earnings rate continues, profit for the year should be about $5,500,000 before federal taxes. Last year the company lost $2,543,651.

Mr. Rosenwald is here attending a retail distributors' conference.

CHEERFUL 'NEWS' FROM CAPITAL AID TO STOCKS

Announcement Due on Commodities.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 19.—[Special.]—Words of encouragement came over the wires from Washington at the psychological moment to arouse the share market from a bad sinking spell once again today.

This time it was a report that an important announcement regarding commodities would be made "at an early date." No intimation was given as to the nature of the statement, but the speculative fraternity seemed to have no doubt that it would be of highly bullish import, and bought stocks accordingly.

When the rumor first was heard, the market was leaning heavily to the selling side with leading issues down anywhere from 1 to 3 points. A few of the fast movers showed even more sensational losses.

Homestake Recovers 17 Points.

Homestake Mining, for instance, was selling some 20 points below its previous close. Dealings veered quickly to the buying side as the word got round that the government was going to do something for the commodities, and the close found by far the bigger proportion of the early losses recovered with many stocks which had served as outstanding bear targets during the forenoon dealings showing small net gains on the day.

Homestake, for a shining example of the quick comeback made by the list as a whole, recovered 17 of its lost points to close at 360, off only 3 on the session. American Can made up all but a fraction of an early 3 point loss.

U. S. Steel Rebounds.

United States Steel rebounded from 41 to 52⅝, where it was off only a quarter of a point. Case Threshing Machine jumped from a low of 77 to 81, where it was up 1. Sears Roebuck recovered all of its early loss of more than 2 points, and most of the leading rails erased early losses of 1 to 3 points to finish on the up side of the column.

As a result of the buying spurt which came to a head in the last hour of trading, the final prices were no worse than irregular. Repeal, utility, and tobacco stocks lagged in the recovery.

Interest in "Inflation" Shares.

Speculative interest was centered largely on the so-called "inflation" stocks, including metals, sulphur, and rubber groups. American Smelting ran up more than four points in the mining group, and International Nickel and Kennecott were strong spots. Most of the coppers met demand.

Among the volatile favorites, Allied Chemical, Western Union, and Celanese rallied strongly in the last thirty minutes or so, all of them recouping their early losses in impressive fashion.

New York traction issues were a strong feature, both Brooklyn-Manhattan and Interborough Rapid Transit scoring good gains.

Morgenthau Orders Speed on Farm Loans

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 19.—Hurry up orders demanding speedier action in refinancing farm mortgages were dispatched by Gov. Henry Morgenthau Jr., of the farm credit administration today to all government farm loan agencies throughout the country.

Mr. Morgenthau's action followed widespread criticism of the slowness with which the vast federal machinery for relieving farm debt has been functioning.

At the present time, the farm credit administrator stated, there is a "backlog of some 185,000 applications for loans hanging over us and new ones are coming in at the rate of 17,000 or more a week."

Applications on File.

Applications involving more than 800 million dollars are already on file in the federal credit agency, Mr. Morgenthau said, from farmers seeking government aid in meeting their debt problems.

As it now requires from three to six months to complete action on each application, Mr. Morgenthau estimated that 400 million dollars now on hand will be sufficient to carry the work of his agency for the next six months. When this is exhausted, he said, he will secure a new loan from the Reconstruction Finance corporation, using farm loan bonds as collateral.

The farm credit administration has a bonding power of two billion dollars and thus far has obtained only 150 million dollars from the R. F. C., pledging unissued bonds as collateral. The remainder of the funds now available, Mr. Morgenthau said, consists of 50 millions already in the farm loan banks and 200 millions appropriated by congress for so-called "commissioner loans."

Many Are Ineligible.

About 40 per cent of the applications thus far received, according to the farm credit governor, are ineligible for loans under the farm act, either because of failure to meet technical requirements or because the mortgage holder cannot, or will not, accept the writedown on the mortgage based on the government appraisal of the present value of the property.

While his statement to the field agents indicated Mr. Morgenthau's belief that the work of refinancing farm mortgages is not proceeding as rapidly as it might, he declared that some improvement in hastening the work has been accomplished in recent weeks.

In July, he pointed out, loans made by the administration totaled only $3,532,918, whereas, in August, they totaled $7,240,700.

R. B. Howd Joins Staff of Lumbermen's Mutual

The appointment of R. B. Howd to the executive staff of the Lumbermen's Mutual Casualty company and affiliates, headed by James S. Kemper, was announced yesterday. Mr. Howd will become office manager at the home office of the Kemper companies in the Mutual Insurance building at Sheridan road and Lawrence avenue. Mr. Howd was associated with George G. Madan & Co. of Detroit as manager for the receiver of the Republic Automobile Insurance company and the Central West Casualty company.

U. S. OFFICIAL DEFENDS NEW SECURITIES LAW

Chicago Man Urges Revision.

Milwaukee, Wis., Sept. 19.—[Special.]—Baldwin B. Bane, chief of the securities division of the federal trade commission, vigorously defended the federal securities act of 1933 in a talk today to the National Association of Securities Commissioners, in convention at the Hotel Schroeder.

He declared it to be "of major importance in the concerted drive for recovery launched by President Roosevelt."

"This legislation aims definitely and for good to shut the door upon those financial methods of the past that brought disaster to thousands of investors and destroyed the broad base of public confidence upon which our economic structure and our very livelihood depend," he said.

Chicago Man Would Change Act.

Clifford Edminter of the firm of Kirkland, Fleming, Green & Martin, Chicago, speaking on "security reorganization," advocated a modification of the securities act. "I suggest that at the earliest opportunity the present drastic provisions of the act should be modified so as not to impose undue obligations upon members of protective committees and other persons engaged in reorganizations," he said.

Delegates to the convention are divided in their sentiment regarding the securities act. A resolution, however, pledging the organization's aid in enforcing the act, has been prepared by the resolutions committee and will be presented at the session tomorrow, the last day of the convention.

New Yorker Favors Revision.

Arthur H. Dean, prominent New York attorney, also told the convention he favored revision of the act.

"In my opinion," he said, "the whole theory of the act should be completely revised because it is, to a large extent, based on distrust and suspicion rather than on what is pertinent and relevant. Too much emphasis is placed on the liability of those concerned rather than on the merits of the security."

One of the suggestions for amendments to the act advanced by Mr. Dean was that the liability of officers and directors of a company selling a security should be limited to damages caused by untruthful statements.

Declared Aid for All.

"As a program for the future the act opens the way to a rebuilding of public confidence along new lines, along lines that promise incalculable benefit not only to the great number of investors who have their savings to invest, but also to those business and industrial organizations which merit that confidence and stand ready to deal with their co-partners in a common enterprise," Mr. Bane declared.

"To those who say that the requirements of this act stand in the way of financial recovery the reply is that recovery is impossible unless confidence in methods and institutions be restored to the great number of large and small investors whose savings make possible the existence of these institutions."

Chicago Man Urges Act Be Revised.

There are many, he said, who advocate that the needed reforms must come from within the financial world itself.

Says U. S. Had to Act.

"The reply is that the government waited many long years, too long, some think, for reforms to come from that quarter; and when 1929 arrived the futility of that expectation was made so clear that we should not again be asked to sit idly by still hoping for that which was not to arrive," he declared.

Mr. Bane said the sole purpose of the act "is to require truthful representations of security issues offered for sale to the public." The act confers no power on the federal trade commission to control the securities that may be sold, he pointed out.

"The commission is not called upon to pass judgment on the soundness or investment value of any security," he continued. "Indeed, there is nothing in the act which prevents the most speculative type of security being offered for sale. All that the act does is make certain its highly speculative character shall be made clear to prospective purchasers."

Common Honesty, He Says.

He declared it to be the simplest requirement of common honesty. "The amazing part of it is only that the enactment of this standard of fair dealing has brought forth from some quarters the cry that it is dangerous and destructive," he said. "This, I believe, is a cry which comes only from those whose hold upon the standards of the old finance gives way reluctantly before the more candid and more forthright standards of the present."

He explained the various requirements of the act in detail. "Formerly it was left to the judgment of the underwriting firms what the prospective investors should or should not be told," he said in summing up these requirements. "Now it is prescribed by law that at least certain minimum requirements shall be met, and that those charged with this responsibility shall be liable for the exercise of due diligence.

Question of Prerogatives.

"There is no criticism levied against this act on the ground that it aims to inform the investor, but it is attacked because it takes from the financial houses their ancient prerogative of deciding what information shall be given and what shall be withheld."

He said congress, in enacting the law, "saw fit to make it clear that half truths, which have been the stock in trade of many in the recent past, are untruths."

Speaking on the extent of the liability, in case of misinformation, he said: "Fear is expressed as to the amount of damages that will be recoverable should a violation occur. But the measure of liability is as reasonably determined as the nature of the liability. It springs not from mere misstatements, but from untruths of a material character—from asserting facts the falsity of which has added values where none exist. Losses that do not reflect the deflation that the discovery of the truth has brought are thrust upon the shoulders of those who speculated for gain.

Burden on Sponsors.

"Those losses that flow from the reliance of the investing public in the character of the statements that the sponsors of the security have made, these the act shifts to the sponsors whose carelessness or malfeasance was their cause."

Registrations that have been filed with the commission tell the story of the acceptance of the securities act, he said. He described them as follows:

"To Sept. 12, 227 registration statements have been filed, 115 of which are now effective, 27 of which have been withdrawn, 5 against which stop orders have been issued, and 80 of which are now being examined. These registration statements cover issues aggregating approximately $226,200,000. The character of these issues varies much.

"First to register were the investment trusts, a fact necessitated by the circumstance that these organizations are continuously offering new securities to the public. There followed a series of highly speculative issues, consisting mainly of breweries, gold mines and oil participations. Within the last few weeks, staid and conservative issues have been registered. Similarly recently a number of registrations have been received for certificates of deposit issued in connection with reorganization proceedings."

Talk of Capital Strike Idle.

He declared that "in the face of these facts, to talk of a capital strike induced by the securities act is either idle or deliberately intended to falsify. It neglects wholly the fact that the state of the capital market is such that financing is hesitant for reasons that go beyond the securities act. Even in issues exempted from the registration requirements of the securities act, the lack of financing is apparent.

"These facts are significant in demonstrating the shallowness of the motives of those who proclaim the securities act is a brake to needed financing."

BUTTER AND EGGS LOWER

Bullish egg news failed to hold the futures on the Chicago Mercantile exchange yesterday, the close being ¾@1½c lower. Butter was off a like amount on very light trading. The movement of eggs out of storage last week in 35 cities totaled 71,000 cases more than last year, and around 26,000 cases more than the five year average movement for that week. The daily four market movement was 18,000 cases — more than twice that of last year. However, the news did not check new selling and liquidation. November received fairly active news buying support. Butter trading was slow. Weekly reports showed the surplus gained above 4,000,000 lbs in 35 cities, and the daily four market movement increased the surplus 341,000 lbs. Sales: Butter, 20 cars; eggs, 258 cars. Prices follow:

New York, Sept. 19.—[Special.]—Severe pressure was exerted against the listed bond market today during the early hours of trading, substantial losses appearing in all parts of the list. Rallies late in the day, however, reduced these losses to some degree. All groups averaged lower on the day.

Trading was the heaviest since July 21, totaling $15,815,000, of which dealings in United States government bonds accounted for $2,705,000.

Closing prices for the actively traded United States government long term bonds ranged from 9-32ds off to 4-32ds up, with the treasury 3⅜s, due 1947, callable 1943, and the first Liberty 4¼s, respectively, representing the extremes of the day. By far the heaviest trading appeared in the new treasury 3¼s, due 1941, which lost 7-32ds of a point.

Rails Hard Hit.

In the domestic corporation bond list railroad issues suffered heavy losses, some of the greatest amounting to 1 to 9 points, with declines of 1 to 4 points in the majority. Public utility bonds suffered less than did the rails or industrials by virtue of the late rally. However, a number of issues of the utility group were down a point or more for the day.

Few issues of the foreign list made headway today. Even French government and municipal loans which have usually climbed on days when the franc has risen against the dollar failed today to set further new highs for the year, although some of the issues gained more than a point. Dutch East Indies loans turned reactionary, as did kingdom of Belgium issues.

Latin-American issues, in particular, were hard hit, many losing several points. Austrian government 7s due 1957, touched a new low for the year at 48 as did some of the German issues.

One of the principal advances in the foreign group was that of 3½ points by Swiss government 5½s. United Kingdom issues climbed fractionally, as did Swedish government 5½s.

Curb bonds closed weak with just a few issues showing gains for the day.

United Aircraft and Transport.

Investors' Guide: Will you please give me information on United Aircraft?—C. L. M.

Answer: United Aircraft and Transport corporation is one of the major air line systems. Transportation is the most important activity, although the company is represented in the manufacturing and airport divisions. Its lines extend from New York to Seattle and Los Angeles and south to Dallas.

Like its competitors, the bulk of its business is derived from the federal government. In the transportation end, air mail is an important source of revenue. In 1932 poundage dropped 31 per cent, due partly to loss of some contracts and partly to decrease in air mail as a whole, and revenues dropped 16 per cent. Express volume is increasing satisfactorily, but still is only a minor factor. Passenger transportation has increased substantially, partly as a result of installation of faster and more comfortable planes.

The manufacturing division has felt the decrease in government orders. This has been partially offset by demands for more planes from the transportation end.

Net income in the second quarter of 1933 was about 70 per cent ahead of the corresponding 1932 quarter, and income for the first half was $1,280,000, or 51 cents per common share, against $944,000, or 28 cents per common share, for the first half of 1932.

Earnings per common share before extraordinary items were 69 cents in 1932, 98 cents in 1931, and $1.33 in 1930.

At the close of 1932 cash assets of better than $16,000,000 compared with total current liabilities of $1,866,000 There was no funded debt. Capitalization consists of 150,000 shares of $50 6 per cent preferred and 2,086,671 shares of no par common. The company retired 90,000 preferred shares during the last year.

The company is one of the few in its line to come through the trying, experimental days of the industry consistently showing a profit. Passenger business is now substantial and express business gives indications of future growth.

Although dividends are being paid on the preferred, nothing has ever been paid on the common. The preferred deserves a fairly good rating. The common is speculative.

J. C. Penney Company.

mvestors' Guide: Will you please tell me what the latest sales figures for J. C. Penney company are?—R. A.

Answer: Sales of J. C. Penney company for August, 1933, were $14,203,842, a 32.2 per cent increase over sales of $10,747,070 for August, 1932. For the first eight months sales totaled $98,791,364. This was 8.0 per cent in excess of sales of $91,479,072 for the like period in 1932.
